0463

1882 September [redacted] Galloway C. Morris incoming letters 1994

accounts in Court; the check having been drawn including that amount but not yet delivered to you. I remember being an item in some of the accounts charging the executors with the price received for the horse, so that is all right; & the overcharge to you arises from that, however you arrive at the figures. I do not vouch for my explanation you will remember, I merely said it produced the figures given by Carey. There was no release sent you as none has been sent me. The amount due from you has been advanced and paid by the Executors or Carey or somebody so it will be important for you to study the accounts carefully if you finally determine not to refund it. I am sorry we cant go over the account together but I think you will find it correct tho' stupidly stated, d — d stupidly.

Yours truly

E. B. Morris.

P.S. I have already withdrawn the A & O. R.R. notes from the Penna. Co. so that there is no danger of a pay there.

Effingham B. Morris.
Attorney at Law.
No. 404 Locust St. Philadelphia.

Sept. 1. 82

Dear Uncle Gall.

Yours recd. I dont wonder you cannot understand the accounts; they are certainly unnecessarily complicated but as Father seems to have had some explanation of them he will probably write you. It is very difficult to write any explanation, the rule in them I believe is merely in the method of statement & if you compare the amount you have actualey received with the amount as stated in the account — if you can discover what that is — you will find them practically the same.

The $8 96 of which you spoke was stated as paid you, I [redacted] as a fictious in order [redacted] the