Colored People Delighted With New Discovery to Bleach the Skin.

Atlanta, Ga.—Says that recent tests have proven without doubt that swarthy or sallow complexions can be made light by a new treatment recently discovered by a man in Atlanta. Just ask your druggist for Cocotone Skin Whitener. People who have used it are amazed at its wonderful effect. Rid your face of that awful dark color or greasy appearance in a few minutes. It costs so little that you can't afford to be without it. Just think how much prettier you would look with that old dark skin gone and new soft, light skin in its place. Men and women today must care for their complexions to enter society.

If your druggist will not supply you with Cocotone Skin Whitener, send 25c for a large package to Cocotone Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Roosevelt Orders His Army Disbanded

Assails Wilson—Quotes Paper Declaring His Move Was Responsible for Pershing Expedidition Bein Sent At An Early date

From the Baltimore American.

New York, May 20.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, in a long statement issued tonight, called upon the men who had volunteered for his proposed division to France to disband immediately. He advised them to get to the front in the best way they could. If they were unable to secure places in service abroad, he suggested that they devote their energies to aiding the country at home.

A vigorous reply was made to the statement of President Wilson, issued on Friday, denying the Roosevelt request for service abroad.

It is understood tonight that the Colonel will decide not to accept the position at the head of the National Guard of New York, offered to him by Governor Whitman.

Colonel Roosevelt's statement follows:

"To the men who have volunteered for immediate service on the firing line in the divisions which Congress authorized:

"The President has announced that he will decline to permit these divisions to be organized or to permit me to have a command in connection with such a force. After consultation yesterday, personally or by wire, with some of the men who had volunteered to raise units—regiments and battalions—for the division, including John C. Groome, of Pennsylvania; Seth Bullock, of South Dakota; John C. Greenway, of Arizona; John M. Parker, of Louisiana; Robert Carey, ex-governor of Wyoming; J. . Donnelly, of Nevada; Sloane Simpson, of Texas; D. C. Collier and F. R. Durnham, of California; I. L. Reeves and H. Nelson Jackson, of Vermont; Henry L. Stimson, former Secretary of War; William L. Schieffelin, Hamilton Fish and William J. Donovan, of New York; R. H. Channing, David M. Goodrich, William E. Dame and various others who were immediately accessible it was decided unanimously that in view of the decision of the President the only course open to us is forthwith to disband and to abandon all further effort in connection with the division.

"As good American citizens we loyally obey the decision of the commander-in-chief of the American Army and Navy.

"The men who have volunteered will now consider themselves absolved from all further connection with this movement. The funds that have been promised will be treated as withdrawn and applied to other purposes. I therefore direct that this statement be sent to the leaders in various states who have been raising troops and that it be published. Our sole aim is to help in every way in the successful prosecution of the war and we most heartily feel that no individual's personal interest should for one moment be considered, save as it can serve the general public interest.

"We rejoice that a division composed of our regular soldiers and marines under so gallant and efficient a leader as General Pershing, is to be sent abroad. We have a right to a certain satisfaction in connection therewith. The Brooklyn Eagle last evening stated authoritatively that the sending of this expedition was a compromise between the original plans of the General Staff, which favored no early expedition, and the request of Col. Roosevelt for authority for an immediate expedition. The Roosevelt agitation, backed by the expressed desire of such distinguished leaders as Gen. Joffre and Gen. Petain unquestionably had its effect on the bringing about of the Pershing expedition. The compromise is that France gets American soldiers in the trenches, but Roosevelt will not leave or accompany them. It is believed in Washington that any criticism for turning down Roosevelt will be fully answered by the fact that American soldiers are going over.

"This gives the explanation of the matter. I gladly say that we are all unselfishly pleased to have served this use, although naturally we regret not to have been allowed ourselves to render active service.

Colonel Roosevelt declared that had his offer been accepted all four of his proposed divisions would have sailed and two would have been on the firing line by September 1, "the time at which the Secretary of War has announced that the assembly of the selective draft army is to begin."

"I wish," said Colonel Roosevelt, "respectfully to point out certain errors into which the President has been led in his announcemnt. He states that the purpose was to give me an 'independent command.' In my last letter to the Secretary of War I explicitly stated that if I were given permission to raise an army corps of two divisions to be put under the command of some general like Wood, Pershing, Barry or Kuhn. I desired for myself only the position of junior among the eight brigade commanders. I would not have been 'independent.' I would have been in precisely the position of all the other brigade commanders except that I would have ranked after and been subordinate to the rest of them.

"The President alludes to our proposed action as one that would have an effect 'politically,' but not contributing to the 'success of the war' and so representing a 'policy of personal gratification or advantage.' I wish respectfully, but emphatically to deny that any political considerations whaever or any desire for personal gratification or advantage entered into our calculations. Our undivided purpose was to contribute effectively to the success of the war. I know nothing whatever of the politics of the immense majority of the men who came forward, and those whose politics I do know include as many Democrats as Republicans. My purpose was to enable the government to use as invaluable the men who would not be reached under the selective draft, who were flit for immediate service and the great majority of whom would not otherwise be used at all."

"The President," continued Colonel Roosevelt, "says in effect that to comply with our offer would be mischievous from the military standpoint, and he adds that the regular officers whom I have asked to have associated with me are 'some of the most effective officers of the regular Army' who 'cannot possibly be spared' from the 'duty of training regular troops.' One of the chief qualifications for military command is to choose for one's associates and subordinates 'the most effective officers,' and this qualification the President has stated that I possess. As for my withdrawing them from the 'much more pressing and necessary duty of training' the troops, I wish to point out that I have asked for about 50 regular officers from lieutenant colonels to second lieutenants for the first division.

"This would be only about one-tenth of the number who would go with General Pershing's division, which the President announced is to be composed exclusively of regulars. Therefore the recent plan will take from 'pressing and necessary duty' about ten times as many regular officers as would have been taken under our proposal. It has been stated that the regular officers are opposed to the plan. As a matter of fact, the 'most effective' fighting officers have been eager to be connected with or to have under them the troops we proposed to raise.

"The President condemns our proposal on the ground that 'undramatic action is needed; action that is practical and of scientific definiteness and precision.' There was nothing 'dramatic' in our proposal, save as all proposals indicating eagerness or willingness to sacrifice life for an idea are dramatic. It is true that our division would have contained the sons and grandsons of men who in the Civil War wore the blue or the gray; for instance, the sons or grandsons of Phil Sheridan, Fitzhugh Lee, Stonewall Jackson, James A. Garfield, Simeon B. Buckner, Adne Chaffee, Nathan Bedford Forrest. But these men would have served, whether with command or in the ranks, precisely like the rest of us; and all alike would have been judged solely by the efficiency, including the 'scientific definiteness' with which they did their work and served the flag, or their loyal devotion."

One year in jail was the sentence imposed Monday upon Capt. Franz Rintelen, of the German Navy, David Lamar and H. B. Martin, convicted Sunday in the Federal Court of conspiracy to interfere with shipment of munitions to the Entente Allies in 1915. Judge Cushman directed that the convicted men be confined in the mercer County (New Jersey) Penitentiary, located near Trenton. Counsel for the government had asked that Rintelen be imprisoned in the Tombs in New York until June, arguing that there were other indicements against the German naval captain which would be pushed to trial. Pending a possible appeal from the verdict rendered by the jury Sunday night, the court set bail for Rintelen at $25,000, for Lamar at $10,000, and for Martin at $5,000. In the case of Frank Buchanan and H. R. Roberts Fowler, former represenatives in Congress; Herman Schulteis and Jacob L. Taylor, who also were tried, but upon whom the jury disagreed, bail was fixed at $5,000 each.

From the Hampstead Enterprise.

Mr. C. C. Wooden, of this county, has received word from his son, Dr. Morris Wooden, that he and two of his daughters, were at a hospital in Washington, D. C., taking the Pasteur treatment. They were slightly bitten by some pups several weeks ago, but thought nothing of it until some time later when the pups began to act queerly. A few days later they died. Dr. Wooden immediately had an examination made and found it to be a case of genuine rabies, so he and his daughters began to take treatment at once. They left thehospital last week, so it is hoped that all danger is over.

Some apprehension was caused among the graduate nurses in Baltimore Sunday when it became known that two American Red Cross nurses had been killed and another injured aboard the steamer Mongolia, bound for a Europepan port. It is not believed, however, that any Red Cross nurses from Baltimore were on the ship. The first detail of the Baltimore nurses to go aboard left New York May 10 on the Saxonia. It is believed that the Saxonia has reached her port of destination. Friends and relatives of the Baltimore nurses have heard nothing definite from them since the steamer sailed.

The trouble with the Russian workmen under the new regime seems to be that they have only been given six holidays a week.

MRS. B. A. B. LOCKWOOD

Mrs. Belva A. B. Lockwood, the first woman to be admitted to practice before the Supreme Court, a pioneer in the woman-suffrage movement and the only woman who ever was a candidate for President of the United States died Saturday, 19th. inst., in Washington, after a long illness, at the age of 86 years.

As the first woman lawyer admitted to practice in the United States Supreme Court, and by her activities in the woman-suffrage and temperance movements Belva Lockwood was very widely known prior to 1884, but it was in that year that she won national prominence as a nominee for President of the United States. The national campaign of that year was enlivened by the three-cornered fight created by the candidacy of Gen. Benjamin Butler. It was made spectacular by the debut of a woman in the field of national politics.

Ignoringthe fact that women were not entitled to vote for President, delegates to the convention of the Women's National Equal Rights party solemnly nominated Belva Lockwood for the Presidency after declaring that Susan B. Anthony was too much of a spinster, and Lucy Stone, of bloomer fame, too narrow for the White House job Mrs. Lockwood took the honor seriously and wrote a letter of acceptance in which she said:

"I believe with your unanimous and cordial support, and the firmness and justness of our cause, we shall not only be able to carry the election but to guide the ship of state fairly into port."

She stated that she would, if elected, appoint a reasonable number of women as District Attorneys, Marshals and judges of the United States courts. In the letter she gave her views on marriage and divorce, temperance, equal compensation for men and women and several other important questions. A similar letter marked her acceptance of the nomination by the some party in 1888.

Belva Ann Bennett Lockwood was born October 24, 1830, at Royaltown, N. Y., where, at the age of 14, she taught school, earning the money which carried her through Genesee College, where she was graduated in 1847

BIG FIRE IN ATLANTA, GA.

Fire that started late Monday afternoon in an obsucre negro section swept a broad path through the residential section of Atlanta, devastating scores of blocks and destroying many of the city's finest homes and hundreds of negro houses. Although the flames were not entirely under control Monday night, they had been checked half way through the exclusive Ponce de Leon avenue residence section, and fire officials believed there was little danger of a further spread.

First estimates of the damage placed it at between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. So far as could be learned the only life lost was that of a woman who died from shock.

The fire was confined to the northeastern part of the city, and the only business houses burned were several warehouses near Decatur and Fort streets, the point of origin.

A high wind carried the flames northeastward with a speed which soon outran the efforts of the fire department. Within an hour after the first alarm the blaze began to assume the proportions of a condagration, and fire officials called in several hnudred men from the Fort McPherson officers' training camp to aid in the fight. Appeals for help also brought fire equipment from a half dozen neighboring cities.

The dramatic struggle with the flames reached a climax at nightfall, when the fire fighters made a stand at Boulevard place and began dynamiting a wide area to protect the Ponce de Leon section. The effort was only partially successful, and an hour later the dynamiters had to begin their work over again two blocks beyond the avenue. A lull in the wind favored their work and by night they were about holding their own, though many still feared that before morning the flames again would gain headway and burn their way through to the edge of the city.

The 26th annual convention of the Carroll County Christian Endeavor Union will be held at Taneytown on Thursday and Friday, May 31st and June 1st. The service will be held in both Lutheran and Presbyterian churches. The convention theme will be "Prepare ye the Way," and around this theme will be built all the conferences and addresses. The best speakers in the State will have a place on the program. Conferences will be conducted by the State Secretary Spencer E. Sisco, and the State President, Courtland B. Springer, is down for an address explaining fully the great work of the State Union. The State Junior Superintendent, Mrs. J. D. Belt, is also Junior Superintendent of Carroll County, so that a rousing Junior rally is assured

E. Austin Baughman, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner, hurrying from Baltimore to Frederick last Saturday to see his favorite baseball team wallop some other team, was about 3 hours late and saw no game. On the way up he found many motor-car drivers who had little or no regard for the Maryland law, so he started to round them up, with the result that he had 17 cases. Ten of them were West Virginians, who thought it all right to come over into Maryland without any license tags. When the J. P. got through with them they were wiser and a bit less wealthy.
