PREVENT DISEASE IN FARM ANIMALS

SUPPLY PLENTY OF CLEAN FOOD AND PURE WATER.

HEALTH MOST IMPORTANT

Keep Stables and Yards Clear of Trash and Filth.

College Park, May 31.—Under present conditions the need of preserving the supply of farm livestock is most urgent. The spread of disease in any community would seriously affect its food supply and make it a burden on other sections that are now taxed to the limit to meet the demand for meat. Maryland farmers are urged by S. S. Buckley, specialist in animal industry for the State Agricultural Extension Service, to take every precaution to prevent the spread of disease and maintain the healthy growth of all livestock grown for meat. In a contribution to "Successful Farming," he says: "To maintain the health and productivity of your animals, the following rules must be observed:

"1. Feed only sound, wholesome grain and fodder. Supply pure water, plentiful in amount, and frequently.

"2. Supply salt regularly. Rock salt contains the necessary minerals for body wants.

"3. Charcoal may be given occasionally with benefit and may be fed with the salt.

"4. Feed with extreme regularity, and according to the requirements of animals, in quantity and nutrition value.

"5. Developing or growing animals, females with young, pregnant females, males for breeding purposes, work animals and animals not at work require different feeds, in quantity and quality.

"6. Animals at pasture require attention. Pasturage may be adequate or it may need to be supplemented with addtional feed.

"7. Make all changes in rations gradually. Add any new addition to the ration in small and successively increasing amounts until the desired mixture is secured.

"8. Unwholesome food is frequently produced on farms, and, being unmarketable, is kept for feeding purposes. Such foods may be fed safely if proper methods are employed. Any dirty, damaged, rotten and apparently unwholesome grain is readily improved by passing once or twice through a grain fan.

"9. Keep stables, pens and yards clear at all times. Put the manure on the fields where it is needed and burn all trash. Drain any low places that collect water, and make stagnant pools impossible.

"10. Use plaster on stable floors to dry them and white wash on walls for the purifying effects.

PROFITABLE ONION GROWING.

College Park, May 31.—The need of growing staple vegetables to maintain the food supply of the country is becoming more and more apparent daily. Probably no vegetable offers better opportunities for profit than the onion owing to its scarcity and its food value. To supply the many demands made of the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service for information regarding onion growing, S. B. Shaw, specialist in horticulture, has prepared a special circular on the subject. Mr. Shaw says in part:

"Onions may be grown from either seed or sets. A great many growers are now raising their crops direct from seed in asingle season. The seed is sown thinly in drills 12 to 15 inches apart, as early in the spring as the soils can properly be prepared. From 4 to 5 pounds of seed are required for planting an acre. The young plants should be tended carefully and kept free from weeds, and when well started should be thinned to stand 2 inches apart in the row.

"If onion sets are planted it will take about 8 bushels for one acre. The sets are put in 2 inches apart, in rows the same distance apart as for seed.

"As soon as the young seedlings start sufficiently to show the rows, cultivation should begin. This is important for two reasons. First, to destroy all weeds when they are small and most easily killed, and second, to establish a mulch of surface soil that will conserve moisture.

"Onions need plenty of moisture for their development. Water in the soil rises slowly to the surface, and if the crust formed after a rain is not broken, the moisture evaporates and passes into the air. Cultivating after each rain breaks this crust and forms a mulch of fine, loose soil which checks evaporation."

Wherever possible, means should be provided for ranging chickens, especially growing chicks, in the corn field. This is especially true this year when feeds are so high, for the chickens will be able to get a considerable amount of nourishment from the bugs and worms and green stuff that they will be able to pick up. Furthermore, during the hot weather, the shade of the corn is an excellent thing for them, and the chickens do very little damage and considerable good to the corn field.

Precautions, however, should be taken against hawks, crows, and other enemies, if the corn field is situated where they are troublesome.—Roy H. Waite, Poultryman, Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

The time has now come when conservative citizens can wear straw hats without shocking the moral standards of the community.

The act that it is with difficulty that you can tub a boy once a week during the winter, does not prove that considerations of cleanliness will not make it imperative to go in swimming four times a day during summer.

MANCHESTER

The Whit Monday festivity was badly broken up by the inclement weather, Sunday being a fine day with several light rains by passing clouds did not indicate that the next to follow to be unpleasant, but after midnight it began to rain and the early morning hours brought shower but towards noon there was a break and to our surprise by 2 P. M. the hour for the street show the square had a large crowd of people to enjoy a good exhibition that was cut short by an on coming rain that later drove everybody to cover and many persons to their homes. At this period the committee arranged with McCaslin to be here on Saturday afternoon with his perfomers to give a full entertainment at two and 7 P. M. while the merry-go-round will accommodate them all.

A friend informed us that the Rev. Paul B. Rupp resigned as pastor of the McKeesport, Pa., Reformed congregation and has enlisted as a chaplain of a Pennsylvania company to be sent to France. He is the youngest son of the Rev. Wm. Rupp, D. D., who was pastor of the Manchester charge. He is a native of this town, a graduate of Franklin lin and Marshal College and of the Theological Seminary at Lancaster and successfully served the above named congregation for five years that reluctanty accepted his resignation.

Mrs. C. M. Masenheimer who is a member of the Red Cross society was anxious to contribute her share to the work arranged with the Lippy Bros. to give an entertainment in their theater on Thursday evening, 24th, when they gave a five reel show The Light to an over flowing audience from which Mrs. M. realized $20.00 net which she is increasing to $25.00 for to purchase an electric fan for a war hospital, and extends her thanks to the many friends who patronized the entertainment and contribute their mites to a worthy cause.

The members of Daniel and Jacob Lodge No. 23, I O. O. F. will hold a chicken and waffle supper in their hall on Friday evening, June 8th, to be followed by a social and free entertainment. Don't forget the date; be on hand and get your share of the C. & W. and the rest of good things.

A letter here from a friend in Frederick announced the death of Miss Sarah Colliflower at the home of her nephew, Mr. Harry Comfort, where services were held on Saturday, 26, after which the body was laid to rest in a family lot in the cemetery. She was afflicted with rheumatism for a long time but death was caused from hardening of the arteries. She was a daughter of the late Wm. F. Colliflower who was pastor of the Manchester Reformed charge when Kriders was one of the churches. During that period the deceased was one of our girls and a frequent visitor afterward.

We were informed several days ago that York Co, Pa., has a circle of 10,000 Red Cross members. When the society asked for 5000 the larger towns took up the matter and formed circles so that the smaller towns imbibed the spirit and formed circles so that the County friend said the circle will get back $5.000 for them to use as they elect along R. C. lines.

Messrs. H. T. J. Lamotte and John K. Miller will sit as war registers in the Firemen's Hall on Tuesday, June 5th, to register men of the 1st precinct, 6th election Dist., between the ages of 21 and 30 years, both inclusive. Messrs. J. B. Lynerd and C. W. Lippy will sit at the same time in the Trump room on South Main street to register those of the same ages in the second precinct of the District.

Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Wells and son Earl, of Gamber, were guests of their mother, Mrs. Washington Musselman, on Whit Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitman, of Littlestown, Pa., were visitors at the home of their sister, Mrs. J. F. B. Weaver, during the week end.

Mrs. May E. Gettier is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John H. Staub, of Richmond, Va.

Mrs. A. C. Cass, of Baltimore, was a guest of her cousin, Mrs. H. T. J. Lamotte, during the week.

Mr. Ernest Lynerd, of Washington, D. C., spent Whitsentide with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lynerd, at Cottage Home, Germantown.

Prof. Horace Garrett, of Baltimore, was here among friends on Whit Monday.

Mrs. Reta Ruby accepted a position as sales lady in the Hoffman department store and entered on her dutie's on the 24th.

Thanks to the American Sentinel Co. for their kind greetings and beautiful souvenier on the 21st.

Mrs. Clarence Jones, of Baltimore, was a guest of her sister, Mrs. J. W. Snyder, on Whit Monday.

There was a record breaking crowd in town on Saturday evening. Main street was parked with autos. When looking south looked like the red light district, the pavements were crowded-business in high G and movie with an overflowing audience.

MILLERS

Mrs. Jane Miller and daughter Amy have gone to Baltimore where they will spend the summer.

Misses Fern Miller and Myrl Rinehart visited friends at Baltimore several days recently.

Daniel Bender, of Jersey City, visited his mother and sister here last Sunday.

Miss Lottie Dell, of Baltimore, visited friends in this place the past week.

Clarence Miller, wife and son, of Baltimore, visited the formers parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Miller, last Sunday.

A surprise party was given Howard Hare last Friday evening by his family. A large crowd was present and a good time was enjoyed by all. Those present were: Messrs. and Medames David Brown, Lloyd Miller, Charles Brown, Denton Wisner, Harvey Shaffer, Clinton Bortner, James Hare and Howard Garrett; Mrs. Elizabeth Richarts and Mrs. Belle Bortner; Misses Corrinne Shaffer, Bessie McCullugh, Pena Garrett, Helen Frederick, Mary and Helen Lippy, Mary Hare, Erma Shaffer, Grace Rohrbaugh, Amanda and Lucille Wisner, Grace Brown Alta, Lottie and Treva Hare; Messrs.
