1872 November - December Cooper Horace

SIDE TWO

milk punch &c. and slept again till eight o'clock.

Ellen speaks with great horror of the way in which Dr. Agnew Thursday morning pointed out the "beautiful points" in the case to the the young doctors around the bed, "who look so amused and "interested", while poor Murray is being pinched and punched and doesn't seem to enjoy ~~the~~ illustrating the lecture at all, - from all of which I gather that the doctors are themselves very much more at their ease about him.

She says he got easy after the doctors left Thursday and that they "have had a good day".

Her letter was written late Thursday afternoon and she says he has been sleeping quietly or talking brightly all day and that he was asleep at the time of her writing. —

I write in great haste to catch the steamboat. —
