We have called the attention of the city authority to the condition of affairs at the East End of town and hope something will be done in the matter before a serious accident happens.

If Colonel Roosevelt has enough votes to nominate him he should be given a square deal and if Mr. Taft has enough to nominate him he should be given the same treatment. Crooked politics only hurts those engaged in it and invariable results in disaster at the poles. Therefore gentlemen, play a clean, fair and honest game.

He who would eliminate the personal equation from a political campaign must be a novice in politics. If you don't believe the personal equation counts ask some of the fellows whe have been beaten because of the greater political and personal popularity of the other fellow.

Principles are, of course, the thing for which parties organized to sustain but in many contests they are entirely overshadowed by the personal popularity or unpopularity of the candidates.

The country is not going to go to the bad place if Mr. Roosevelt is elected president neither will it do so if Mr. Taft should be elected. It is very amusing to read some of the statements given to the press of the country by some of our so-called statesmen who call themselves Republicans. Mr. Roosevelt has made a fight for a principle of government and so has Mr. Taft and from the present appearance of things political it looks like Mr. Roosevelt has secured enough votes in the Republican National Convention to be able to write the principles which he has been advocating in the platform of the party. These votes were not all secured because of Mr. Roosevelt's popularity, as alleged by some of his opponents, but on the contrary came from sections of the country where voters have heretofore been opposed to the principles advocated by him. There seems to be a spirit of unrest all over the country and it is believed by many people, that while the principles advocated by him may not bring immediate peace and quietness, they will, at least, stop, for awhile the everlasting agitation of the tariff laws of the country and thereby give the business people a chance to do business on a fixed and solid foundation.

Nothing disturbs the business of the country as much as a violent attack upon the tariff laws. Everything becomes unsettled and the business of the country is plunged into a nervous convulsion.

If, on the other hand, Mr. Taft should receive enough votes in the national convention to enable his friends to write their views and principles in the platform to be adopted, the country need fear no violent attack upon the protective system which has been maintained by the Republican party, because if we understand the situation Mr. Taft is in favor of a tariff commission that will practically fix all rates with a view of affording the necessary protection to our industries and at the same time furnish the government with sufficient revenue to maintain itself. This plan also will bring peace and quiet to the people generally and to the business world especially. And as we said before, it will not ruin the country if Mr. Roosevelt is elected or if Mr. Taft is elected, because both stand for and both advocate measures which are calculated to bring about the very conditions desired by a majority of our people.

In the contest tbout closing between Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt, the personal equation played a very important part, as it always has and always will, and only proves again, what many people found out long ago, that a fairly popular candidate, who has a fair record of things accomplished, will defeat any candidate backed by the bosses or rings; and that the question of principles will count for little in such a contest.

MANCHESTER

Whit Monday Celebration

History will carry Whit Monday to future generations as a great day for Manchester. True, we have had days with more parade and demonstration but for crowd, sociability and general good time it was the best of any of its predecessors, The day dawned bright and clear with just enough breeze to cool the atmosphere and with the individual sprinkling the dust nuisance was little. A block north and south of the square on Main street was roped against vehicles which made it less dangerous and more pleasant for pedestrians. The Carroll County Reed Band was the first to put in an appearance and not only made a good appearance but did some good playing. The Alesia band in blue and white kept matters quite lively with their spirited selections, while the Miller and Son Merry-go-round accommodated the boys and girls with the best the gasoline engine could give them. There were other attractions which had their patrons. McCaslin and his performers in athletics, etc., were the drawing card during the afternoon and evening. While the crowds were swaying to and fro the ladies of the auxiliary were in readiness and at times quite busy serving sandwiches coffee, ice cream caramels etc. The morning attendance was respectable but by 2 P. M. there was not a hitching place vacant in any of the alleys or streets within the corporate limits, while stables and yards had their full complement of horses, besides the automobiles. Everybody seemed to be anxious to have a good time and get their share of the fun, amusement and pleasure which was going around. There was no desturbance of any kind so that the officers had a good time of it. Many families entertained friends and enjoyed a happy day.

At 7.30, as the shades of evening were fast gathering around us the firemen headed by the C. Co. R. B. marched down south Main street to Oak Tree avenue and thence to the cemetery and while the band discoursed appropriate music, with the pale moon shedding its light the members strewed flowers upon the graves of their deceased members Cleveland Myers, Charles Graf, D. H. Hoffacker and Billy Wilson, not forgetting Nimmy in their beautiful memorial work.

On Friday and Saturday evenings the 24 and 25 the Catholics had the Daugherty sisters, of York, Pa., in song and dance at their entertainment in the I. O. O. F. Hall. Miss Crumrine of Melrose, was fine in her recitation. The affair was reasonably well attended.
