My dear Dr. Morris —

Please forgive my long silence of your kind letter. I read it with peculiar feelings of gratitude to you, who so promptly came to sympathize with me in my new sorrow, and with most tender remembrances of your loving interest in me since my severe sickness when a boy. For all this, as well as for your loving friendship with my father and my brother I do thank you. I have been so busy, ever since my brother's death, that it has been impossible for [illegible] child. If it is so different [illegible] when we were home as children [illegible] and or strange to write - but it is comfort to receive from his earthly home, so far just that our [illegible] be made. He teaches us, by all his dealings towards us, that we are but [illegible] children, who must be taught by faith. There is in my - that heart to realize that God is doing - that - that. He cannot wander and - infinitely that love [illegible] and [illegible] chastening us.

Pray accept my sympathy with you in your [illegible] loss from your [illegible] friend
