Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hanson, of Lansdowne, she was walking on Hammonds Ferry road and, in attempting to avoid one automobile stepped directly in the path of another. Messrs. J. Gloyd Wendal and S. C. Stoner, representing the firemen; George E. Matthews and John B. Quite recently Chancellor Rich and Grand Keeper of Records and Seal James M. Hendrix spent a day with him at his home in Winfield and were taken an automobile trip to the Springfield Hospital and elsewhere during the day. At night, with Mr. Zile, they visited Prosperity Lodge at New Windsor, of which he is a member "and though he must travel 10 miles to attend its meetings is one of its most earnest workers." On Monday night, September 28, he accompanied the grand officers named on an official visit to Calanthe Lodge at Union Bridge, and on the following night to Taneytown Lodge, Taneytown. OF INTEREST TO APPLE GROWERS

Mr. J. Hampton Baumgartner, representing the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, says:

"Of pertinent interest to fruit growers in Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia was an article published in a recent issue of the Daily Consular and Trade Report, directing attention to the markets of Latin America and the Orient as offering special opportunities for the sale of apples.

"Commenting upon the subject, the publication said:

"'American apple shippers are advised to stimulate the demand and increase their shipments to Latin America and the Orient. It is suggested that by co-operating with the Department of Commerce, extension of trade in this respect can be accomplished. Inquiries relating to these countries should be addressed to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, D. C. Shippers are urged to apply to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for the following publications, issued by that Bureau, which may be secured at the prices shown: Special Agents Series, No. 62, 30 cents; No. 72, 10 cents, and No. 81, 25 cents; Special Consular Reports No. 62, 10 cents, and Tariff Series, No. 19a, 5 cents.'"

He, however, had gotten behind the car and was not observed. Without looking back the driver backed it and Paul was knocked down and run over. Wheels of the machine ran from about his knees, diagonally up over his body, inflicting the injuries which caused his death sometime before noon on Monday. His father and Mr. James M. The War In Europe

Fighting in France Still Continues Without Definite Result.

Germans Bombarding Antwerp.

Russian and German Battle Near Border of Eastern Prussia.

Both Combatants Claim Victory.

Russian's Movements in Galicia.

All Reports Conflicting. Much Reported That is Unreliable.

The war in Europe continues apparently without definite result or decided advantage to any of the combatants. In France the battle line has drawn more and more to the North, where a large force of German cavalry is operating and aiding Gen. Von Kluck in preventing the turning efforts of the Allies. No distinctive battle has been fought during the week along the long line and no pronounced change in the situation is in sight.

The Germans are making a vigorous bombardment of Antwerp, Belgium, and its defences and, it is claimed, have destroyed several of the outer lying line of fortifications and have seriously damaged the city. It is reported that British soldiers are being rushed to its defence.

The Russians claim that they have forced all the passes of the Carpathian mountains and hold them safely while invading Hungary. They claim to be in possession of three-fourths of Galicia. They have been battling with Germans along the border of Eastern Prussia, having fought at Suwalki and Augustowo a battle of considerable proportions. Neither side admits a reverse and each alleges that the other was defeated with heavy loss. Nothing is reported with certainty of the advance on Cracow, but the Austrians report a big battle somewhere in that direction and a great Austrian victory, which is denied by the Russians. And so it goes.

One important report is that Russia has called out and is mobilizing the reservists. If true, that means a mighty addition to the Russian forces. Russia's boast of having ten millions of soldiers to draw upon is probably not far from the truth. But an end to the war is not in sight.

The president of Carroll County C. E. Union, Mr. Harry B. Fogle, of Uniontown, urges all societies in the county to prepare special programs in behalf of County Local Option fight, October 18, topic, "A Saloonless Nation," Why Not? How? This is an important meeting. Now is the time for all societies to do active, earnest work. The fight is on. Let each Endeavorer be actively engaged in the temperance campaign this fall. Carroll Co. C. E. Union has always advocated temperance. Let the local temperance committee arrange a good program for each society. Uniontown societies, three in number, will hold a Union Service that night with eloquent speakers and an interesting program all through.

Sandy Mount C. E. Society will hold a special temperance meeting Sunday night, November 25. Speakers will be present. Good program. This same society will hold "Maryland Day" services, Sunday night, October 11, 7.30 P. M. Subject for meeting, "Next Steps For Our Society." What is Maryland Day? It is a special day appointed each year by the executive committee of the State Union upon which to celebrate in a fitting way, the organization of the first Christian Endeavor Society in Maryland (which was the Second Presbyterian, of Baltimore, in October, 1885,) and to present briefly to the societies the need and importance of the work. There are 475 societies in the State, including Senior, Junior and Intermediate.
