1872 August Castle Morris Enniskillen

The latter I know was republished in America. The former may have been so; but in London only second hand copies can be had. Were I in England, it wd afford me great pleasure to ask your acceptance of a copy of each, as a token, "quantulumcunque sit", of the gratification I have derived from your two kind letters and their resuscitation of the morning of long by-gone days.

It is, as you say, improbable that we shall ever meet again on earth. It may be - we shall soon meet in Heaven, there to dwell for ever on the wonders of redeeming love & the manifold mercies which a gracious God vouchsafed to us during our pilgrimage on earth. Among those to whom I shall ever regard the pleasure which your two letters have afforded me, & the happy scenes to which they have carried back my thoughts thro' the long vista of nearly half a century.

I am, my dear Sir,

Yours most sincerely,

(J. Boileau Elliott.)
