EDITORIAL

President Wilson has served warning upon the leaders of the warring factions in Mexico, that they must either get together, desist from further conflict and agree to establish a stable government that can be recognized by the United States, or this country "will be constrained to decide what means should be employed in order to help Mexico save herself and save her people." Instead of directing this statement directly to Carranza, Villa, Zapata and Garza, it was addressed to the people of the United States, who are thus officially informed of conditions in Mexico, and of what may become the absolute duty of the Administration to intervene for the restoration of order. No definite plan is named for action if that shall become necessary. Printed copies of the address will be circulated extensively among the Mexican people. Americans and other foreigners in the City of Mexico are advised to leave the country, and the United States will assist them in doing so.

The newspapers are telling their own story of what occurred between Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, and President Wilson, at an interview between them on Wednesday. The reports state that the President was firm in declaring that the United States means to require Germany to comply with the rules of international law in regard to the rights of neutrals. That is an easy guess. The difficulty lies in the different interpretations of what constitutes such rights. If American citizens persist in running into danger by traveling on ships known to be carrying cargoes of all sorts of war material, the German contention is that they take the risk of being destroyed with the ships. Why will not the United States government prevent such consequences by placing an embargo upon the shipment of contraband of war on passenger vessels? Did not the President's original note to Germany insist that international law demanded that Germany should abandon submarine warfare altogether? It was so interpreted and understood by those who, perhaps, did not give it as careful study as was necessary to fully comprehend its meaning. Or has the President modified his demands.

WHY NOT FURTHER CONSIDERATION

There is a growing sentiment among some Americans, who are not at all pro-German in their sympathies, that Germany's request for a further and more careful consideration of her contention in relation to her submarine warfare, and the consideration under which it is waged, is not altogether unanswerable. Germany avers that all the facts upon which the President's stand has been taken, are not known to him, and asks that further inquiry concerning them be made. And why may not this be done? Are the American authorities so absolutely certain that they are in possession of all the facts involved that they cannot be further enlightened and cannot possibly make a mistake. On one point that may be conceded. The Lusitania was attacked by a German submarine, and whether the torpedo fired against her caused her destruction and the loss of so many innocent lives, or she was sunk by the explosion of war material in her cargo, is not material. It was the submarine attack upon a vessel crowded with passengers that led to the dreadful catastrophe. And that a repetition of such an event must be prevented at all hazards can hardly be denied by anyone with a spark of humanity in his bosom. But there are other questions in the case by no means so clear as that, and this government should not make demands which unprejudiced people might consider in the interests of Great Britain. The Baltimore American of Wednesday published a communication from Syracuse, N. Y., giving a telegram sent by Captain Richmond P. Hobson to the President, recommending that a court of inquiry be called to investigate the disputed questions involved. Is President Wilson big enough to take such a step, or is he determined to have his own way and to follow his own judgment, regardless of the opinions of others. Capt. Hobson, who is a Democratic member of Congress, says to the President:

"Referring to Germany's reply note, permit me respectfully and earnestly to renew my previous recommendation that you determine the questions of fact by calling a regular court of inquiry, as did President McKinley on the destruction of the Maine, and President Cleveland in his Venezuelan message.

"The Gereman note raises distinct questions of fact maintaining that the Lusitania was under British Admiralty orders to ram submarines, was in effect a submarine destroyer and otherwise engaged in war operations, transporting men and materials.

"If this contention is correct our government has no standing in international law for demanding a disavowal. Furthermore Germany expresses regret for the loss of innocent life, and contends that internal explosion and other contributing causes of English and even criminal origin are chiefly responsible. If this contention is correct our government hasn't even the general ground of humanity to stand on.

"'Until these questions of fact are determined through judicial investigation, history and sobered humanity would condemn us, our government and our people for persisting in our demands for disavowal. Obviously we cannot insist on our other demands for the abandonment of submarine warfare, any more than we could demand an abandonment of dreadnought warfare, or aerial warfare, or torpedo warfare. Enemy merchant vessels under orders to attack gunboats, destroyers, cruisers or battleships, or otherwise engaged in war operations, whether using the ram, or gun, or other weaepon, could not expect and would not receive the warning and immunity accorded nonresisting vessels engaged in innocent commerce."

The longest continued rain in the Middle Atlantic States for several years, began falling shortly after midnight, Tuesday morning. Parties who observed the time when it ceased say that it fell for 36 hours without cessation. The ground is thoroughly saturated and streams generally overflowed their banks. The rise in the Potomac river, it is stated, was 25 feet.

ALPHEUS STANSBURY

Mr. Alphesus Stansbury, a prominent citizen of this county, died at his home in Hampstead, on Wednesday, at the age of 75 years. He was a veteran of the Civil War and a retired farmer. He was an ex-member of the Maryland House of Delegates, to which he was elected as a Republican in 1897.

He is survived by his widow, who was a Miss Hodges, of Virginia, and six children, Dr. Henry Stansbury, of the Maryland Momeopathic Hospital; Benjamin and Charles Stansbury and Mrs. Harry Cann, Baltimore; Mrs. Edward Baker, Howardville, and Miss Mary, at home; three brothers, Capt. Whitfield Stansbury, B. F. Stansbury, County Commissioner of Carroll county, and Micajah Stansbury, Hampstead, and a sister, Mrs. Henry Ruby, Snydersburg.

His funeral took place from his home in Hampstead, at 9.30 A. M., today.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUSTS

The United States Department of Agriculture has issued a statement in relation to the seventeen-year locusts in which it says: "Brood VI of the cicada, commonly known as the seventeen-year locust, is expected to appear in May and June this year in scattered localities covering much of the northern and central States lying between the Hudson and Mississippi rivers, extending along the Appalachian elevated plateau into northern Georgia and South Carolina. This particular brood made its last appearance in this territoroy in 1898.

The department comments at length on the character and habits of this remarkable cicada and gives an outline of the distribution of this particular brood, this year, by States and counties. The names of both are given, the number of counties mentioned in each State being as follows:

Delaware—one county.
District of Columbia—several localities.
Georgia—nine counties.
Illinois—eight.
Indiana—seven.
Kentucky—one.
Maryland—five.
Michigan—possibly twelve.
New Jersey—eleven.
New York—five.
North Carolina—twenty-three.
Ohio—fourteen.
Pennsylvania—seven and others.
South Carolina—one.
Tennessee—eight.
Virginia—six.
West Virginia—twenty-two.
Wisconsin—twelve.

Carroll county is named as one of the localities in which the locust will appear in Maryland. This, however, is misleading, as the brood does not appear here in its strength till 1919, its last appearance having been in 1902. Possibly a few, but very few, may make their appearance here this year. The other counties in Maryland named are Cecil, Montgomery, Prince George's and Washington.

BARBECUE AT OWINGS MILLS

Westminster and Carroll County were well represented at the barbecue held at Owings Mills on Monday, May 31st, in celebration of the opening of the pike to the public and the abolishing of tolls and toll gates.

To those who had never attended an old fashioned barbecue, it was a revelation and to those of us whose memory goes back to the time when every political campaign closed with a similar gathering it brought back many pleasant memories of what the "oldest citizen" is pleased to term "the good old times." The immense number of automobiles surrounding the field gave a modern appearance to the gathering, and the old fashioned covered wagons and carriages were not there, but the long table with its plates of hot, savory roast beef, thick slices of bread, and chunks of cheese were there in abundance and every one was expected to go up and help himself and enjoy it in true picnic style.

There was the hot fire made of pieces of the old toll gates, with its sheet iron shelf supported by four strong stakes, on which the great slabs of beef were roasted in full sight of the assembled crowd. Everybody tasted and many made a hearty meal of it and good nature prevailed, so that all who were there had a good time.

The barbecue was held under the auspices of the Reisterstown Road Improvement Assiciation. Mr. Allen Girdwood presided, and addresses were made from a decorated stand by Comptroller Emerson C. Harrington, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor; Road Chairman O. E. Weller, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor; State Senator Carville D. Benson, Albert C. Ritchie, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General and William I. Coghlan, president of the Board of County Commissioners for Baltimore county.

Senator Blair Lee, and State Senator, William Milner Maloy, candidates respectively for the Democratic nomination for Governor and Attorney General, were expected but did not reach Owings Mills in time.

The members of the Carroll County and Baltimore County Board of Commissioners occupied seats on the platform, and the Rosewood Band furnished the music.

Among those present from Westminster were Mr. C. C. Gorsuch, Mr. H. M. Kimmey, Mrs. S. K. Herr, Miss Mary B. Shellman, Mr. John H. Cunningham and wife, Miss Marguerite Stem, Mr. C. E. Fink, Prof. George F. Morelock, Messrs. Theodore F. Brown, James E. Smith, Paul Reese, Michael E. Walsh and Isaac Stoner.

WEDDINGS

From Taneytown Correspondent.

FRITZ—FISHER

At the Presbyterian manse on Tuesday evening by the pastor, Rev. Seth Russell Downie, Miss Jennie O. Fisher and Mr. Clarence R. Fritz, of New Windsor, were united in marriage. Miss Fisher is a sister of Mrs Samuel Crouse, of Taneytown.

SHAUCK—ARNOLD

Miss Alice M. Arnold, daughter of Mr. Henry T. Arnold, of Liberty street, this city, and Mr. Jarrett W. Shauck, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Shauck, near Gamber, were married Saturday morning, May 29th, at ten o'clock at Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church parsonage, this city, by the pastor, Rev. Frank H. Havenner.

The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of blue Crepe DeChene. A few members of each family witnessed the ceremony.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left in a touring car for Baltimore and from there will go to Atlantic City and other places.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Shauck will reside in this city.

From our Uniontown correspondent.

SALTZGIVER-BURNS

Rev. Willard E. Saltzgiver, of the Lutheran Church was married to Miss Elizabeth Burns, at her home in Jefferson, York county, Pa., Tuesday, June 1st, by Rev. Grover Knipple.

They came to their home here at the parsonage the same evening, and were treated to a musical welcome by a band of serenaders.

Many good wishes go out to the young minister and his wife and all hope they may be successful in their chosen career.

From Silver Run correspondent.

WAREHIME-COPENHAVER

A very pretty and impressive wedding was solemnized in St. Mary's Reformed Church at two P. M., Tuesday, June 1, when Miss Mary Copenhaver, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Copenhaver, of this place, and Mr. Grover C. Warehime, a promising young man, of near Westminster, were united in marriage by Rev. S. C. Hoover, pastor of the congregation of which the bride is an active member. The ceremony was performed at the alter which was banked with flowers and ferns.

The bride was attired in white lace over white silk Crepe de chene and wore a white Panama hat. The wedding was private only a few relatives and friends being present. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left by auto for their newly furnished home near Westminster.

Their many friends wish them a long and happy life. The bride has been a very successful teacher in the public schools of the county, she having taught Humbert's school for the past two years.

JASONTOWN

May has been a very rough and cold month. There were several frosts the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gilbert and children spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Burall, of this place.

We were sorry to learn that Mrs. L. S. Baley and Mr. Henry Benner had to be removed to a hospital the past week. It is the wish of their many friends that they both may soon be able to return home.

Mrs. Weller and daughter, near New Windsor, spent one day last week with Mrs. Weller's sister, Mrs. William Robertson, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gilbert were guests of Mrs. Gilbert's sister Sunday evening.

Mrs. Alice Lambard, of Medford, spent one day last week with her mother, Mrs. Samuel Robertson, of this place.

Mrs. James Robertson and little niece, Miss Ruthann Babylon, were recent guests of Mrs. Robertson's sister, Miss Annie Cummings, of Tyrone.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Robertson spent from Friday until Saturday with Mrs. Robertson's brother, Mr. George Barnes, near Winfield.

An ice cream and strawberry festival will be held Saturday, June 19, in the Grange Hall, Medford, for the benefit of the Wakefield Church. It will begin at 5.30 o'clock in the afternoon and continue during the evening. Everyone welcome.

GUESTS AT WINCHESTER PLACE

"Winchester Place," the popular summer resort kept by the Misses Wroth, opened on Tuesday, June 1st, with 17 guests. Every room has been engaged for the summer, and the popularity of the house and of the ladies who have it in charge is testified to by the return, summer after summer of the many of its patrons. The beautiful grounds surrounding the place and the air of homelike comfort, together with the excellent table are a combined attraction which is so often lacking in a public house. It is a pity the company owning the property does not furnish more accommodations, in the way of cottages or an annex to the main building as Miss Wroth is obliged to refuse many who would like to come, if they could be accommodated. The following are registered up to date—and every train is bringing new arrivals—Dr. Pere Wroth and family, Hagerstown; Dr. and Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. C. P. Clemens, Mrs. Misle Turnbull, Baltimore; Miss M. E. Best, Miss Winnie Rhodes, Mrs. Plummer, Mrs. Brooks, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Z. Miller, Miss Katherine Miller, Westminster.

SOME GOOD POINTS ON POULTRY WHEN IN TROUBLE TRY THIS REMEDY

For gaps in chicks take a grain of camphor the size of a grain of wheat and put down the throat. Put 20 drops of turpentine in their drinking water and watch them sneeze them out.

FOR DIARHRHEA IN CHICKS

Put one teaspoonful of paregoric or tincture of iron in each quart of their drinking water; give until cured.

ASTHENIA GOING LIGHT

Symptoms—Great loss of flesh, lack of appetite and diahrhea.

Cause—Stomach trouble caused by improper food and bad air.

Treatment—Give twice a day, made up into little pills with flour and water, three grains subnitrate of bismuth, one grain powdered cinnamon or cloves, three grains powdered charcoal. Give dry bread mixed with milk and finely chopped hard boiled eggs and a good tonic as the GEM.

ROUP AND COLDS IN OLD BIRDS

Give a 2-grain quinnine pill daily for three days and use germ killer in drinking water, the kind Jones gives.

INDIGESTION

Most all troubles come from four forms of this deadly disease. It cames mostly of over feeding and not enough of grit. You find most water in summer time and they look chickens do not get enough of fresh to barn yards for their drink or at hog pens and this kind of water makes trouble. Keep clean water at chicken house and you can save trouble. Try it.

If you won't feed the Gem try this: Put a little Salts in their drinking water for a few days. This sometimes cures.

BLACK HEAD

Symptoms—Loss of appetite, weakness, loss of flesh, diahrhea and the head becomes discolored.

Cause—Usually found in turkeys and caused by a parasite taken with food into the digestive organs which attacks the liver. It is very contagious.

Treatment—Give sick birds three times a day a pill, sulphur 10 grains, sulphate of iron 1 grain, sulphate of quinine 1 grain, make pills with flour and water and feed the Gem Powder once a day.

FOR WORMS

Put 20 drops of turpentine to a pint of water and mix with bread and cornmeal.

For tape worms in chickens and turkeys give 6 drops oil of male fern in one teaspoonful of castor oil. Be sure to remove all droppings and disinfect all coops and yards.

A LICE POWDER TO KILL ALL

Gasoline and car acid, mix and use plaster Paris to make powder form. Make only what amount you want at a time. Spray houses with gasoline and acid.

Keep chicks off of wet grass. Use sweet oil for head lice. Never grease with lard. When wing feathers grow too large clip ends off. Give plenty of grit at all times and charcoal. Make your own disinfectant by using c acid and plaster Paris and lime. Make a powder and use.

Your troubles will be lessened if you will feed the Gem Powder. If you have any disease you cannot cure my advice free.
