MEXICO

Nothing Doing

The above headlines about describe conditions between the United States and the Federals of Mexico. Further action by this country has been halted by the acceptance of mediation between the President and Huerta on the part of Argentina, Buenos Ayres and Chile and an agreement for an armistice.

In accepting the good offices of the three South America Republics President Wilson stipulated that Huerta must be absolutely eliminated from the proceedings and must take no part therein. But the usurper pays no attention to the demand and will probably refuse to retire.

Columns are being written and printed in the daily newspapers describing the situation, but, boiled down to the simple fact, it can only be said that this country is doing nothing, beyond preparing for war, if that shall become necessary, as it is more than probable it will.

To say the least of it there is a weakness in the attitude of President Wilson that cannot be explained. He protests there is no war, yet agrees to an armistice. Makes the elimination of Huerta a condition precedent to the proposed mediation, but agrees to the mediation. And the wily Mexican dictator takes advantage of the inconsistency to gain time and carry out his own plans, with probably no intention to permit himself to be eliminated.

In the meantime Villa is carrying on his war against Huerta, though it has been asserted that the Constitutionalist leaders are ready to agree to the mediation. And the only apparent effect of it all is to delay and procrastinate the situation for an uncertain period, not indefinitely, perhaps, but until the patience of the American people shall become exhausted with the perplexed administration.

The Mad Dog Scare

Mr. Guy Leister, while plowing on the farm of his father, Mr. Abraham Leister, on the Sullivan road, nearly two miles from this city, on Friday afternoon, noticed a strange dog running about the field and acting in a peculiar manner. Suspecting the animal was suffering with rabies he procured a gun and shot it to death. The fact was made known in this city and on Sunday morning Mr. George Jones, Mr. Harry C. Albaugh's barkeeper, went out to the Leister farm and secured the dog's head, which was taken to the Pasteur Institute in Baltimore by Mr. Charles N. Mitten. There, it was learned by the process used in such cases, that the dog was undoubtedly mad. Now the question is mooted whether the animal was or was not the dog that bit Mr. Harry Ditman and Mr. Harry Albaugh's little daughter, and attacked other persons in this city on the previous Monday night. Mr. Jones, who procured the head, it is said recognized the animal as the same and other persons, it is stated, are of the same opinion. Mr. Ditman, however, who went out to the Leister farm to see the dead dog, declares positively that it was an entirely different animal; that it was of partial collie breed, with long hair, and was a female with signs of having recently suckled pups. While he was notified by Dr. H. M. Fitzhugh that the animal was unquestionably mad, and was asked by the Dr. to meet him at the Pasteur Institute, he declares his unalterable opinion that it was not the dog that bit him, and says he believes that dog, after having been saturated with turpentine by some malicious persons in the neighborhood of Warfieldsburg, and then turned loose with several tin cans tied to its tail, has returned to the home of its owner at Warfieldsburg, and is now all right. Who is right about it is now an interesting question.

WALKLING—MAGIN

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Magin, of Smallwood, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, April 22, when Miss Jeanetta Magin became the bride of Mr. Charles E. Walkling, of Sandyville. Both of the young people are very popular and are loved by every one that know them. The bride's costume was of white silk trimmed with duchess lace. Her ornaments were pearls. The flowers that were worn by the bride and groom were white carnations. The bride and groom received many congratulations by a host of their good friends that gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Magin. About 9 o'clock in the evening when the happy crowd were having a jolly time they heard a noise and there came music of all kinds from about 75 serenaders who met them at the front door, cheering the bride and groom for a long and happy life.

The young couple have the best wishes for the future by the whole community.

WELLAR—ADAMS

Miss Mabel Adams, of McSherrystown, Pa., and Mr. Harry S. Wellar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Wellar, of this city, were married Tuesday, 28th inst., at a Catholic Church parsonage in McSherrystown.

The bride was gowned in a traveling suit of blue with white hat and gloves and the groom wore the conventional black.

The attendants were Miss Bertha Lippy and Mr. Francis Rhineman. A splendid reception followed the ceremony at the home of Mr. Chas. Klunk. The groom is a popular young man in this city where he has many friends. He was at one time one of the Sentinel's printers, but at this time he holds a position with the B. F. Shriver Company, of this city. Among the guests present were: Messrs. and Mesdames J. H. Wellar, Harry H. Harbaugh, of this city; Virgie Weaver, Lloyd Klunk, P. E. Luekenbaugh, Misses Catherine Klunk and Katherine Millison, of Hanover, Pa.; Miss Bertha Lippy and Mr. Francis Rhineman.

Although it was a very busy time there was a goodly turn out of members and visitors as we are always entertained so cordially by our hostess. As our president was absent the meeting was opened with the vice-president in the chair. Business was transacted. Roll was called and collection amounted to $2.70. The society decided to paper one of the rooms of the parsonage. We received one new member. An invitation was received by the society from Mrs. Kate Wagner to hold its next meeting at her home which was promptly accepted. It was then decided to hold the meeting on May 22nd instead of the last Friday in May as that would interfere with the convention to be held at that time at Deer Park Church. It was then moved to adjourn, we closed singing our closing hymn. Last but not least refreshments were served and the good things promptly disappeared. All then departed for their homes. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Grove Shipley, Mesdames Catherine Barber, Lizzie Davis, Daisy Gorsuch, Mamie Shipley, Sadie Ditman, Emma Bauscher, Octavia Saddles, Laura Wagner, Catherine Wagner, Fannie Buckingham, Annie Buckingham, Annie Frizzell, Fannie Davis, Margie Welsh, Alice Spencer, Emma Nicholson, Bertha Miller, Mary Beard, Nicholas Barber, Kate Lockard, Pearl Davis, Julia Reese, Misses Amanda Williams, Emma Williams, Pearl Lockard, Virgie Davis, Carrie Buckingham, Minnie Shauck, Carrie Nickols, Estella Bowers, Rosa Spencer, Elizabeth Williams, Ellen Buckingham, Ruth Davis, Mae Davis, Ella Barber, Edna Barber, Mamie Shipley, Eva Davis, Messrs. THE SPIRIT OF THE MILITIA

There is a different spirit in the National Guard organizations than prevailed previous to the Spanish war. Then few of the militiamen had any idea that they would be called on for service away from home. They looked at themselves as organizations formed purely for police work in their own states.

The chaos following the attempt to use the militia in Cuba taught a needed lesson. A closer relation with the regular army was formed, although the militia is not yet as readily available in case of war as it ought to be.

During recent years the National Guard has been kept in close touch with the regular army. The possibility of such service as may be necessary in Mexico has been emphasized. Lamentable as is the present situation, the soldierly spirit manifested throughout the militia may well be a source of pride.
