MANCHESTER

The directors of the Dug Hill Fire Insurance Company held their quarterly session in their office here on Saturday last which was well attended, with President Brown in the chair and secretary Brilhart at his desk. After the regular routine business was attended to they made a levy of 3 per cent on their premium notes with Jacob Rupp collector for the same.

Mr. and Mrs. George Staul, Mr. Charles Jenkins and lady friend, of Baltimore, arrived at the home of Mr. Charles H. Everhart in their auto on Sunday morning, after enjoying the company of the family they were entertained to dinner after which accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. E., they made the run to Hanover and enjoyed the fine decorations in that progressive town. Returning the visitors enjoyed supper with the family before making the run home.

The workmen are bringing the outside work of the new church to completion; the gables are finished and the work on the tower is progressing, while the carpenters have the roof sheathed and some slating done.

During the visit of Mrs. D. L. Dubbs in Baltimore during the Centennial period, she was a guest of Mrs. George S. Koonez who gave a social and dinner to a number of cousins of which Mrs. Dubbs was a part, all of whom were the offspring of the late George and Elizabeth Everhart, of this place. There were twelve granddaughters, four great-granddaughters and two great-grandsons. Among them were 9 widows. Six of the company were sisters whose ages were from 54 to 84 years, and the combined ages of the whole was 1375 years. Two were from West Virginia and one from California. The social hours were enjoyed is putting it mildly as they called to mind and rehearsed the joyful days of childhood at the old homestead where they always had a cheerful greeting and privileged to roam over the wide acres and rummage the old thatched barn in an egg hunt or bare-footed to wade in the crystal waters of the creek that wound like a crystal thread through the broad meadows, and when tired and hungry they were greeted by grandmother in her noble, kindhearted way to get ready for the bountiful repast awaiting them in the large old dining room where everything was the neatest and tidy while the menu was of the best. The members of the company could not help but enjoy their being together and living over the joyous days of their past. Yet sad to know that they never more would meet in a similar capacity for those from a distance never expect to visit Baltimore again. But in the midst of this joyous retrospect an invitation was given to the dining room where the hostess demonstrated her hospitality with a royal dinner to which all did full justice. No wonder all were reluctant to say good night when the hour of retiring had arrived but such is life and the best of friends must part.

Quite a number of our people attended the Hanover Fair last week and the trades display on Saturday which is said to have been more than creditable to the progressive town that had the greatest day of its ventures, while the home decorations were second to none. Among our people were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stick who spent the week with their brother, Dr. Stick. On Thursday Mrs. S. who had been visiting friends was taken home by the doctor in his auto and when getting out she fell striking the curb and broke her arm, the doctor at once gave it his attention and at this writing she is home and doing well.

Mr. J. A. Frederick, who built a section of a Macadam road near Mt. Zion Church, Baltimore county, during the summer, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis on Friday last. He was taken to his home near Lineboro, and was able to go to the work on Monday. It affected his speech and one side. He had just contracted for another section in the county.

Mr. John H. Staub after visiting his parents in Littlestown last week returned here and with his little daughter Virginia, left for their home in Richmond, accompanied by Mrs. Mary E. Gettier to Baltimore, where she is visiting friends.

Dr. David G. Everhart, his father, uncle David Groff and gentleman friend, of Frederick, motored here on Sunday and spent the afternoon among friends.

Mr. Edward Snyder, of Lancaster, Pa., was a visitor of Mr. J. Wesley Snyder last week.

Mr. Charles M. Masenhimer is having a nice stable built on the corner of green lane and the alley. Vol Menchey, builder.

Miss Rena Sherman had a concrete pavement, curb and gutter put down in front of her home on York street.

Mr. Oliver Lippy sold the stock and fixtures of his merchant tailoring establishment to Robert M. Shower, who took possession of the place on Monday. Mr. L. retiring after 40 or more years in the business.

Miss May Musselman had Miss Ruth Crumrine, of Melrose, as her guest last week.

Mrs. William Mather and son, of Westminster, are visiting Miss Lizzie Trump.

Mrs. Uhlin, of Pittsburgh, spent several days with Miss Mettie Miller. When living here ten years ago she was Mrs. Charles Betts, but after the death of her husband she and daughters went to Pittsburgh where she became Mrs. Uhlin.

Mr Charles H. Everhart was informed that his brother Edmund S. Everhart is ill with erysipelas of the face at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Sill, Philadelphia.

The many friends send their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Warehime, of Lineboro, upon the arrival of that fine baby girl at the home on the 14th inst.

The Willing Workers' Aid Society, of Trinity Reformed Church will give an entertainment in the I. O. O. F. Hall on Saturday evening, November 3rd at which the drama, "Followed by Fate," will be given by home talent.The cast is good and promises an evening of enjoyment.

The principal thing that has happened in Europe since August 1, according to the returning tourists, is the loss of their trunks.

It is complained that school graduates can't write a good letter, but then they can tell the boss a lot on how to run his business.

UNIONTOWN

L. F. Eckard is having a concrete pavement laid in front of his house and storeroom.

Mrs. Mary Eckard, of Baltimore, is visiting Miss Louisa Eckard this week.

Mrs. William Rodkey is home from her visit in Baltimore. Our sick are all better.

Frank K. Haines is able to be down stairs.

Miss Sallie Yingling has gone to her home in the city after spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. L. F. Eckard.

The sudden taking off of our genial friend and neighbor, "Uncle Jim" Cover has caused many saddened feelings. His funeral on Tuesday was largely attended. The family greatly appreciated the kind thoughts and services of neighbors and friends. Mr. Cover was for many years closely associated with his brother Thomas Cover, in the tanning business, retiring a few years ago.

Miss Ruby Rodkey spent several days with Mrs. J. W. Rodkey, during her sickness.

Dr. J. J. Weaver and wife are visiting relatives in Philadelphia and New Jersey.

Thomas Davis and wife, Lost City, Va., and Miss Annie Kinzer, Westminster, have been guests of Mrs. Bettie Cover.

Urbanus Bowersox who has been farming for James M. Shellman, has bought a home in this place and will take possession the coming spring. The property bought formerly belonged to Nathaniel Heck, but lately was owned by Mrs. George Overholtzer.

James M. Shellman is having a nice supply of strawberries for his table, which are of fine quality and size.

Mr. B. F. Bond has some fine potatoes, some weighing 1 1|2 pounds. Who can beat them?

Mrs. B. F. Bond and Mrs. Mary S. Wall spent Sunday with Mrs. Milton Barrick.

MELROSE

Mr. Beniah Bankert had a peach grown on his lot which measured 8 1|2 inches in circumference.

Paul J. Houck has returned to Pennsylvania College to resume his studies.

Both Krideler's and Wink's Sunday schools promise a treat to their scholars.

Several weddngs between now and Christmas. More particulars later on.

There will be a public sale in our town, October 3rd, at 1 P. M. Read the bills.

There was some excitement at one of the Melrose homes one morning last week. A rat pursued by a cat took refuge under a hog house. A man set a rat trap near and caught a chicken. We will say no more, or this will be branded a fairy story.

The melon crop was an enormous one. Many hundreds of melons went to waste.

The Ladies' Aid societey of the U. B. Church will meet at the home of Geo. M. Zepp September 30th.

TAYLORSVILLE

By the latter part of this week corn cutting will be in full blast.

Work is progressing nicely on the church.

Tuesday and Wednesday were registration days. I am not able to give number registered.

The festival held by our "Band" proved a success. We take this means to thank one and all for their liberal support and patronage. We again thank the ladies who did the important part.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Jenkins spent from Friday evening until Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shipley.

Mr. and Mrs. William Grimes spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Grimes.

Mr. J. D. Hooper, our thresherman, has almost (with the exception of a few places) finished a very successful year, having to date threshed about 45,000 bushels of grain. Who can beat it with one machine?

Clover hulling will begin in the near future. There are lots to hull but the seed remains an unknown quantity.

Mrs. Harn of Mt Airy, is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Verdie Pickett.

Health of community good.

All the school teachers have to do to be popular is to show special favors and partiality to every child.

It is a mighty pretty sight to see the children flocking to school again, except that the boys look so blue over having to wear new clothes.

In view of the fact that the rag man will pay about a cent a pound for waste paper nowadays, our contributors are informed that war poems can now be used.

Perfection Oil Heaters

The Perfection Oil Heating Stove is positively one of the best made.

And since the New Model has been put on the market it is all that the name implies. In this New Model there has been eliminated the most objectionable features of the old Style. The two most important changes are:

FIRST: The broad low base which makes it perfectly safe and impossible to overturn.

SECOND: The change in the construction of the wick. This wick will never require adjusting as the old Style did. It is always set up to its proper height.

This stove is just the thing for Fall, when it is not cool enough to justify you to make fire yet too cool to be without heat. May be moved from one room to the other. A scratch of the match and instant heat. Buy yourself one today.
