MANCHESTER

Prof. Stanley Bowlus is to be congratulated upon his success in advancing our schools to the efficiency they now hold, and no doubt he was proud of the showing he could make with the boys and girls in his room at Sunday evening service in Emanuel Lutheran Church, where the Rev. J. B. Lau preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the High school—Misses Treva Burgoon, Margaret Minning and Pearl Garrity. The Professor and scholars met in the Sunday school room of the church where the choir was in readiness to herald the oncoming of the school to reserved seats in the church. At the hour of service the choir marched up the aisle singing an appropriate selection, and the Professor and his scholars filed up the aisle to their seats. After the invocation by the pastor the choir rendered an anthem followed by prayer. A male quartet, Messrs. Smith, Geiselman, Reed and Hoffacker, sang a selection. Rev. Lau selected the words found in 1st Cor., 13 chapter, 1st clause of 9th verse, "For we know in part," as the basis for his interesting talk and made them applicable to the graduates with the encouragement that if they improve the future they too can reach the goal of higher education. Miss Edna LaMotte sang a solo during the collection. The congregation was large and much interest was manifested in the exercises. The altar and surroundings were nicely decorated with flowers. Much sympathy is expressed for Miss Gara Abkin, who made her mark and was numbered among the graduates, but a month ago was stricken with a nervous breakdown and was not able to attend school nor to meet the final requirements for graduation.

Mr. C. W. Stick has sold the goodwill, fixtures and furniture of the Hotel de Stick, Foundry Ave. and Main street, to Mr. David Barnhart, who conducted the hotel at Lineboro for several years. Mr. Stick retired and Mr. Barnhart took possession on Thursday, 22nd inst.

Messrs. Guy Hanson, Harold Frankforter and Charles Stump left here on Sunday morning at 8 o'clock for a century run. Their first stop was in Hanover, then in Littlestown and from there on to Gettysburg, where, after taking in some of the sights, spinning on the fine roads, they ran west along the foot of the mountain to Willow Grove where they met six Baltimore cyclists and commenced climbing the mountain grade. Reaching the summit they were spell bound by the grand scenery. Looking back they could see much of Maryland while in front of them lay the Cumberland Valley with Waynesboro and Chambersburg in sight surrounded by grand farming lands, with here and there a village. After taking in all this beauty the kodak was called into service and the most pleasing scenes were put upon the films. Their artistic pleasure satisfied they commenced the descent to Chambersburg where they made the run to the hotel. After registering and a general cleanup they were ready to do full justice to a fine dinner. After spending several hours in this fine town they left for home by the same route, with nothing special to attract them until between Littlestown and Hanover Guy found a tack, some one had dropped, and he picked it up with one of his wheels. But the little tack took the wind out of his tire and gave them an hour's holdup to repair the, damage. They arrived home at 5 P. M. with the cylometer registering 115 miles.

The committee that arranged for the Whit-Monday carnival are very much elated over their success and are loud in their thanks to the business men and all that contributed aid in making it a success. Expended: Performers $59.50, music 36.00, Miscellaneous $7.35, ice cream $14.50, total 117.35, leaving them $170.37 for their treasury.

The Codorus baseball team, of Jefferson, Pa., was here on Saturday and played our home team a good game. Loats and Miller were the battery.
