IN MEMORIAM

In sad, but loving remembrance of my dear husband, John W. Ogg, who departed this life April the 26th, 1910.

..If husband were only here.
My life is so weary, so full of sadness and pain,
Each day brings its shadows, its Mists and its rain;
There is no ray of sunshine my pathway to cheer,
But sorrow would vanish if husband were here.
Each hope for me is blooming, but blooms to decay;
Each joy that I treasure soon withers away;
My dreams full of beauty in gloom disappear,
But soon all would brighten if husband were here.
In life I loved; In death I remember.

By his loving wife.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad, but loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, Herbert B. Greenwood, who departed this life one year ago today, April 25th, 1916.

Oh! may thy last long sleep be calm and sweet, our dear son and brother, who so nobly gave his life's best work for home and his beloved

Sleep on in peaceful slumber, hero, sleep
May angels guard thy grave and bear thy soul upon that day when graves shall give their dead to that fair land where no dark waters roll

Parents, sisters and brother.

MANCHESTER

With the fine weather the planting season is upon us and farmers and gardeners are kept quite busy and laborers are at a premium all along the line. The grain and grass in this section is looking fine though some claim both are short for the advanced season but the growing season is still before us and if we are to have bumper crops when the harvest comes the ingathering will be bountiful. The early bloom is great and is said to be O.K. as yet. If the fruitage can be measured by the bloom it will be abundant. We think the vegetable planting is above the average in this section.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad, but loving remembrance of my beloved wife, Mary E. Kuhns, who departed this life one year ago to-day, April 30, 1916.

Gone but not forgotten
Thy willing hands will toil no more
Thy work on earth is done.
A brighter home was won in Heaven,
And to it she has gone.

But as I stand and look around,
Her face I can not see,
I wonder why the Lord took her
So young away from me.

But I supose that God knew best,
And took her home with him to rest,
To lead the way and for me to pray,
To meet her again some future day.

Friends may think that I'll forget her,
But I never, never will.
How could I forget an angel,
That was so kind and true to me?

Oh, how we all do miss her!
No tongue can ever tell,
But trust in God we will meet her,
In Heaven there to dwell.

By her devoted husband,
John S. Kuhns.

WAR NEARING END

That the Allies will bring the great European War to a successful termination by the end of the summer is the unbiased belief of a notable French artist visiting here at this time in the person of Augustin Panon, a guest at the home of Carlos deGarmendia, of Tuscarora, Frederick county. Monsieur Panon arrived in New York last Saturday on the Spanish Steamship Montevideo and will remain in this country until some time in May. He has known Mr. deGarmendia for a number of years, having met him in New York a number of years ago at an art exhibition. "America will never have to send soldiers to Europe," Monsieur Panon said: "Your country's moral and financial support is sufficient. Our men were greatly enthused to learn of President Wilson's action. It proved to the world that our cause is just and that German militarism must be suppressed." The artist himself is beyond the military age and has consequently never been called to the front. "This war will end by the close of the summer," he continued, "I can't see how Germany can subsist any longer, for we have received positive assurance that the people there are starving. Personally, it is my opinion that there will be a great battle some time this summer and Germany will be crushed. The English however are inclined to believe that the war may last a little longer."

MAGISTRATE TO LOSE JOB

Governor Harrington was informed Friday that a justice of the peace of Talbot county had refused to answer questions provided in the military survey census. The Governor immediately demanded the arrest and indictment of the magistrate.

The Executive declared he refused to have in the services of the State any man who is not a red-blooded and loyal American.

The Governor withheld the name of the accused magistrate in the hope that the prospect of arrest would bring him to his sense and that by giving the information desired he would escape the disgrace of arrest.

¶ "I don't know why it is," said an out-of-town customer, "but whenever I come to Baltimore to shop, I spend most of my time at Hochschild, Kohn & Co.'s. You have such nice merchandise, your salespeople are so polite and accommodating, and I feel so thoroughly at home in your store, that it is a real pleasure to shop there."

¶ We have been busy for nearly twenty years, devising new ways in which to make this store a pleasant place to shop—a place where customers would come again and again.

¶ Any reliable store can sell dependable merchandise. Any honest merchant will charge only a fair price for his wares. What, then, will make people come to one store in preference to others?

¶ Good Service.
