SIDE ONE

London July 13 1873

to Dr Caspar & Mrs Morris.

Dear Sir and Madam

Since 12 October 1872 when I left you with deep felt regret on board the Steamer at Liverpool I have not enjoyd the Pleasure of hearing from you directly indirectly through Mr Victor Morris who send my kindly a few lines concerning you now and then I came to the knowledge of the unpleasent mishape wich has befallen you in hurting your knee last winter we sincerly hope that you have entierly recovered from this accident and also dear Mrs Morris from her Sprained Ancle we never thought that it would take sutch a long time to be cured, if it would not be to great a Presumption on our Part we should be very glad and very happy to recieve a few linnes from you by wich you could assure us that you are both in Perfect health and good Spirits from a great deal of good we should so much like to be remembered to them before I close me letter allow me to thank you humbely and sincerly for your Kind attention and sympathy you so Profusly lavished on my whelst I was Suffering from Nevralgia on the Nile I am happy to say it has never since returned also for the kind words of advice you gave me at the moment of leaving you on board the Steamer at Liverpool those words are engraved on my memery and I never think of you without repeating them to myself and also putting them in Practice especialy where Patience is required I say of meself it is never to late to Mend with this Moral to sence I shall close my epistol wich I hope you will recieve through Mr G. W. Bacon who has Paid us a visite yesterday with humbl respect allow me to remain Sir and Madam your faithful servents
