Fell Into Lake Michigan and Drowned When Engine Exploded.

Two Aviators Fall to Instant Death.

Two fatalities in the great international aviation meet, held in Chicago, happening less than an hour apart, caused the death of William R. Badger, the wealthy aviation enthusiast, of Pittsburg, and St. Croix Johnstone, the latter meeting death when he fell into Lake Michigan and was drowned.

Johnstone's fall was the more spectacular fall of the two, he having ascended to a great height in a Moisant machine and was out over the lake, gracefully cutting through the air, when the engine exploded, causing the machine to take a swift drop into the lake. The aviator struck the water about three miles from shore and made a few feeble efforts to swim towards the motor boats that were rushing to his rescue, but sank before help could reach him. His body was later recovered.

Badger participated in the meet purely as an amateur. He was precipitated from his aeroplane, when it doubled up like a piece of paper, while doing a "dip" at a height of 150 feet. Badger's head was pierced by the ends of several broken rods when aviator and machine struck the ground. His neck was broken when he was removed from under the wreckage and he died on the way to the hospital. Both fatalities were witnessed by thousands of people who had attended the meet.

Robinson, in the hydroplane, identified the machine in the water as that of Johnstone. He said he was near Johnstone and saw Johnstone's engine explode. The plane fell rapidly into the water, but Johnstone leaped out before it struck.

Robinson says he was not more than 100 yards from Johnstone when the engine exploded.

"I started for him, but the engine dropped through the frame of the plane, the planes folded up and in thirty seconds Johnstone and his machine were under water. He seemed to try to dive from the wreckage but was unable to free himself. Although I hovered over the spot where he disappeared for ten minutes his body did not come to the surface. The engine sank into the water, but one corner of the biplane remained near the surface of the lake.

Captain Howard Kills Self.

Captain John Eager Howard died in Baltimore, Md., from the effects of a self-inflicted wound last Friday. For some time he had been in ill health and his relatives believe that the act was due to this cause. Captain Howard was eighty-four years old, a grandson of General John Eager Howard of Revolutionary fame, and a grandson of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner."

To Probe Iowa Penitentiary.

Governor Carroll has ordered an investigation to be made into the alleged improper conditions at the Iowa penitentiary at Fort Madison. Mistreatment of prisoners, unsanitary conditions and general negligence are alleged in charges which will be inquired into by a commission headed by Attorney General Cosson.

Brides Who Perch In Trees.

Among the Lolos of western China it is customary for the bride on the wedding morning to perch herself on the highest branch of a large tree while the elder female members of her family cluster on the lower limbs armed with sticks. When all are duly stationed the bridegroom clambers up the tree, assailed on all sides by blows, pushes and pinches from the dowagers, and it is not until he has broken through their fence and captured the bride that he is allowed to carry her off.

MORE ARRESTS ARE DUE TODAY

Six Other Coatesville Lynchers to Be Taken Into Custody.

CURIOUS THRONG THE TOWN

Crowd of 10,000 Persons Visit Scene of Coatesville Lynching In the Search for Relics of the Grewsome Tragedy.

At least ten thousand people Sunday visited the scene of the lynching of the colored man "Zack" Walker, the slayer of Policeman Edgar Rice, at Coatesville, Pa., and the charred pieces of fence rail which had not been entirely burned by the fire were cut into bits with penknives and carried away as souvenirs.

Other than this, the town was quiet. With the exception of Rev. W. H. Weatherly, colored pastor of a little Baptist church in the east end of the town, not a minister who preached in this place or vicinity gave utterance to an opinion on the subject of the lynching. Several who were interviewed stated that they felt that the people felt the shame of it sorely enough at this time.

The full confession of Joseph Schwartz has cleared the way for a final clean up by District Attorney Gawthrop. As the result of one week's work by this official there are now lodged in the West Chester jail seven men charged with murder. Three men have incriminated themselves and each other by their confessions and statements.

Up to date, under charges of murder are: Captain Al Berry, Joseph Schwartz, Joseph Schofield, Chester Bostick, William A. Gilbert, Norman Price, George Stahl.

Joseph Schwartz, fresh from his work at the rolling mill, was taken before the district attorney, Sheriff Golder and Assistant District Attorney Sproat and made a full confession that verifies what has already been told the authorities by the other prisoners.

It is said that the three men arrested Saturday night have given information to District Attorney Gawthrop which will lead to the arrest of six others who are said to have been leaders of the mob.

It is the opinion here that the probe cannot be carried on as strenuously this week, because the district attorney will have to make preparation for the August term of criminal court at West Chester, which opens within a week. The investigation will continue until about Wednesday, and then will be curtailed until after the session of the criminal court. None of the lynching cases will get before the grand jury until the October session.

Captain Cecil Wilhelm, of the state contabulary, was in Philadelphia conferring with some state officials. He returned to Coatesville, but said that he had nothing to give out at this time.

In his sermon Rev. Mr. Weatherly denounced the slaying of Rice and the lynching of Walker and drew therefrom a lesson for his congregation. He said that he entertained no bitterness against any one, but declared that the guilty should be punished for the good of the town.

The thousands of people who visited the scene of the lynching came away disappointed. With the exception of blackened grass and charred rails there was nothing to show that anything had ever taken place there. When the charred pieces of rails had been exhausted, the souvenir hunters started to chip pieces off the nearby fences with their knives until a considerable amount of the fence had been cut away.

The souvenir hunters came from all over the country by train, trolley, automobile and team. Parties motored from Philadelphia and other points. License tags showed that some came from nearby states.

CATHOLIC SOCIETIES GATHER

Papal Delegate Falconio Arrives In Columbus For Sessions.

Right Rev. Dimede Falconio, of Washington, apostolic delegate to the United States, and Anthony Matre, of St. Louis, secretary of the American Federation of Catholic societies, were among the dignitaries to arrive in Columbus, O., for the tenth annual convention of the society, which opened Monday.

The papal colors adorn the downtown sections, and many homes are decorated for what promises to be the largest convention in the history of the society. The convention was formally opened Monday morning with pontifical mass at the cathedral.

Bridegroom Hurt; Wed in Hospital.

Miss Viola Weiss, of Lebanon, and Harry Eissner, of Lemoyne, were married in a ward of the Harrisburg, Pa., hospital. Eissner, while working at the Pennsylvania Steel works, tore the tendon of Achilles in his right heel. They were to have been married at the bride's home.

Startled Schumann.

An amusing story of Schumann is told by a Vienna critic. The composer once accompanied his wife, who was even then a celebrated pianist, to the palace when she went to play before the king of Holland and was gratified by the monarch's compliments of her performance. The composer was somewhat surprised, however, when the king turned to him and courteously inquired, "Are you also musical?" They say Schumann was so indignant that he never spoke for an hour.
