Storm Details.

Details of the storm of Sunday night and Monday show that 128 barns, dwellings and other buildings in Frederick county were demolished, badly damaged or unroofed.

The loss, at first thought to be about $100,000, will reach $200,000. In the section of Burkittsville and Catoctin, the damage was quite heavy.

At Emmitsburg the schoolhouse was badly damaged and barns were either blown down or damaged.

The blizzard did thousands of dollars worth of damage in Kent county. The roof on the dwelling on Harry Willis' farm, near Betterton, was swept away and a large windmill on the farm of Edward A. Covey, near Fairlee, was blown down. Wires all over the peninsula were down.

Wind, snow and fire marked the progress of the storm in Harford county. A dozen or more homes throughout the county were destroyed by fire. Several handsome residences were among those burned. In Havre de Grace fires added to the terror of the storm. Residents remained on watch all night Sunday night, and the minute the alarm of fire was sounded half of the men of the town left their homes to help the firemen fight the blaze to prevent it from being carried further by the wind.

Snow drifts were said to be five or six feet deep and Havre de Grace was practically snowed in.

Denton seemed to be the center of the storm for Caroline county. Chimneys were blown down and trees were blown across the streets. It is reported that the county was in the grip of the worst storm it had ever experienced.

Senator Shepherd, of Dorchester county, said that conditions in his section of the state were beyond description. Trains were delayed from 13 to 15 hours. A terrific snowstorm accompanied the wind.

The storm in Baltimore county was the severest experienced for many years and it was estimated that in some places the wind reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour.

Houses were shaken, shutters were broken from the hinges, trees uprooted and wires blown down everywhere.

Reports from Anne Arundel county and especially in the neighborhood of Glen Burnie, were that the sections experienced the worst windstorm in the memory of the residents.

A northeast storm, swerving to the northwest, which brought first rain, then snow, raged over New York and vicinity Sunday, cutting the city almost completely off from telephone and telegraph communication. Three deaths due to the storm occurred here, two of them occurring together, when a roof over the sidewalk collapsed under the weight of wet snow, crushing a man and boy. Another man blinded by wet snow, was killed by a train. Several persons were overcome by exposure and a number were injured in street accidents. The wind attained a velocity of from 72 to 80 miles an hour.

At Albany, N. Y., hundreds of telegraph, telephone and electric lighting wires were down. The property damage to public utilities corporations in Albany and vicinity is estimated at $1,000,000.

Geneva, N. Y., was in the grip of the worst snow storm that it has experienced in many years. Snow in the business section was six feet deep. Interurban trolley service was badly crippled. The mercury stood at 10 above.

It is impossible to estimate the damage caused in Baltimore City by the storm through fire, the destruction of roofs, windows and other property. The lowest estimate would be at $600,000. This would make no allowance for the loss caused by the blockade of traffic on the railways, the breaking down of the telephone and telegraph wires, etc.

The frame office of James Keelty, a builder and contractor, which was standing at the Northeast corner of Ashburton and Edmondson avenues, was blown to the opposite side of the street. It was turned over and the contents, consisting of tools, lamps, etc., were scattered over the street.

Fifteen roofs were carried away in the 1800 block of Ensor street. Sections of roofing, loose bricks, electric signboards and fragments of glass rained down upon the streets like shot and shell over a besieged city.

The wind attained a velocity of fifty miles an hour.

Telegraph and telephone wires were blown down and also signs, awnings and fences.

Baltimore was cut off from railroad, telegraph and telephone service with New York.

Three distinct earthshocks were felt by residents near Druid Hill Park, in Northwest Baltimore.

Shipping on the river and Bay was practically at a standstill.

MANCHESTER

The late storm in its onward course did not pass us by but came upon us about noon on Sunday with a driving wind and a fine sprinkling of snow, which as the hours passed, continued to increase and by full evening the winds had gained a velocity to fairly make buildings tremble and continued furious during the night, so that by morning on Monday roads were blocked. Our pavements at places were piled with drifts 3 and 4 feet high, solid enough to be walked over without an impression. As the day advanced the snow fall increased, driven furiously in all directions into every crack and crevice. Travel was held up, streets deserted, while everybody was busy attending to their fires to be comfortable. Towards evening there was a let up for a short time only to be succeeded by an all-night blow. At this writing travel has resumed and Old Sol has played havoc with the snow on southern exposures.

For some years the subject of having a water plant for the town has been agitated but only spasmodically while it was the prevailing subject for some time it would gradually settle to a rest until something special would again call it into action. It has been a subject in the meetings of the present Mayor and Council and in order to bring it to the attention of the citizens they gave each citizen a printed notice of a public meeting in the Firemen's hall on the evening of the 24th ult., that brought out an overflowing attendance. After being called to order the subject was presented and the importance of immediate action to have the legislature to pass an act empowering the Mayor and Council to issue bonds for the payment of the water plant. It soon brought about a free discussion and after the pros and cons had fully ventilated the matter a motion prevailed instructing the Council to employ a practical man to come here, look over the proposed location and furnish a report with an estimate of the cost. The services of Mr. Frank Myers, of Westminster, were secured who was here last week and took in the situation but up to the time of this writing he has not made his report, which will be laid before another citizens' meeting to be acted on.

The members of Daniel and Jacob Lodge No. 23, I. O. O. F., with their families held a social and annual banquet in their hall on Friday evening, 27th ult., which was largely attended. The committee having it in charge had it arranged that suppers were furnished from 5 to 9.30 P. M. During that period 134 suppers were served in the banquet room. The room was attractively decorated with the lodge colors while the appointments of the tables were O. K. and inviting. Dr. H. M. Keller was an all around manager and saw that everybody was well served by the Misses Treva Lippy, Anna Shultz, Mary Miller and Treva Burgoon. After all were served and while the gentlemen were enjoying a smoke the audience filled the period by singing old time songs with Miss Edna Lamotte at the piano. This through at the fall of the gavel Dr. T. S. Land was called to the front and gave an interesting talk along social and intellectual lines followed by singing the I. O. O. F. ode. Recitation, "My Neighbors Call," Gertrude Abkin; piano solo, Treva Burgoon; recitation, "Odd Fellows' March," Miss Fannie Shower; piano solo, Mae Musselman; address, Rev. J. B. Lau, who spoke on the words, "Go thou do likewise," followed by illustrated scenes and songs by E. W. Gregory. During this period Mrs. Emory Berwager presided at the piano and Miss Edna Lamotte vocalist. The following committee had the affair in hand: E. W. Gregory, H. M. Keller, Albert Brilhart, J. W. Burns and J. R. L. Wink.

Graf had driven and were united in the bonds of wedlock by the Rev. J. B. Lau in the presence of a few friends. After the congratulations they went to their sleigh and found the cushions gone and at once saw the trick, but they enjoyed the ride to the home of the brides's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Graf, just north of town where twenty or more friends extended their congratulations and good wishes for a prosperous wedded life, after which all enjoyed a pleasant social evening as well as abundant refreshments. The bride was dressed in steel grey with white hat and plume. The groom wore the conventional black. The presents were beautiful and useful. May theirs be a long life of happiness.

The members of the penny club were entertained on Wednesday evening by Miss Mildred Hanson. The collection was $1.45 and the time was enjoyed with select reading, vocal and instrumental music and parlor games which carried with them lots of amusement. When the halt was called the hostess of the home served fine refreshments which all enjoyed. Besides the members Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Lau, Mr. and Mrs. W. D Hanson, Misses Carrie Lamotte and Winnie Masenhimer and Ruth Crumrine were present
