CANADA HILL ITEMS

Mrs. Asha Worrell, of Baltimore, spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Josephine B. Koontz.

Mr. Josephus B. Koontz wife and two children, Mary and Eugenia, spent Sunday with his brother-in-law, Aarou Long, near Brummel.

Mr. William H. Koontz spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Henry Wampler.

MELROSE ITEMS

The Ebbvale Mining Co. is shafting, being confident they will soon find rich veins of iron ore.

The recent rains have caused the newly sown grain to come out nice and green. One man told me "Zepp, es nov en dous ant dauler weardt," meaning the refreshing rain.

Flies are plentiful. A man recently was in my office, who told me two roosters saw flies on sticky fly paper on a porch. Both were determined to have the flies, but after two serious trials and getting partly stuck on the paper with the flies, they abandoned the project, going after grasshoppers instead.

Our schools are in a prosperous condition. Although underpaid, considering the enormous salary the examiner receives, and noting what teachers in neighboring counties are paid, the teachers in our immediate neighborhood certainly are giving more than they receive. Tracey's school is under the supervision of H. T. Wentz; Wentz's, Lloyd Miller; Mt. Ventu's, E. W. Burgoon; Krideler's, Clayton J. Sauble; Ebbvale, Theo. Myers, and Bachman's, Bertram Strevig.

STORIES AT LESS THAN A CENT APIECE.

In the fifty-two issues of a year's volume The Youth's Companion prints fully two hundred and fifty stories. The subscription price of the paper is but $1.75, so that the stories cost less than a cent apiece, without reckoning in all the rest of the contents—anecdotes, humorous sketches, the doctor's weekly article, papers on popular topics by famous men and women.

Although the two hundred and fifty stories cost so little, they are not cheap stories. In variety of scene, diversity of incident, skill and truth in character-depicting, they cannot be excelled.

The Announcement for 1911, beautifully illustrated, giving more detailed particulars of these stories and other new features which greatly enlarge the paper, will be sent to any address free with sample copies of current issues.

Every new subscriber receives free The Companion Art Calendar for 1911, lithographed in thirteen colors and gold, and if the subscription is received at once, all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1910.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION,
144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass.

New subscriptions received at this Office.

THE PUZZLE FEMININE

(Pittsburg Gazette-Times)

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, the wife of the noted humorist preacher, has the courage of her convictions. In an address at Los Angeles the other day Mrs. Burdette boldly declared that woman's supreme problem is dress. Dispensing with both evasion and platitude Mrs. Burdette assumes that all women in our complex system of modern society and civilization regard "what they shall wear" as a paramount question to "what they shall eat." Women as a rule defend themselves against the masculine indictment as to their obsession in this direction, but Mrs. Burdette settles the question on the woman's side by a candid admission that for women "dress is the triple-headed lion that stands in every woman's path." But Mrs. Burdette is a constructive critic. Instead of attempting to force by ridicule and opposition a concession on the dress question that [illegible] some of the evils and ab-

THE POLICY OF PROTECTION

Bring the true old standard, boys, we'll win another fight;
Win it from the enemy who's now in
hurried flight;
Win it as we're used to winning every time we fight.
When we are led by Bill Baker.
Hurrah, hurrah, for protective policy;
Hurrah, hurrah, for true prosperity;
We have no Coxey's army so we sing
with merry glee
Since we have tariff protection.

There was once a gloomy time the people bought "gold bricks,"
And other things they thought were good from foxy "get rich quicks,"
And they thought to make them good
by governmental tricks,
So they assaulted the tariff.
Hurrah, hurrah, we think that time is past;
Hurrah, hurrah, the country's free at last,
We will not trade thanksgiving for the long and dreary fast
Which we had ere the protection.

So the people sought relief from the plight that they were in,
And they chose McKinley for they'd
confidence in him,
And he fought the battle in the way
'twas sure to win,
By giving us the protection.
Hurrah, hurrah, the plan that worked
so well;
Hurrah, hurrah, its worth no man can tell;
Until his precious wheat must at a half
a dollar sell,
When he's without the protection.

So we join the patriot hosts and march
to victory,
We know that William Baker always wins from J. Fred C.
And we'll raise a mighty shout when
this district is free
And we have won in November.
Hurrah, hurrah, for protective policy;
Hurrah, hurrah, for true prosperity;
We have no Coxey's army so we sing
with merry glee
Since we have tariff protection.

AGE OF HIGH AIMS

"Not a failure, but low aim, is crime," wrote one of the finest and truest American poets many years ago. And the most famous American pulpit orator of his generation declared that a man ought to be judged by his fellowmen, as would be judged by his Creator, as much by the day dreams he cherished and the impulses which welled up in his soul as by the things he actually did.

So it is with nations. Their aspirations, their earnest striving, their sincere purposes, test their character quite as much as their record of completed tasks. And any period in the history of the human race must be judged largely by the same standard. Circumstances may limit the performance of a people or a century, but hopes and desires and purposes are independent in the main, of external curbs and fetters. Often the mind blunders in trying to give effect to the high aims of the soul.

Keeping this test of the age in view, it is clear that these times are as remarkable for their social and governmental uplift as for their scientific and mechanical progress. The civilized world is filled with a noble unrest. It is more than blind discontent; it is a definite desire, deep and strong, for more complete justice between man and man and for the more equitable distribution of the opportunities and fruits of human progress. There is growing scorn of the predatory methods which laid the foundation of some of the greatest fortunes of the age. There is increasing consciousness of the fact that great wealth exists by reason of the general advancement of the race and that those who gain riches, on an enormous scale, owe their millions to the opportunities which a whole community or the entire country creates.

The Famous Angle Lamp

Never smokes or smells whether turned at full height or turned low like gas. It is not merely an ordinary lamp improved. It is of entirely new method of oil lighting. For simplicity and convenience of operation it is the closest rival of gas or electricity. For splendid reading light or artistic general illumination it is the superior of either. The angle at which the flame burns throws the best light from its most brilliant surface directly downward. The effect of the light is doubled, producing a reading light with which no other system can even compare. Yet the Angle Lamp is the most economical of all lighting methods. Costs less to burn than even the ordinary lamp—fully ½ less. But call and see it or write us for full description booklet.
