Maryland Classis, Reformed Church, Adjourns.

Maryland Classis, Reformed Church, which had its 92nd annual session in St. Mary's Reformed Church, this county, adjourned on Wednesday.

During the meeting numerous addresses were delivered by members on a variety of subjects. Rev. E. L. McLean in his address on "The Sunday School, a conservatory for the Church," brought out the fact that the Sunday school is the great preserver of the church in that it supplies the church with trained material.

Rev. George W. Snyder, D. D., in his address on "The Sunday school Teacher's Opportunity" brought out the fact that the teacher has an opportunity of moulding character as he or she wills and therefore should be very careful of teaching and example.

Rev. Stewart Hartman addressed the classis on the affairs of the Hoffman Orphanage, situated near Littlestown, Pa., and made a strong and earnest plea for the destitute children of the church.

The death of Rev. H. J. Macalister was reported and appropriate services were held.

The pastoral relations of Rev. C. W. Levans and St. Stephen's Church, of Baltimore, were dissolved, Rev. Levan having accepted a call to the church at Alexandria, Pa.

During the past year Revs. M. H. Sangree and F. W. Bald moved to other classis and Revs. J. D. Thomas, J. L. Barnhart and J. E. Klingaman were received into Maryland Classis

Committee on state of religion reported through its chairman, Rev. B. R. Carnahan. The report showed favorable progress in all branches of church work, and contributions made during the year to be as follows: For congregational purposes, $74,272.24; for Benevolence, $19,166.42.

The finance committee reported and apportioned the sum of $12,936 to be raised by the various congregations of the classis, during the ensuing year, for benevolent objects.

Memorial Day in Westminster.

A large audience assembled in Odd Fellows' Hall, on Tuesday afternoon, to attend the services of Memorial Day. Every seat was occupied and many stood through the entire service. On the stage was seated the choir, the speakers, Hon. W. E. Andrews, of ington; Commander Baer, of Burns Post; Postmaster H. P. Gorsuch, Genl. John R. King, Ex-Commander in Chief of the G. A. R.; Mr. W. Clark Coulbourne, of W. Md. College; Rev. W. H. Hetrick, of Grace Lutheran Church; Hon. J. W. Hering, Ex-Judge J. A. C. Bond, Mr. A. H. Huber Mr. John J. Reese, Mr. Northrop, Mr. C. C. Gorsuch and others.

The stage was decorated simply with a stand of musgets, from which hung a scroll with a picture with a G. A. R. veteran and a little boy carrying a flag with the motto, "Nor shall their memory ever fade, while time her record keeps."

Four chairs draped in black, each bearing the name of a comrade who has died during the year stood on either side of a flag draped table. The song service of old war songs, led by Mr. H. .... Kimmey, was an inspiring feature and the heartiness with which the audience and children joined in the choruses, inspired the hearts of every one present, "Rally Round the Flag," and "Dixie" being sung with enthusiasm by every one.

The second part of the program opened with prayer by Rev. Wm. H. Hetrick, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, followed by the beautiful memorial service of the G. A. R. under the direction of Commander Baer, reading the records of the dead by the Adjutant and crowning the vacant chairs with flowers by little Misses Esther Ebaugh, Mary Dillard, Hester Levan and Dorothy Reifsnider, representing the public school; rolling the drum by U. S. G. Brown, and singing, "The Missing Comrade," by Misses Adie Manahan, Jessie Starr and Messrs. H. M. Kimmey and Albert C. Mitten.

A fine choir under the leadership of Mrs. H. M. Kimmey, furnished the music. The choir, 16 in number, represented several of our churches and was as follows: Misses Addie Manahan, Jessie Starr, Grace Yingling and Annie Yingling; Messrs. H. M. Kimmey, Claude Kimmey, J. Ezra Stem, Guy N. Fringer and Albert C. Mitten, of Centenary M. E. Church; Misses Eva Herr, Katharine Lynch, Betty Knapp and George Armacost, of the M. P. Church, and Misses M. B. Shellman, Frances Seabrook and Dorothy Albaugh, of Ascension Episcopal Church. The soloists were Misses Manahan and Starr, and Messrs. Armacost, H. M. Kimmey and Albert C. Mitten.

The third part of the program, under the charge of Postmaster H. P. Gorsuch, was opened by him in a neat little speech in which he referred to the spirit of fraternity between the Blue and the Gray all over the land and introduced Mr. W. Clarke Coulbourne, of W. Md. College, a Virginia boy, who delivered clearly and gracefully, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. The anthem, "March of the Christian Soldiers," by the choir was followed by a stirring and patriotic speech by Hon. W. E. Andrews, of the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C. Mr. Andrews held the attention of the audience, and was frequently applauded, the children waving their flags and showing their appreciation of the portions of the speech which specially appealed to them. Genl. King was introduced to the audience and spoke a few words of greeting, and after the singing of an anthem, "Nearer to Thee," by the choir the benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. H. Hetrick. The march to the cemetery was inspiring. Led by Miss Mary B. Shellman, over 200 school children, in white, carrying flags and flowers marched as an escort to the small body of veterans, all that is left of Burns Post. A company of boys, Master Robert Dinst, captain, in uniform, with Messrs. Jack Bohn and Jack Worthington, standard bearers, and Master Lawrence Fink, drummer, and Master Billy Ditman, in Indian costume, led the children to the cemetery gate where they opened ranks and saluted the old soldiers as they passed through. Inside the cemetery, the chidren passed between the ranks of the soldiers, and formed a circle around the large urn in the center of the cemetery, where they sang "America" as only American public school children can sing it. After the ritual of the G. A. R. the choir and audience sang "Blest be the tie that binds," and the strewing of the graves with flowers concluded the exercises. The urn was decorated with a shield bearing the words, "One Country, One Language, One Flag. Scraps of gray and blue were knotted together and hung in graceful folds above it, and a wreath of laurel, with a ribbon bearing the words, "Reunited" and the flags crossed above it, and a bank of flowers and evergreen below was symbolic of the spirit of fraternity, which marked the day. The other cemeteries of the town were also visited and flowers and flags were placed on every soldier's grave.

A clear sky, a large and interested crowd of people, the fine program and the splendid behavior of the large number of school children, some of them tiny tots, learning their first lessons in patriotism, made Memorial Day, 1911, a notable one. The children of the Loyal Temperance Legion who owe so much to the training of Miss Lizzie Herr, were distinguished from the others by red, white and blue sashes and carried their own banner. They were in charge of Miss Stella Knapp.

A Narrow Escape.

On Wednesday evening Messrs Ercy Harver, of Frizellburg, and Chester Lambert, of New Windsor, two cattle dealers, went to the home of Maurice Angel, north of Taneytown, this county, for the purpose of inspecting a cow which Mr. Angel had for sale, within a few minutes after their arrival at the latter place a heavy thunder storm came up and Mr. Harver refused to go out into the field with Mr. Lambert, fearing the probable consequences of exposure to the storm. The storm increased in fury and both gentlemen concluded to remain in shelter.

After the storm a boy went to drive the cows home from the field and found the very cow they had come to inspect lying dead, she having been struck by lightning. She was a Western animal and had been tagged with a metal tag which was torn from her ear by lightning.

Mr. J. Wesley Hoffacker, of Manchester, this county, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harry B. Hoffacker, who with her husband, is spending a few weeks with her husband's parents, came to this city in an automobile, Thursday.

Mr. Harry B. Hoffacker, Deputy Register of Wills, who is spending a few weeks with his parents, in Manchester, this county, is apparently improving in health. A short time ago he had quite a serious attack but he is now much better.

Firemen's Supper and Festival.

Westminster Fire Engine and Hose Company, No. 1, is holding a supper and festival in its building on East Main street. The apparatus room has been decorated with flags, bunting, &c., and last night presented an animated scene. Under the efficient management of Mr. and Mrs. Gloyd Diffendal, assisted by Misses Lucy Wantz, Agnes Case, Jane and Mary Reaver, Lillian Brown, Flossie Handley, Laura, Emma and Maude Shaeffer, Mary Schwinderman and Margaret Eckenrode, the supper table did a thriving business on Thursday evening. It's a fine supper for 25cents. An ice cream table located to the left as you enter the building is in charge of the following young ladies, who seem to understand the art of soliciting business: Misses Sue Billingslea, Caroline Billingslea, Eleanor Fouke, Lottie Lee Billingslea, Margaret Bennett, Lillian Fink and Eugie Fouke.

The first table to the right as you enter the building is under the management of the following young ladies and if you escape them you may consider yourself mighty lucky: Misses Etta Yingling, Bessie Knight, Sarah Little, Ina Yingling and Florence Frizzell.

The second table to the right is in charge of the following young ladies, and a refusal to patronize it will amount to treason: Misses Catherine Lynch, Mabel Armacost, Margie Armacost, Ethel Steele and Anna Lynch.

The firemen need the money and you need the firemen. So do your duty.

BASE BALL.

Taneytown vs. Emmitsburg.

In a very interesting but snappy game of baseball played between the above named teams, Taneytown won by a score of 9 to 8. The features of the game were the all around playing of Jenkins, who had a home run and a three base hit out of three times up, and the batting of Benny Mehring. Had it not been for errors on the part of Taneytown boys, the score would have been 9 to 2.

Batteries, Jenkins and Clingan, for Taneytown. Twitter and Swallow, for Emmitsburg.

Notice.
