LEE AND WARFIELD SPEAK.

Gorman's Record Attacked.

An enthusiastic meeting was held Tuesday night in the courthouse in the interest of Blair Lee's candidacy for governor. Senator Lee with ex-Governor Warfield, came to this city by auto, reaching Westminster at 7.30, and were met by Guy W. Steele, Mr. Lee's political representative in Carroll, Dr. Thomas J. Coonan, chairman of the Democratic County Central Committee, and others. While the party was at supper at the Main-Court Inn the First Regiment Band gave an open-air concert and the crowd waited patiently.

Soon after 8 o'clock, Mr. Lee and Mr. Warfield, accompanied by Mr. Steele, Gen. T. Herbert Shriver and Charles E. Fink, entered the courtroom. A large audience, in which was a number of ladies, greeted them enthusiastically. Mr. Steele called the meeting to order and introducced General Shriver, the chairman of the meeting. Mr. Shriver then introduced ex-Governor Warfield who for about an hour denounced Mr. Gorman as a reactionary who had put his hand in the public treasury and used the people's money to reward political hirelings and favorites. The speaker declared that if he would pursue a similar course as the head of the corporation of which he is president, either his resignation would be asked for or he would be prosecuted. He said in part:

Senator Lee has always stood for direct nominations. Senator Gorman has openly opposed primary elections, in which the people rule. At the time, two years ago, when the voters of Howard county were selecting delegates to the county convention to nominate candidates for the legislature, I took that opportunity of asking the voters in my precinct, Lisbon, to indicate whether they wanted the the privilege of nominating their candidates directly, or whether they wanted to continue the convention system that enabled a few bosses to select the candidates. There were present at the primary election about 130 Democratic voters of my district, and 117 voted for the resolutions. But 12 of the Democrats present (and they were the sub-bosses and workers) declined to vote on the question. A copy of these resolutions was sent to Senator Gorman when the legislature met, together with a list of the Democrats who voted for them.

"Mr. Gorman evidently fears to trust the people, and I take this occasion to ask him the direct question: Will he exert his influence and instruct his followers and workers in Howard county to vote for and advocate direct nominations? He has it in his power to make the adoption of this plan of nominations a certainty in Howard county, and I call upon him to let the people know where he stands on this most important question—whether he is with or against them."

When Senator Lee arose to speak he was greeted with round after round of applause. He said that he had come to speak of the differences in policy between himself and Mr. Gorman. This is an age of progress and politicians should go forward. If they will not go forward, people should have an opportunity to change leaders. Mr. Lee then took up the road question and spoke of the fact that Montgomery county had found defects in the Shoemaker law; that he had introduced an amendment to improve it, but could never get Senator Gorman to support it.

He then spoke at length of the differences between himself and Mr. Gorman on the direct primary. He said that on the income tax proposition they had been far apart, Mr. Gorman had been irregular, he had been regular. Gorman had opposed it vigorously. It would have passed strongly, but for the pressure put on members of the Senate by its president. You can judge a man a great deal better by what he has done than by what he says he will do. This is the simple test. This is the honorable test. It is your duty to look to the record. Both records are before the people. I am willing to abide by the judgment."
