The injured man was taken to Hancock, where he was given temporary relief, and then brought to the hospital in Hagerstown, where Western Maryland surgeons attended him. Owing to the critical condition of the patient it was deemed expedient to take him to a hospital in Baltimore, and this was done on a special train. He was taken to the Union Protestant Infirmary. MELROSE.

On Friday evening Miss Gazella V. Wentz, one of our popular young ladies, living north of here, had a birthday but was not aware of it as her brother induced her to continue her work later than usual in Manchester. When she arrived home she soon learned that there was something unusual doing, as about sixty of her friends congregated at her home to bring her presents, good wishes and have a good time. The hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Wentz is well known, and when it was time to take refreshments there was an abundance of everything good awaiting the merry crowd and all did ample justice to it. After games, social fun and conversation, and wishing Miss Gazella V. many more happy birthdays, they all departed for their homes, well pleased with the evening's pleasure. String music, furnished by Minchey and Zepp, was much enjoyed. Miss Gazella wants to thank all who helped to make her birthday a success. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Wentz, Thurbert, George, Jr., Gasella, Walia, Edna, Lula and Helen Wentz. Misses Hilda Menchey, May Menchey, Pearl S. Strange things happen after nineteen years of faithful service. Mr. J. E. E. Shultz, the obliging Hanover baker, and his wonderful doy no longer make their bi-weekly trips from Hanover to Hampstead. We were pleased to greet him again on Saturday, as he passed through here on a business trip.

The German Baptists meeting house here in town was crowded on Sunday morning. Unless the weather is too inclement, there is always a full congregation present.

One of Mr. Geo. A. Houck's black horses got loose in the stable and kicked his mate, inflicting injuries that may prove fatal. The bruised horse is doing as well as can be expected.

Recently we saw a spring wagon with a dog on the front of it that wouldn't move an inch night or day. Any one who wants such a wagon and dog, can get one by consulting our blacksmith at the Eastern end of town.

BERNARD P. FOWLER FOUND DEAD.

Suspicion that Bernard P. Fowler had been foully dealt with was caused Sunday last by the finding of his dead body in an unfurnished house on Fair Ground Hill, this city. His home was near the pool of the Westminster Water Company, more than a mile further away, but he had placed a lounge and covering in the kitchen of the house where his body was found, and was in the habit of sleeping there The condition of the place appeared to indicated that a struggle had occurred. The floors in every room were tracked with bloody footprints, there was a pool on the covering of the couch, the doorways were smeared and wood beside a stove was sprinkled with it.

He was found lying on the stairway leading from the second story to the garret, with a crucifix lying at his feet. Tuesday night a jury summoned by Justice E. D. Shriver, acting as coroner, investigated the cause of death and concluded that it was due to hemorrhages, brought on by swallowing blood from the socket of a tooth which had been extracted the day before. It was known that bleeding from this had been profuse, and medical testimony was to the effect that swallowing the blood had caused violent vomiting and hemorrhage of the lungs. While bleeding thus, Fowler had wandered all over the house and finally sank exhausted and dying on the stairway. He was 48 years old.

The deceased was a son of the late Andrew Fowler and is survived by one son, Charles Fowler, now attending school in Baltimore, and by the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. W. Riley Myers, Mrs. Theodore Taylor, William R. Fowler, Josephine Fowler and Charles Fowler, of this city. His wife died several years ago.

The funeral services were held at St. John's Catholic Church on Wednesday at 9 A. M., Rev. J. C. Mallon officiating, and the interment was in the adjoining cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Messrs Meade Ohler, Joseph B. Boyle, George B. Shriver, C. Gloyd Lynch, M. John Lynch and Wilbur Weller. Messrs. F. A. Sharrer & Son were funeral directors.

JUDGE CLABAUGH STILL YOUNG.

Justice H. M. Clabaugh, of Taneytown, this county attended the banquet of Loyola Alumni Association held in the gymnasium of the college Tuesday evening. The Justice is a member of the association and during an address severely arraigned the "ambulance chaser" and the lawyer without character. He said:

"Did you ever know a lawyer of prominence, whose character was not developed so that his associates looked up and respected him? I never did. He loses prestige unless he be a man of truth. We see 'ambulance chasers and those who merely practice their profession for the money they are to get out of it. None of them has died with a great name to live after them. Here in Loyola we have character of manhood as the predominating influence in the teaching of the young.

Bids City Rally To Support.

"In my estimation the institution here is unique among institutions of learning. If Baltimore does not realize this characteristic and rally to the support of this college then it is dead to the benefits it has and is conferring on the young men of the city.

"It does not seem so many years since I was here kicking a football, though it is 40 years ago. But when you look at me I do not seem so old. I feel secure in saying, however, that my sons-in-laws call me the 'oldman.' They do not do it while I am around. I could lick both of them."

At the present season, everybody has a right, and should discuss the good road law, it amounts to just the same as the other say-so's of our time. We have had enough talk, its about time to act, or forever shut up. If they continue, they may reach the old story of the man who, one day walking along a certain road, noticed out in the middle of the road, a black hat. Reaching out with a stick he moved the hat and to his amazement found a man protruding from the mud. Speaking to him, he said: "Is it possible that the mud has acquired that depth?" The traveler was shocked to hear the man in the mud say: "I am standing on a load of hay." Gee, but that was some mud.

Let us Linotype your work.

SHIPLEY.

The weather is so uncertain now, that we cannot make many traveling calculations. The muddy roads and inclement weather of last Sunday, cut the time out of our young people's expectations and many a sweetheart didn't get to see her hopeful lover. Never mind, brave hearts, just remember that this is ground hog weather and that his hogship comes with the sale season. They must have a say once a year. The laboring class of our section is not able to be busy on account of so much propitious weather. The health of our community is fine and we hope it may remain so. Mr. J. T. Wagner's eye sight is improving slowly.

Mr. Harvey Frizzell, of Bloom, has purchased a big lot of ties and sawed lumber from Charles H. Wagner, of here. Mr. Frizzell informs us that he is in position to handle all the ties and lumber that he can purchase. The timber land here is getting scarce. What will the rising generations do for fuel and building lumber? Since the days of saw mills, stump pullers and dynamite, our farmers are now able to fell forest, to move stumps, and shatter rocks and make tillable all cleared land, and work alike both strong and delicate machinery over its surface with perfect safety to both man and beast. Who would have thought as much 50 years ago? Yet the Word of Life tells us there is nothing new under the Sun. So we can readily see what scientific education has been doing to bring to light the latest powers of creation and put them into public execution. Let the good work go on and with it a full development of spiritual power, such as shall destroy vice and build up paradicial kingdoms upon this beautiful earth. Let us all take a part in the good work.
