n.d. Caspar Morris Incoming Letters T-Y 1994

SIDE TWO

to your American Home through the constant care of our Heavenly Father. The text you quoted in one of your letters "I Change Not" is surely a resting place for every child of God. Our own children - and my sisters are so constantly going & coming from India and America - that it must carry with our hearts' lead up a special prayer for "those who travel by land & by water". Our eldest son has lately returned from India after 7 years absence. While one of his is just returned to his duty at Madras, & her youngest son is coming back from Virginia while my daughter is preparing for her return to India - & thus it has been with us for several years - I should and ought to have written before & must ask you to forgive my apparent negligence - but I have had rather a severe attack of Rheumatism which really settles for a time in my right arm & hand & renders writing very
