Galloway C. Morris Esq.
Dear Sir-

Dr. Jas. Cherlow handed me your letter to him of 23rd inst & asked me to answer it - There can be no objection to your father D. V. Morris making an absolute conveyance to his children of all his interest in the bequests & devise to his late wife under the will of Galloway Cherlow, provided he is thoroughly acquainted with what he is doing & desires to do it - The deed should be prepared to conform to our laws and should it be drawn by Counsel in Phila, it had better be submitted to Counsel here before it is executed. - Should it be desired that it be prepared here, it would be well that the authority come directly from your father in the shape of a note written by him, expressing his desire to make such a transfer and directing the proper papers to be prepared -

Very Respect
James Carey Jr.

The papers all arrived safely and properly executed - The deed has been signed now by all the parties & I suppose went on record to day
