Deaths

MRS. RICHARD ZOUCK

Mrs. Katherine D. Zouck died at her home at Mount Carmel, Baltimore county last week at the age of 80 years. Her death was due to paralysis. She leaves her husband, Richard Zouck, a son, Mr. George Zouck, and a daughter, Mrs. Jacob Benson, Her funeral took place on Wednesday. Short services were held at the house, after which the body was taken to Mount Carmel Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Mrs. Zouck was a member. There a large number of neighbors and friends gathered to pay their tribute to the dead. The burial was in the church cemetery.

ROLAND E. BLOOM

Mr. Roland Edgar Bloom died Sunday, June 8, 1913, at 12.30 A. M., at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Bloom near Dennings, aged 16 years and 5 days. He was sick only from Thursday night until the time of his death. The cause of death was peritonitis. He is survived by his parents and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Claude Wilt and Mrs. Weldon Nusbaum, of Unionville; Mrs. Charles Barnes, of near Dennings, Misses Thelma and Frances Bloom at home and Messrs. Dalas Bloom, of California; Wellington Bloom, of Sykesville, and Holly Bloom at home. The funeral services, conducted by Rev. Mr. Fielding, were held Tuesday morning at ten thirty o'clock at St. James M. E. Church South and the interment was in the adjoining cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. Arthur Nail, Raymond Stuller, Chester Myers, Samuel Myers, Roland Farver and Albert Farver.

Mr. C. M. Waltz, of Winfield, was funeral director.

EDWARD M. FUSS.

After lying unconscious since the accident of Wednesday morning in which he was seriously injured, Mr. Edward Meade Fuss, of near Emmitsburg, passed away Saturday morning. While his condition was critical, hopes were held out for his recovery until just before death came. Concussion of the brain and other injuries were the cause of his death.

Mr. Fuss was hurt in an accident when his team of five horses hitched to a loaded farm wagon frightened at a train which was passing. At the time he was sitting on the "lazy" board. The lead horses turned completely to the left, broke the tongue and Mr. Fuss was caught in the dangerous position. It is supposed that he was knocked down and trampled upon while trying to control the horses. He was found in an unconscious condition in the road and later removed to the office of Dr. D. E. Stone, where every attention was given him. He could not be moved to his home.

Besides his wife, Mr. Fuss leaves seven children, ranging in age from about 6 to 23 years, none of whom are married. Mr. Fuss was about 50 years of age. He was a well-to-do farmer and well known throughout the section in which he lived. He married a Miss Baumgardner, daughter of Moses Bamgardner, of Carroll county. He was a son of the late Jno. Fuss.

JUDGE WILLIAM Y. FRIZZELL

Judge William Y. Frizzell, one of the best known and most popular citizens of this county, died at his home near Bloom, of heart failure, about 3 o'clock, Friday afternoon, in his 64th year, the 63rd anniversary of his birth having been in April last. For many years he had been prominent in business and political affairs in this county, was a director of the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank of Westminster, a director and local agent of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Dug Hill, Carroll County, Md., and had large landed interests in the neighborhood of Bloom, where he was also, at one time, engaged in merchandizing. He was a decided Republican, but free from political bigotny and offensive partisanship. This was shown by his popularity with memebrs of the Democratic party when he was twice a candidate and both times elected a judge of the Orphans' Court. The first time was in 1895, when the Republicans elected a number of their candidates, and the second time in 1899, when he was about the only successful candidate on the ticket. He was a genial, kindly and generous gentleman and had many friends all over the county. He is survived by two daughters and a son—Mrs. Aubrey J. Stem, of Winfield; Miss Goldie grizzell at home, and Mr. Harvey Frizzell of the same neighborhood. His wife died several years ago. Mr. Andrew P. Frizzell, one of the supervisors of election of this county, is his brother. He was a member of Door to Virtue Lodge No. 46, A. F. and A. M., of this city. His funeral took place from his late home on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended. The religious service was conducted at the house and burial ground of Salem M. E. Church by the pastor, Rev. C. H. Hall. The burial rites of the Masonic Fraternity were performed at the grave by Door to Virtue Lodge, Mr. H. D. Fowble, W. M., and Masons from Manchester, Hampstead and Mt. Airy participated in the service. The active pallbearers were Messrs. A. Claude Algire, W. Frank Thomas, E. Oliver Grimes, Jr., Ralph S. Reifsnider, C. B. Morton and Dr. J. S. Myers, of the lodge. The honorary pallbearers were Judge James A. C. Bond, William B. Thomas, George P. Panebaker, O. D. Gilbert, Frank C. Sharrer, David Stoner, J. Wesley Biggs, directors, and John H. Cunningham, cashier of the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank of Westminster.

The bride's gown was white embroidered voile trimmed in lace and carried a shower boquet of ferns and flowers. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Nellie Eckard, and Misses Helen Dudderar and Maude Gette. The groom wore the conventional black and was attended by Mr. Thomas Dudderar. Other guests were Mrs. Harvey Erb and Mr. Charles Smelser. After the ceremony the entire party, including the pastor and his wife, were invited to the home of Mr. Charles Smelser where refreshments were served.

JOHN REINDOLLAR LOSES LEG THROUGH ACCIDENT AT CEMENT WORKS, UNION BRIDGE

While at work about 9.30 o'clock Tuesday night in the plant of the Portland Cement Company at Union Bridge, this county, John Reindoller, 18 years old, of Union Bridge, had his right foot severed by coming in contact with an electric conveyor. Mr. Reindoller screamed as his foot caught in the machine and a number of companions working close by ran to his assistance, while others made an attempt to stop the machinery.

After being assisted to the company's office Dr. Foutz, of this city, was summoned and found it necessary to amputate the right leg below the knee.

From loss of blood Reindoller had become unconscious by this time and Dr. Foutz thought it advisable to take him to Baltimore. With the injured man in his car, the doctor made a hurried run to University Hospital, Lombard and Green streets, Baltimore. Here it was found that in order to save his life it would be necessary to amputate the whole right leg. Wednesday morning the patient was resting well.

Mr. Joseph Little has resigned his position with Mr. D. S. Gehr in order to accept a position with Messrs. Beaver and Witter, a new plumbing and tinning concern, of this city.

SATURDAY, JUNE 7.

At 6 o'clock P. M. on Saturday, the class of 1913 unveiled a beautiful stained glass window in Alumni Hall, a memorial to Alma Mater. The figure represents Euterpe, the muse of Music. It is a fine specimen of work from the Gettier studios and is the second in a series representing the nine muses, to be placed in Alumni Hall.

Other events of Saturday were the President's receptions to the members of the faculty and students.

SUNDAY, JUNE 8.

About 1,200 people, a number equal to one-third the entire population of Westminster, attended the baccalaureate service of Western Maryland College in Alumni Hall, Sunday morning. It was the most impressive service ever held in the hall. As usual, Luther's battle hymn was sung as the processional. All the undergraduate classes marched silently to the platform and stood with open ranks as the members of the graduating classes passed between to their seats. The processional began as the head of the class appeared and, reinforced by the music of a fine orchestra, was sung with great effect.

As usual, the Lutheran, Reformed, Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Protestant churches of the city were closed, and their pastors took part in the service, except Dr. Slagle, of the Reformed church, who was unavoidably absent. Rev. Wm. H. Hetrick, of the Lutheran church, delivered the invocation and led the Lord's Prayer; Rev. L. E. Bennett, of Centenary M. E. Church, led the Psalter; Rev. Dr. George R. Brown, of the Methodist Protestant church, read the Scripture lesson, and Rev. Dr. D. L. Greenfield, also of the Methodist Protestant church, made the closing prayer. Vice President A. Norman Ward read the Commandments, to which the students made antiphonal responses. Vice President McDaniel announced the various exercises to be held until the close of the commencement.

Before the first hymn was announced President Lewis made a short address, reciting his opposition to the entire secularizing of education, which is being practiced by so many colleges, and explained that the hymn, All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name, had been selected to recognize that power in education at this institution. At his request the first stanza of the hymn was sung by the 25 male students of the graduating class, and then the entire audience arose and sang fervently the entire hymn, including the first verse. During the service the large college choir sang the Sanctus, from the St. Cecilia Mass, and Great and Marvelous, from The Holy City. President Lewis delivered the baccalaureate sermon.

His theme was Essential Christianty, from the text, "One thing is needful." Luke x., 42. The incident from which the text was taken was briefly discussed to point out that our Lord did not decide which was the better woman, but which made the better choice in her ambition to please Him. Along with this incident was taken a fact of human nature: that we all are two-sided creatures; one part of us fitted for and best pleased with activity, and another for contemplation which often presses us down to perfect stillness by a weight of glory. Jesus would adjust these two elements to a perfect life and estimate fairly their values.

Taking these as guides for finding essential Christianity, it was first pointed out that Christianity is not a choice between what we are accustomed to call worldly interests and religion. If we were once convinced that in order to attend properly to religion we must cease to attend to the ordinary duties of life, it would make us atheists or hypocrites. For every man must live a worldly life in the sense that he must live his life in the world. So with the claims of labor we hear so much of in these days. The real claim of labor is its right to be considered a religion. But "to labor is to pray" only when the heart brings the labor to the altar.

What is usually considered "church work" was also tested by this principle. Who has not witnessed instances of men earnest and successful in church affairs prominent in leadership, who yet in the intimate purposes of the Head of the church are entirely out of sympathy with Him? Being busy will not save us, even though we be busy with honorable and useful matters. Service is good, but it is not necessary and it is not best; only love is best. We who talk so much about the commercialism of the age should beware lest there creep into our Christianity a more deadly commercialism.

So we must expand our notion of church work. Like a great business enterprise whose headquarters may be in a small office, but whose workers are all over the world, digging, manufacturing, advertising, selling, so the church as a building must be distinguished from the church as an organization; the one merely headquarters, the other, the real church, is the world.

The good part then is to sit at Jesus' feet and hear His word. Without this no man can be a Christian, and with this no man can fail to carry out the beneficent purpose of Christianity. To do this is not to lose one's self in loitering, dawdling over sentiment; but to be thoroughly converted to God's purposes and plans and imbued with His spirit. Then we are prepared to go and to work and to succeed or fail as He may please. For at last it comes to this, "The kingdom of God is within you." What a travesty upon Christianity when to be a Christian seems to be less worthy than to be an active Christian, a prominent Christian; when the adjective is more important than the noun; when Christ's cause is more to us than Christ Himself, and when doing something is more sought after than being something!

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Hugh L. Elderdice, president of Westminster Theological Seminary.

The service of the Christian Associations of the college on Sunday evening was conducted by Rev. Wm. H. Hetrick, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church. Hymns were sung by the students and congregation, which was a large one. The sermon, a very able, interesting and instructive one, was delivered by Rev. F. Watson Hannan, D. D., of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J., representing the Methodist Episcopal Church. The anthem, The Heavens are Telling, was sung by the college choir.
