IRISH HOME RULE BILL PASSED

The Irish Home Rule bill has passed the English House of Commons by 357 to 274. Having been passed three times, through all its various stages, at separate sessions, the House of Lords cannot veto it. It will be discussed by that body, an apparently useless provision, but doubtless simply to give the Peers an opportunity to express their opinions for and against it. The Ulsterites, it is said, cannot be reconciled to it and will resist it by force. It is impossible that in that course they can be successful, but they may greatly embarrass the government by their determined opposition. John E. Redmond, the Irish National leader, prmoises that such changes shall be made in the bill as will tend to reconcile the Ulsterites to its practical operation, but that does not seem possible. Of course the people of Ulster will not commit any overt act of resistance, if at all, until such time as the new order of things may go into practical operation, unless, indeed, some action shall be taken by the British Ministry to anticipate trouble by quartering troops in Ulster. The effect of such a movement might end, as has heretofore been intimated, by a revolt on the part of the soldiery and their officers. Occupied as the minds of the American people are with our relations to Mexico, not much attention will be given to the possible effect of the final adoption of Irish Home Rule, but it is, nevertheless, a subject upon which Americans can hardly be indifferent, no matter on which side their sympathies may stand.

FOR CIVILIZATION AND HUMANITY

The American who can contemplate the work of his country for civilization and humanity, during the last sixteen years, without a thrill of pride in its achievements, must have little conception of what it has accomplished in that period. It is not a matter of wonder that Madero, the murdered president of Mexico, called this the greatest country in the world. Yet there are many of us who are not familiar with some of the things this government has recently done for other peoples than its own. All of us know of the overthrow of the tyrannical reign of Spain in Cuba and the establishment of a republic in that great Island, with the prospect of an orderly and successful career as an independent nation. That alone should challenge the admiration of the people of the civilized world. But in comparison with what has been done to elevate the native inhabitants of the Philippine Islands the freedom and order of Cuba and its people pale into insignificance.

In other columns of the Sentinel this week will be found an article by Gen. Frank McIntyre, U. S. A., chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, taken from the Youth's Companion of the 14th inst., in which he tells, briefly, the story of what has been done by the organization known as the Philippine Constabulary, to bring about order and respect for government among the wild and warring tribes of the various islands. How brigandage, pillaging, robbing and indiscriminate murder have been suppressed and organized bands of thieves, plunderers and cutthroats have been overthrown and destroyed, while the people generally, the wild and untamed men of the islands have been brought to respect law and order and to honor the nation, they once hated and feared, because it is bringing to them these blessings.

As told by Gen. McIntyre the story reads like a chapter from romance. Yet it is a story of achievement of which any civilized nation may be proud. It is not a story of oppression and wrong, but of sacrifice and effort for the welfare and permanent uplifting of the people in whose behalf the effort is made. Those who stigmatized President McKinley and his supporters as imperialists, when this work was begun, should revise their vocabulary and find a better word to express their understanding of what was purposed and what has been accomplished. It is well known that the reclamation and elevation of the natives of the Philippines was not an ideal dream with the martyred President. And his successors, Roosevelt and Taft, well carried on the work which he had conceived. Perhaps Taft, because of his knowledge of conditions in the Philippines, and his ability to bring order out of chaos, has done more than any other, to carry forward the great work for humanity, in the islands begun in McKinley's time. But it is not to the exclusive honor of any one man, but to the credit of this great American people that their representatives have been sustained freely in their work.

So much has been done that it is possible to look forward to a time when absolute independence may be granted to the Filipinos. But that time is not yet. Much has been done towards fitting them for it, but much yet remains to be done. A great factor in that consummation will be this native constabulary, an organization of which so little is known by the people of this country, and of which the article written by Gen. McIntyre for the Youth's Companion should convey information to its multitude of readers.

THE MEXICAN PROBLEM

It is impossible to see the end from the beginning of the A. B. C. mediation in progress at Niagara Falls. As an effort to reconcile differences between this country and the government set up in Mexico by Huerta, it will probably be without result, or, at least, without binding effect. If newspaper stories could be credited, Huerta has determined to die in the last ditch, rather than permit himself to be eliminated from the controversy and retire. And it is just as certain that this country will have none of a Mexican government in which Huerta shall have a voice, even remotely. Nothing can, or should, be consented to by President Wilson that does not provide for a fair election of a President of Mexico by the untrammeled voice of the whole Mexican people. And that is one of the things that borders on impossibility. It is possible, however, that as mediation drags slowly along the problem of what is to be done with Mexico will be solved by the overthrow of Huerta and his government by the military successes of Villa. The Federals have nowhere been able to withstand the attacks of the Constitutionalists, or to stay the onward progress of Villa toward the City of Mexico and the supreme control of the country. It is impossible to foresee what complications may arise by the forcible elimination of Huerta and the triumphant success of Carranza and Villa. And so the long waiting of the United States for a solution of its troubles with Mexico will still continue when there shall no longer be a Huerta to be reckoned with. This is a mighty good time for the President and people of this country to cultivate the grace of patience.

STATE EDUCATION ON HIGHER PLANE

First steps were taken to place university and collegiate education in Maryland on a higher plane when Governor Goldsborough, in compliance with an act of the last legislature, appointed six regents, one from each Congressional district of the Maryland State University, an institution created by co-operation of the several colleges and professional schools of the State. The regents appointed by the Governor are:

Fred H. Fletcher, Cambridge, First district.

Robert Garrett, Baltimore county, Second district.

William P. Ryan, Baltimore, Third district.

Slyvan H. Likes, Baltimore, Fourth district.

Oliver Metzerott, Prince George's county, Fifth district.

John E. Edwards, Cumberland, Sixth district.

The several regents will serve different terms—two, four and six years. Under the law they must not be affiliated with any existing educational institutions in the State.

These several institutions represented in the Board by the following are named in the act:

James Alfred Pearce and James W. Cain, Washington College.

Robert Moss and Thomas Fell, St. John's College.

Randolph Winslow and Philemon H. Tuck, University of Maryland.

Thomas H. Lewis and Joshua W. Miles, Western Maryland College.

William F. Lockwood and John W. Chambers, College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Joseph H. Branham and Frederick Crowthers, Maryland Medical College.

Edward C. Bixler and J. Walter Engler, Blue Ridge College.

The governing board of the University will be its board of regents, which shall consist of the Governor of Maryland, ex-officio; the Comptroller of the Treasury, ex-officio; the State Superintendent of Education, ex-officio, and the six regents named by the Governor. The Board of Regents will elect a provost, who will be the executive head of the University. He will be ex-officio, a member of the Board of Regents; the Governor will be ex-officio, Chairman of the Board. The Board shall have power to choose frm among the members a vice chairman, who shall act in the absence of the Governor.

The university is authorized to enter into contract with any educational institution or hospital created in the future, and to affiliate this institution with the university. The board of regents is required to provide for a closer relation between the high schools and the colleges affiliated under the charter granted the State University by the recent legislature, as well as between the colleges and professional schools constituting the university.

PREPARING FOR THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER CENTENNIAL

Great progress is being made by the National Star-Spangled Banner managers and the celebration in September promises to be not only the greatest event in Baltimore history but the most notable of 1914 in the nation. When June brings the first half of the year to a close, it will find every branch at the height of enthusiasm and activity. All of the plans as originally announced and since added to with many new ideas and the development of suggestions, are in working shape. The managing directors express great gratification at the progress being made by all the committees, comprising prominent men and women of Baltimore who are giving time and effort to make this celebration eclipse anything Maryland has ever originated and accomplished. As the commemoration of the writing of the National anthem and other events in the last days of the War of 1812 are pre-eminently of national importance, the directors are exceedingly pleased with the co-operation received from every part of the country. Every mail to Mayor Preston brings letters of congratulation on Baltimore's patriotism, and assurances of co-operation in making this Centennial a memorable one. The mayor's request of the various state and city executives of the country to display flags for the entire week locally throughout the Baltimore celebration, has met with unanimous assent. In numerous states, the Governors have written that they will issue a proclamation to this effect.

The final turning over of Fort McHenry to the city for a public park has given great impetus to the enthusiasm of those in charge of the Centennial. Dr. A. B. Bibbins and Allen S. Will have had several conferences lately with Maryland senatorial and congressional delegations at Washington, all of which have shown the hearty co-operation on the part of the authorities in furthering interest there.

Those in charge of the dedication exercises at Fort McHenry, which will take place on Saturday, September 12th, are making fine progress for this event, on which occasion President Wilson will speak. The school children who are to form the Human Flag and sing the "Star-Spangled Banner," are now being rehearsed in the various schools and costumes being made.

The Athletic Committee, of which Mr. Robert Garrett is Chairman, have secured two big events of the Amateur Athletic world to take place in Baltimore during the Centennial. These are the Middle States Regatta and the Senior and Junior Games of the Amateur Athletic Union in which many of the Olympic Games Champions are to participate. The rowing race will take place on the Patapsco on Monday, Labor Day.

COLLEGE LEAGUE FORMED

The most recent acquisition is the College League of the National Star-Spangled Banner Centennial which was formed at an enthusiastic meeting of the university and college representatives held in Baltimore last Saturday. Francis Scott Key was a graduate of St. John's at Annapolis, so most appropriately, Prof. Sidney Gunn, of that institution, was elected honorary president and Allen S. Will, a graduate, made president. Dr. George A. Steele, of the Baltimore City College, was elected first vice-president; Jerome H. Joyce, Jr., of Loyola College, recording secretary. The vice-presidents chosen were Brother Peter, Mount St. Joseph's; F. B. Bomberger, Maryland Agricultural College; Dr. Annie Heloise Abel, Goucher College; Foster Grosnickle, Blue Ridge College, New Windsor; J. Branham, Washington College; Brother Lucien, Calvert Hall, and Irene Ballam, Maryland State Normal School.

"Everything for the Farm"

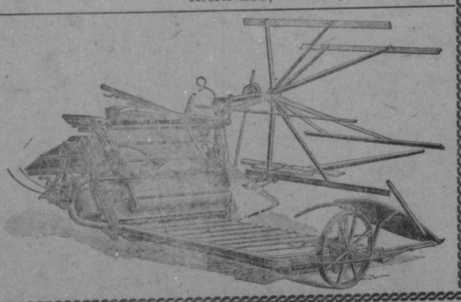

Deering and McCormick Binders, Mowers and Rakes

The machines that carry these two names are too well known in this community for us to go into details here. The McCormick line was handled by us last year and was a great seller, and gave perfect satisfaction to every purchaser. The Deering line, contracted for by us the beginning of this year, has been a favorite among Carroll County farmers for years. We have a complete stock of both Deering and McCormick goods—take your choice. We will not only sell you one of these machines, but will see to it that they do their work properly. If you need a Binder, Mower or Rake we can interest you.

DEERING TWINE

You can rely on it because it is made in the same large plant where Deering Binders are made. The manufacturers of Deering Binders make twine because they want a twine used with the Deering Binder that can be absolutely relied on. Twine troubles are almost invariably blamed on the binder. In order to escape these troubles Deering Twine is as perfect as human skill can make it—as reliable as the best material and skilled workmanship can make it. Give your binder a chance to do its best work by using reliable Deering Twine. We have just received a car load and expect another one in a few days. It is priced at the lowest notch. Come in.
