FOREST TREES FOR FALL PLANTING

The State Board of Forestry at Johns Hopkins University, has just completed a schedule and price list of forest planting stock for fall use. Sale of the trees, which are grown in the new State Nursery at College Park, is restricted to land owners of this State, to whom they are offered at the usual nominal prices representing the actual growing cost.

It is hardly necessary to point out here the necessity or desirability of planting forest trees; it is too well known. Lands on the farm that cannot grow farm crops are better used for trees, and the State Nursery was established for the express purpose of growing forest trees suitable for planting up waste soils with a useful crop, and of making such work readily available through the sale of trees which would be carefully chosen, well grown, and sold at cost. Last spring saw the distribution of many thousands of valuable trees to residents of Maryland, and the Board is now prepared to fill orders for fall planting with a somewhat larger and older stock. Fall planting may be undertaken with success in most climates and on soils that are not too heavy. High lands with good drainage offer a safe site, and the planting should take place before continued frosts set in, to give the young trees time to adjust themselves to new conditions before the coming of winter. Planting at this season is particularly recommended for the lighter soils in Central, and Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore.

In the State Nursery the conifers are represented by seedlings and transplants of White Pine and Norway Spruce, and a great number of the better hardwoods—Red Oak, White Ash, American Elm, Black Walnut, Black and Honey Locusts. Prices range from $2.50 per thousand for Locust Seedlings and $4.50 for Red Oak, to $6.00 per thousand for White Pine transplants and $12.00 for Black Walnut. The charges are based on lots of one thousand trees, but smaller quantities of any kind may be secured at prorata prices. All trees sold are disposed of under an agreement that they be used for reforestation or roadside planting in Maryland, and requests for price lists or advice on planting will be given prompt attention by the State Forester at Baltimore.

If you see a crowd of people around the bulletin board, they are probably not eagerly seeking to learn the fate of empires trembling in the balance of war, but are simply waiting in breathless anxiety for the final scores from the league leaders.

From National Republican Congressional Committee (No. 23)

INACURATE PENSION LAWS

Washington, September 23.—"The Democrats have made a shameful record of carelessness in the enactment of special pension bills, and will have a lot to answer for."

This vigorous protest was uttered by a Grand Army veteran who recently arrived in Washington to attend the annual encampment next week.

"A number of my comrades for whom special pension bills had been passed died in want," said this old soldier. "They did not receive their special pension because the Democrats had made errors in the wording of the special laws, and death came before the errors were corrected."

Examination of the special pension legislation by the Democrats furnishes a scathing incident of shocking inefficiency.

Scarcely an omnibus pension bill has been passed since the Democrats came into power that is not honeycombed with mistakes which blocked the payment of pensions to old soldiers.

These mistakes could have been avoided by the exercise of the simplest degree of ordinary care. In some instances when the bills were drafted the name of the soldier was misspelled or the wrong initials were given. In others the name was correct but an error was made in describing the company in which he served; and in other cases name and company were right, but the regiment of the soldier was wrong.

Either error was fatal to the payment of the pension Congress had awarded, because the bill did not exactly correspond with the official records of the pension office. The Commissoner was therefore unable legally to put the name of the soldier on the pension rolls.

When the pension officials discovered these errors they were reported to the Invalid Pension Committees of the House and Senate. Attempts were made to correct the faulty laws by the passage of joint resolutions in which the mistakes were described and rectified. But their passage was delayed for weeks and months, and even then some of the corrections were inaccurate.

Meanwhile death was thinning the ranks of the old soldiers at a rate estimated above forty thousand a year, with the result that a large percentage of the veterans in whose behalf the laws were enacted died without receiving the recognition which their government had declared was due them.

In striking contrast to this Democratic record, the history of special pension legislation under Republican rule shows that errors of this sort rarely if ever occurred.

MORE SHAKING UP OF ACCREDITED FOREIGN OFFICIALS

It is reported that the Admintration has about decided that Capt. Franz von Papen, military attache of the German Embassy, and Alexander von Nuber, Austrian Counsul-General at New York, are no longer acceptable to this government, and thir recall will be requested, and, unless the request shall be promptly complied with, that they will be sent home. Capt. von Papen has referred to the American people, as those "idiotic Yankies," and von Nuber is the man who submitted to Dr. Dumba the plan for fomenting strikes in munitions factories in this country. Both these men been engaged in that business and in violating the sovereignty of the United States.

William Waren, editor of a paper published in the Hungarian language, will be prosecuted legally upon the charge of having outlined the plan, for this interference with the munitions plants, which was adopted by Dr. Dumba.

Up to yesterday nothing had been heard from the Austro-Hungarian government in response to the request for Dumba's recall. He is, however, preparing to depart.
