VOLUNTEERS WANTED FOR THE REGULAR ARMY

The men of Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia are apparently beginning to realize that they are needed to volunteer in the Regular Army. The full quota for these two States and the District of Columbia must be obtained, and must be obtained quickly in order that the plans of the Administration may be carried out.

Definie and detailed plans of the General Staff of the Army have been worked out to the effect that the Regular Army has been given a certain mission. A certain place in the order of this has been designated for it, and there are certain duties for it to perform.

Such a vast and complex organization as an Army of a nation as great as the United States, must need to have each and every unit complete and efficient to the nth power. That part of its Regular Army which it has is efficient. It is not yet completed. It rests with the eligible young men of the country to complete it by volunteering their services.

Although the Regular Army Week, so designated by the President in his proclamation, has come to an end, even a harder drive than any yet made by the Regular Army Recruiting Officers of this District must be undertaken.

Captain McKenney believes it entirely possible that Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia can be brought through with their quota before the end of July. Then these two States and the District of Columbia will have the satisfaction of knowing that they have done their part in furnishing men to the Nation.

About now many people leave quiet city streets for rest out in the country, where they find honking motor cars, clouds of dust, and cut out mufflers.

Anyway about now the farmer has that place in the sun that Germany went to war to get.
