MANCHESTER

The social given in honor of Prof. Bowlus by Miss Julia C. Masenhimer on the evening of the 21st inst., was a very enjoyable affair. The parlor was in full St. John's dress, the festoons from either corner of yellow and black pennants with a large St. John facing the entrance, with potted plants and flowers. The Misses Julia and Virginie Masenhimer received the guests with a cheerful welcome who were all introduced to the guest of honor who was his best during the evening. Music, charades and games interested the large company who enjoyed the fruit punch served, followed by potato salad and sandwiches which were supplemented by ice cream and cake that was out of sight. Already the midnight hour was coming in sight ere the good nights were said. Those of the company were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Masenhimer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shower, Madames J. H. Sherman, Wm. H. Shower, J. E. Musselman, A. E. B. Myers, ——— Lewis, Misses Corinne Sherman, Margaret Loats, Sarah and Mary Masenhimer, Ada Deinst, Cecelia Shower, Mollie Brilhart, Myrtle Loats, Minnie Burgoon, Anna Shultz, Ruth Crumrine, Fannie Ross, Mae Musselman, Mary Crumrine, Fannie Shower, Mildred Hanson, Julia Masenhimer, Anna Ridgely, Ray Hoffacker, Winnie Masenhimer, Messrs. Stanley Bowlus, W. Penn, C. M. Masenhimer, Paul Frankforter, Levere Lau, Martin Loats, Chas. Myerly, Jennings Green, Harold Frankforter, D. League, G. W. J. Everhart, George S. Motter and Master Geo. Shower.

There was a large congregation present on Sunday evening in the Reformed Church where Rev. J. B. Lau preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the Manchester High School. Prof. Bowlus, with the scholars of his room, came in a body and occupied reserved seats. The Rev. based his address upon the scripture, Prov. 4-7 and Ps. 111-10 speaking in general along the lines of education, closing with encouragment to the graduates to continue to improve their studies that may be fully fitted for the higher duties of life.

On Monday evening the graduating class of the High School held class night in the I. O. O. F. Hall which was largely attended, when the young ladies acquitted themselves in a congratulatory manner by giving the following program: Song; address of welcome, Myrtle Loats; song; class history, Minnie Burgoon, which was quite interesting; song; class diary, Ruth Crumrine, full of merriment and good hits; song; insignia oration, Minnie Burgoon; class will, Ruth Crumrine; song; class prophecy, Myrtle Loats, whose dreams pictured the prosperity and calling of the members of the class; class poem, Ruth Crumrine; class song.

Mr. Groves Leese and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rupp had a collision on the hill south of town on the evening of the 21st inst. L. was driving south and R. coming north. L. drove around a buggy in front of him for which Rupp had turned to the right to give it the right of way and Leese drove right into him, hooking the wheels with such force as to throw both horses to the ground and wreck both buggies, but the occupants escaped with only bad scares.

Mrs. Jacob Hoffman had a metal roof put on her house. Workmen of Mr. George Rupp, of Lineboro, did the work.

Mr. A. H. Geiselman had the room on the north side of his home on South Main street enlarged and fitted up with shelving and counters in which he will put a full stock of groceries.

The young man Bowlus that was shot at St. John's, Annapolis, on Monday, is a nephew of Prof. Stanley Bowlus here.

Mrs. Hiram McAllister, of Westminster, is a visitor at the home of Miss Fannie G. Ross.

Miss Fannie Shower had the graduates, teachers and junior class at her home on Monday evening after class night to a Japanese tea which was quite an enjoyable social. The dining room was in full Japanese dress and lighted with Japanese lanterns which gave much cheer to the occasion, in fact the home was quite Japanese throughout and was worthy of comment for Miss F. She was assisted by her classmates, Winnie Masenhimer, Mildred Hanson and Mae Musselman, in serving the tea and refreshments.

The commencement exercises of the M. H. S. were held in the Reformed Church and were largely attended on Monday evening. The decorations of plants and flowers with class pennants were well arranged and added much cheer. The graduates, with Prof. Bowlus, Dr. T. H. Lewis, Charles O. Clemson, Prof. Geo. F. Morelock, J. W. Hoffacker, Rev. J. B. Lau and Dr. T. S. Land, occupied seats upon the platform. At 8 P. M. the school marched into the church and took their places at reserved seats. Invocation, Dr. Lewis; anthem, by school; 146th Psalm, by school in concert, with Rev Lau; salutatory, Minnie Burgoon; solo, Mrs. Robert Shower, Miss Julia C. Masenhimer at organ; oration, Race Hatred, Ruth Crumrine; address to graduates, Charles O. Clemson, Esq.; duet, Mrs. Erb Mr. Hoffacker; address, Dr. T. H. Lewis, which was to the point in every respect along the lines of education, the responsibility of parents in neglect to their children as well as the absence of boys from the graduating class; anthem, choir; presentation of diplomas, by Prof. Geo. F. Morelock, who presented the facts of having a high school here with the possibilities of getting the full number of scholars for the same; valedictory, Myrtle Loats; Good Night Song, by school; Benediction, Dr. T. S. Land.

The members of the Oakland baseball team were here on Saturday last and played the home team on their diamond to a not very closely contested game as the score was 24 to 11 in favor of the home team But the visitors had a good time and left a good impression with our people for their good deportment and gentlemanly bearing, which was better than winning the game.

Dr. R. S. Wells, of Mechanicsville was here with the O. boys looking his best and received the greetings of his many friends.

LAMBS NEED SOME EXERCISE

Sunshine and Open Air Will Prove of Great Benefit to the Youngster, and Also to His Mother.

The man who has a grassy lot on the southern slope of a hill should turn all his young lambs and their mothers into this inclosure during their first weeks. The lambs should have a chance to stretch their young limbs. They will do far better, and so will the ewes if turned into the open during the hours of daylight.

There are many farmers who keep their lambs and ewes housed up until the pasture is long enough to turn them in permanently, says an Indiana writer in the Farm Progress. Even though the lambs are very young, a long sun bath daily will work wonders with them. It will be good for the ewes, and still better for the lambs. If possible, the southern side of the sheep barn should be utilized for this purpose, as it will keep the youngsters out of the wind most of the time.

Play is the very blood of the young lamb, and when he is playing he is growing. If he lies down in the wind he will chill easily, so the southern hillslope for the pasture lot in the lee of the barn will make an ideal place for him to spend the days while he is waiting to be turned into the summer pasture.

Young life needs exercise if it is to do well. The lambs that are kept in the shed from the time they are dropped until they are a few weeks old will get a bad start. It is mistaken kindness to house them in close quarters when their young legs are aching to be out in the open. They will be far more thrifty if allowed to spend hours in the sunshine. Of course, they must be sheltered on rainy, chilly days, and in long periods of cool, damp weather when the wind is high.

It takes some time and a good deal of trouble to shift the ewes and lambs from their quarters in the shed to the lots and back again daily. In freedom from diseases, quick growth and general vigor it will be worth all that it costs the shepherd.

FEED MAKES PIG PROFITABLE

Good Feeder Keeps Improving His Herd in Quality and Individuality —Good Ration Counts.

There are too many farmers and even breeders who seem to hold the idea that a pig can feed himself and that their whole duty ends when they have supplied the food. A good feeder can keep improving his herd in quality and individuality and is therefore progressive and successful, while the poor feeder may take the best to be had, and in five generations be back to scrubs. This is the difference between good feeding and poor feeding. This is where the feeder has more influence than the feed.

It is a clean waste to give the pig 80 or 90 per cent of his feed in corn or meal when perhaps not more than one-half that amount is needed in building the various structures of his body. The balanced ration is what counts. That is intended to be composed of such materials as are needed by the pig to build all of his growth, to furnish the bone and the muscle, and all parts in proper proportion. It is shown time and again that two valuable feeds, when combined, make a better feed than either one separately, because it comes nearer balancing the ration.

It is only of late that the opinion is spreading among farmers in general that the feeder is one of the important factors, both in the success of a breeder and also that of a pork raiser. The modern hog is an artificial product, and is more readily responsive to good treatment, or the reverse, than any other farm animal. No matter how much you may pay for pedigree or individuality, if you do not know how to feed your hogs will be but little better than scrubs.

Uncomfortable Sheep.

If the sheep is warm and uncomfortable, it does not eat well. And if it does not eat well it produces neither flesh nor a good fleece. Many people wonder why their sheep do not produce such heavy fleece as they used to produce. The housing will enable one to answer that question in many cases, though of course the method of housing cannot account for it all.

MAKE ALCOHOL OF POTATOES

One Reason Industry Has Not Advanced in United States Is Because of High Price of Tubers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

That the manufacture of alcohol from potatoes has not yet become established in the United States is due to various reasons. The price of potatoes marketable for other purposes has been too high, and no sufficient supply of culls and surplus potatoes has been available. The average price for distilling potatoes in Germany for the five years 1906-1910 was 18.3 cents per bushel. It is probable that the farmers there would be less disposed to grow the crop if it were not for its indirect benefits, including the feeding value of the mast left after the distillation of the alcohol, according to the department of agriculture.

The potato-drying industry in Germany is the last development in the utilization of surplus potatoes, and came about only through the absolute necessity of finding an outlet for the surplus production that could not be consumed by the starch and alcohol factories. The rapid increase in the number of potato-drying factories in Germany shows great promise for this young industry, and should merit the careful consideration of our people as to whether the time has not already arrived for the introduction of this method into the United States, at least on an experimental basis. The problems to be met relate mainly to the present cost of the labor in picking up and delivering to the factory the potatoes not marketable for table purposes. In many cases, however, it is necessary to remove these culls from the field to prevent the spread of potato diseases, and it would seem that the drier would pay for the labor involved. The dried product is adapted for many purposes. Not only cattle but horses have been fed the dried potatoes as a substitute for grain with perfect satisfaction.

BROOD MARES FOR FARM USE

Percheron or Shire Will Generally Prove the Most Satisfactory—Profit Obtained in Colts.

In selecting a brood mare for farm purposes, the Percheron or Shire will generally prove the most satisfactory. They need not be too large because a heavy footed clumsy beast is to be avoided always.

A mare that weighs fourteen or fifteen hundred pounds is big enough for any use.

She should have a clean, bony head, a prominent, bright, intelligent eye, good legs and large hoofs.

Her barrel should be roomy but symmetrical with broad hind quarters.

Brood Mare and Colt.

Avoid a mare with any suggestion of "cat hams."

A good disposition is essential, but does not mean that a brood mare must be stupid or a bungler in harness.

Better pay $300 for a first class brood mare than $100. The difference will be made up in the first two colts, provided the right kind of a sire is used.

With a brood mare of this description a farmer can every year raise a colt that will sell from $150 to $300 and get good service in farm work out of her besides.

GOOD PASTURES FOR SWINE

Clover Is Much Cheaper for Pigs Than Grain and It Pays to Give Animals All They Will Eat.

(By W. F. PURDY.)

A trip through the country will reveal the fact that a good many of the pig pastures on the farms are not pastures in fact, but simply small runs.

This means that the pigs get a little grass or clover while it is at its best early in the spring and then go without the rest of the season.

Now, if the pigs could be given a good big pasture where they would have more range and all the clover they would eat and some to spare the profit from them would be more.

Clover is very much cheaper feed for pigs than grain and it pays to give them all of it they will eat. Fattening hogs will make the same gain on 25 per cent less grain where they have access to good clover pasture.

Poultry Roup.

The most certain way of identifying poultry roup is a characteristic sickening odor.

Early Vegetables.

Every farm should have a hotbed for early vegetables.

In spite of the Mellen revelations, the stockholders meetings of most railroads will continue to be attended by a gathering consisting of the president and three elevator boys.

THE JUST GOVERNMENT LEAGUE

The Just Government League of Carroll county held its regular monthly meeting at the residence of the vice-president, Mrs. S. K. Herr, on Tuesday evening, May 26, and had as their guests, Mrs. B. J. Byrne, president of the Howard county League; Miss L. C. Trax, secretary of the Just Government League of Maryland; Mrs. Charles I. Keller, in charge of the literature and educational branch of the work, and Miss Kaji, of Baltimore. The Carroll County League was well represented several gentlemen being present. The president, Miss Shellman, presided and after reading of the minutes by the secretary, ?taHow set* ETAOHN SHR SHR Miss Whitmore, introduced the first speaker Mrs. Byrne, who was followed by Mrs. Keller and Miss Trax, in most interesting and instructive talks on suffrage, what has been accomplished and what must be done before the meeting of the next legislature of Maryland. Plans for the summer work at fairs and granges, and the distribution of literature were discussed and it was decided to take an active part in Suffrage Day, which will be held during the Taneytown Fair in August, and in which it is hoped every suffragist in Carroll county will take an interest. Miss Trax, state secretary, reported 198 enrolled members in Carroll county as the result of work at the county fairs last year, which with the names already on the Carroll county register makes the membership of the Carroll County League 45 active and 276 enrolled suffragists in the county. It may be well to add here that many of the enrolled members are doing good suffrage work but are not situated near enough to Westminster to be able to attend the meetings of the league. Mrs. D. R. Hooker, State Pres., expected to be present but was detained at home by home duties, which she never neglects, as she is a model wife, mother and suffragist. At the close of the evening ice cream, strawberries and cake were served, and a pleasant hour spent in social enjoyment. Mrs. Herr is a charming hostess and the evening will long be remembered by all present.

A COMEDY OF ERRORS

The stage was set at Hill Top Park Saturday, May 23, for a performance to be given for the benefit of the Manchester Base Ball Club and the public, with the Manchester and Oakland Base Ball Club as the chief performers but owing to the climatic conditions of the high altitude, to which the Oakland boys were not accustomed, they forgot their part and did the hesitation waltz while the Manchester players "tangoed" around the base paths 24 times. After playing 2 hours and 5 minutes the visiting troupe counted faces and found they had scored 11 points.

Linsey undertook to play the leading role by occupying the center of the stage but lasted only a little more than 5 acts. J. H. Murray, not realizing the responsibilities and duties of one taking so prominent a part, volunteered to assist his colleague but found, instead of loving cups and bouquets being presented to him on every ball pitched, that his offerings were being slammed to all corners of the stage.

A detailed account of the play will not be printed because red or purple ink is not generally used in the news items and it would be almost necessary to describe that disastrous third inning for we can not clothe it in white. This inning netted 8 runs for Manchester by pounding out 8 hits, purloining 6 bases and taking advantage of several errors contributed by the visitors.

Loats occupied the mound for the locals and, while the visitors secured 11 hits, he did not exert himself, and in the last three innings he allowed but one hit, struck out two men and caused the others to make easy infield outs.

The features of the game were the batting of R. Buchman, Sullivan, Miller and Loats, while the fielding honors were carried off by V. Buchman, Sullivan and Phillips. Miller had 4 stolen bases to his credt, the liast one being home in the seventh inning. R. Buchman made several specacular catches of foul flies.

The lineup was as follows: Manchester—Davidson, 1b; R. Buchman, 3b; V. Buchman, ss; Teague, lf; Mitten, rf; Sullivan, 2b; Therit, cf; Miller, c; Loats, p. Oakland—Phillips, 2b; J. R. Murray, 3b; Shipley, ss; Linsey, p-3b; Wilcox, cf; F. Cofield, lf; J. Murray, rf; E. L. Cofield, c-ss; Kelly, 1b.
