My dear Gally

This is the first letter I have attempted to write this year and will begin by wishing you many happy returns. Your letter containing the certificate of stock in Virginia Mining and Improvement Company was received last night, containing also the wish that we would if possible let you know promptly about what securities to have transferred to me and what we would use in paying for the farm. Harry has looked over your list and also your letter accompanying it, which gives your ideas about the securities etc, and we think it will

I have just re read your letter and note what you say about the interest on securities of course when the final payments are made, there must be an adjustment of interest between us. As I remember our agreement about the purchase of the farm we were to pay you 6 interest until the business was concluded, and to receive from you interest from securities, so that if we pay again the interest we should receive what is due on my portion of securities until the date of final settlement.
