My dear Dr Morris

It is proper that I should notify you, as the senior member of the Committee of Institution, that my connection with the Institution is at an end and that the duties of Chairman will then, I presume, fall to you until a permanent Chairman is substituted.

You will remember that I once wrote you to take the Chairmanship; in saying so I was sure that you were not only older in the service, but much better qualified for its duties than I. For your generous confidence and unfailing kindness during these many years I am deeply grateful. It has been highly valued and I shall never cease to remember it.

One or two things
