The new residence in process of erection for City Councilman Howard E. Koontz, on West Main street, opposite Pennsylvania avenue, this city, is so far advanced as to indicate that it will be a very handsome structure and an improvement to that locality.

Rosie L. Wright, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wright, colored, died at the home of Isaac Bruce, in the rear of Webster street, this city, on Tuesday, aged 3 months, 5 days. The babe's remains were interred in Ellsworth Cemetery by Mr F. C. Sharrer.

The Sentinel has received a copy of an address on "The Railroads and Public Relations," delivered by Mr. J. Hampton Baumgartner, publicity representative of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, delivered before the Virginia Press Association, at Mt. Elliott Springs, Va., June 26, 1913. Mr. Baumgartner is a native and was a former resident of this city, and is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Baumgartner.

Mr. O. E. Weller, chairman of the State Roads Commission, has sent to the Sentinel an account of his impression of the condition of the roads of England and France, gained in a recent trip in those countries, on which he was accompanied by Mr. W. B. Miller, a member of the Commission. The communication will be found in another column and should be read by all who take the slightest interest in road improvement

Hail, which fell heavily during the violent thunderstorm Wednesday afternoon, did much damage to the growing corn in some sections of this county. Mr. Wesley M. Geiman, whose barn was destroyed by fire during the storm, was one of the sufferers from the other cause also, his corn having been badly cut to pieces. Mr. Charles Reese's fields, a couple of miles further up the turnpike, shared a similar effect and others in that section suffered considerable loss from the same cause. Wakefield correspondence in another column, tells of the damage done in that fertile locality. At Medford and vicinity windows were broken by the hail.

The improvement of the roads of this State on an extensive scale reminds the Sentinel that the late Col. Wm. A. McKellip was an enthusiast on the subject of good roads for Carrall county, and frequently expressed his views in public speeches and in the columns of this paper. His suggestions were either ignored or denounced by others, but if he had lived until today he would have seen the State undertaking the sort of work which he desired to have done in this county. He was only a few years in advance of his time. The Sentinel deems it due to his memory to remind its readers of his attitude on the subject.

Esten H. Winsburrow, of Front Royal, Va., a flagman on an extra westbound freight train, fell asleep on the track of the Western Maryland Railway, near Thurmont, at 1.30 o'clock Thursday morning and was hit by a train. He died at the Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown a few hours later without regaining consciousness. Winsburrow walked back to flag an eastbound freight. The engineman of the oncoming train did not see the flagman until the engine hit him. The train crushed one leg and tore his back and side. Fellow-trainmen pulled him from the track unconscious. Dr. E. C. Keefauver, of Thurmont, accompanied the injured man to Hagerstown on a special train. Winsburrow was about 25 years old and unmarried.

Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Harden and daughter Mary Louisa, of Herndon, Va., are spending their vacation with Mrs. Harden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Yingling and other relatives and friends in this city and county.

Joseph, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Summers, colored, died on Monday afternoon, at their home on Charles street, and its remains were interred in Ellsworth cemetery on Tuesday. It was about three months old Messrs. H. Bankard & Son had charge of the interment.

The Public Health Exhibit, prepared by the Medical and Chururgical Faculty of Maryland, with accompanying lectures, according to the program published in the Sentinel several weeks ago, has been claiming attention at the firemen's building, in this city during the past days of this week and will close today. The lectures have not been largely attended by the people, but the Exhibit has attracted considerable attention. Five subjects are illustrated by large pictures and explanations—Alcohol, Social Diseases, Tuberculosis, Mental Diseases and Care in Feeding Babies. Each subject is depicted with two cabinents of illustrations which convey much valuable information.

Deaths

SOLOMON S. SHOEMAKER

Mr. Solomon S. Shoemaker died Wednesday night at his home near Snydersburg, in his 59th year. Mr. Shoemaker was a native of Taneytown district. He is survived by his wife, who was a Miss Fowble, also of Taneytown district, and leaves one son, Clare Shoemaker, at home, and one daughter, the wife of Dr. J. H. Gardiner, of this city. Funeral services and interment will be at Harney tomorrow at 12 M. The funeral cortege will leave the home, near Snydersburg, at 7 A. M. Mr. F. C. Sharrer will be the funeral director.

MISS MARY E. LITTLE

Miss Mary E. Little, daughter of Amos and the lae Ellen Little, of this county, died in Baltimore on Sunday, 27th inst., aged 52 years. Funeral service was held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Laura Merrick, 1533 Oran avenue, Baltimore, at 7 o'clock, Thursday morning, after which the remains were brought to this city by the Western Maryland Railroad, and taken to Meadow Branch Church of the Brethren, where a service was held previous to the interment in the beautiful church cemetery, Elder Smith, of Baltimore, officiating. Messrs. Harvey Bankard & Son had charge of the funeral arrangements after the remains reached this city, and the pallbearers were Messrs. Harry Young, John Royer, David Petry, Uriah Babylon, Wm. H. Geiman and George Morningstar.

JOHN L. SHRIVER

Mr. John L. Shriver, youngest son of the late Wm. and Roberta Lynn Shriver, of this city, died on Friday last, at the State Hospital, Scranton, Pa., after an operation, at the age of 35 years, and his remains were brought to the Shriver home, West Main street, by his brother, Mr. Thomas F. Shriver, on Saturday. Funeral service was held at St. John's Catholic Church at 10 o'clock, Monday morning when a requiem mass was said by the pastor, Rev. J. C. Mallon. Mr. Shriver was an estimable young man and his early death is deeply regretted by his many friends. He is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Joseph W. Schneider, Miss Mary J. Shriver, Mr. J. Stewart Shriver, of Pittsburg, Pa.; Messrs. Thomas F., Wm. J. and A. K. Shriver, of Baltimore; Misses Bertie, Susan T. and Emma Shriver, of this city. His remains were interred in the church cemetery. The pallbearers were Dr. T. J. Coonan, Messrs. W. Frank Thomas, Jos. N. Shriver, of this city; Mark O. Shriver, Albert T. Myer, of Baltimore; Bernard Shriver, of Union Mills. Mr. F. C. Sharrer was funeral director.

EXPIRING TERMS OF POSTMASTERS

In a list of postoffices in this State, with the names of the postmasters and the dates of the expiration of their appointments, recently published, the following in this county are given:

Hampstead—W. A. Murray, December 15, 1914.

Mt. Airy—W. R. Rudy, January 28, 1914.

New Windsor—A. E. Lambert, May 18, 1914.

Sykesville—Asa Hepner, January 24, 1914.

Taneytown—R. S. McKinney, March 28, 1914.

Union Bridge—M. C. Keefer, January 15, 1916.

Westminster—H. P. Gorsuch, March 17, 1914.

Woodbine—F. T. Buckingham, August 6, 1916.

The terms of fifteen postmasters in other counties have already expired, others will soon expire, but there are about twenty-four whose terms will not expire till sometime in 1915 or 1916.

WAKEFIELD

Mr. I. N. Stoner is putting water through his house; also bath room fixtures. Ensor & Graybill, of New Windsor, will do the work.

Mr. G. G. Bixler is having his buildings painted. Truman Babylon, of Frizellburg, is the contractor.

Mrs. Williamson, of Baltimore, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Belt recently.

One of the most violent hail and wind storms ever known here passed over this section on Wednesday, doing hundreds of dollars damage. One of those who suffered the greatest loss is Mr. Samuel Roser. His wagon shed was blown to pieces. It had the following articles in it: 3 falling top buggies, spring wagon and a gasoline surrey, all of which were a complete wreck. Growing corn in some places is cut to the ground, leaving not one half standing and that looks like bean poles, with nothing on them. It is estimated that those who suffered from the hail will not have more than 2 bbls. of corn per acre. Trees were uprooted, silos smashed to pieces, as though made of glass. Some roofs were also reported to have been blown off. A heavy rain followed, and fell in torrents washing fields and roads and causing streams to overflow their banks and wash fences away.

METH. PROTESTANT CHURCH

The Sunday School and Lecture Room, renovated and beautiful, will be reopened. The school will assemble at 9.30 A. M. Dr. Thomas H. Lewis and Dr. H. L. Elderdice will be in charge of the morning service at 10.30 o'clock, a platform meeting will be conducted by laymen. All the services will be held in the new room. Miss Wright, of Montclair, N. J., will sing. The choir will be reenforced by the young singers of the school and church. Come and bring your guests and friends.

THE CAPITAL SWEPT BY STORM

A rain, hail and windstorm of great violence swept over Washington City Wednesday afternoon, carrying death and destruction in its path. Many houses were unroofed, plate glass windows were broken by hail, 5000 or more splendid shade trees were blown down and a three-story brick house at 7th and L. streets, northwest, was blown down, killing three persons and injuring others. The streets were strewn with the limbs of trees, roofs of buildings, bodies of birds and other debris. Altogether it was the most violent and destructive storm ever experienced at the national capital.
