CARE OF SEED CORN

It Should Begin Immediately After Gathering and Be Continued Until the Grain Is Planted.

The same day that seed corn is gathered from standing stalks as they grow in the field the husked ears should be put in a dry place where there is a free circulation of air, and so placed that the ears do not touch one another.

This is the only safe way, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, which says that much good seed has been ruined because it was thought to be dry enough when gathered. Many farmers think that their autumns are so dry that these precautions are not necessary, yet there is no locality where the corn will not be bettered by a thorough drying treatment. If corn is left in the husk it may sprout or mildew during warm wet weather, and it is more likely to become infested with weevils.

Poor Storage Impairs Vitality.

The vitality of seed may be reduced by leaving it in a sack or in a pile for even a day after it has been gathered During warm fall days, with some moisture in the cobs and kernels, the ears heat or mildew in a remarkably short time.

The best and cheapest treatment immediately after the ears are gathered and husked is to tie the ears singly on binder twine at about 8-inch intervals, the twine being looped about the middle of the ears so that they hang balanced and horizontal. Ordinary binder twine it strong enough to support from 15 to 20 ears.

Wire racks are cheaper in the long run and more convenient. A good form is made from welded or woven wire fencing, the upright wires being used as the hangers, and the lateral wires cut off and bent upward being used as supports for the individual ears. The lataeral wires, about 3 inches long on either side of the main upright, are thrust into the butt end of the cobb. These racks will last many years and are easily stored when not in use. In use, with the corn upon them, they have somewhat the appearance of giant fern fronds. The central wire is the midrib of the leaf, and the ears of corn stand out on each side like the fern leaflets, or like leaflets on a locust tree.

Wooden seed racks, in which the ears are stored in rows on separate shelves, are convenient dryers, and have no drawbacks in a dry, breezy place, although the air can not circulate freely on all sides and dampness may be held where the row of knernels rests on the wood.

Only during unusually damp weather at seed-gathering time will a fire be necessary to help the drying. Yet if heart is applied in a poorly ventilated place, it will do more harm than good. If used, the fire should be slow and long-continued. It should be below the ears with plenty of good ventilation above them.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad, but loving remembrance of my dear father and mother, David H. and Annie R. Warehime, who fell asleep in Jesus, one year ago the 5th and 6th of September.

The month of September once more is here,
To me the saddest of all the year,
Because it took from me my dear father and mother whom I loved so dear.
They are waiting by the river,
Just across the silvery stream,
Where sweet flowers are ever blooming
And the banks are always green.
You have gone from us dear father and mother,
To your Savior good and true;
You have won the heavently glory,
Which is for us to do.
From this world of grief and trouble,
To a land of peace and rest,
You have landed safe in the arms of Jesus,
There to find everlasting rest.
Since within the grave we have laid you dear father and mother, one long, long year ago.
Happiness from home has flown
Life seems strangely dark and dreary,
And the days have longer grown.
For the ones we loved Oh! so dear have left us,
Which breaks our poor aching hearts.
You are gone dear father and mother, but Oh! you will never, never be forgotten, for as long as life and memory last, we will remember thee.

By your loving daughter, Effie G. and husband, William H. Myers, and grand children, Mary C., Thurman W., Sterling C. and J. William Myers.

Household Cares

Tax the Women of Westminster the Same as Elsewhere

Hard to attend to household duties
With a constantly aching back.
A woman should not have a bad back,
And she seldom would if the kidneys were well.
Doan's Kidney Pills are endorsed by thousands.
Have been used in kidney trouble over 50 years.
Read what this Westminster woman says:

Mrs. Lewis A. Berman, 129 Pennsylvania avenue, Westminster, says: "My back pained me terribly as if pierced by some sharp instrument. The pains bothered me mostly when retiring at night and in the morning. Some times I couldn't get up to do my work. The kidney secretions were unnatural and my sight was so poor I had to wear glasses. The doctor didn't do me any good and when a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did. They gave me great relief. I still use this medicine whenever I need it and I highly recommend it."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Berman had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

REPAIRING, CLEANING AND PRESSING, A SPECIALTY

IN MEMORY OF

Charles Calvin Marker who departed this life August 31, 1917, aged 1, year, 1 month and 19 days.

Little lips now closed forever,
They will never more be pressed,
But in spirit they are singing
Sweet anthems with the blest.

Innocent was he and spotless,
He was ready then to go;
And another angel watches
O'er the loved ones here below.

O ,sweet Calvin, we are coming
Up to meet you one by one,
When the toilsome life is over,
And the weary journey done

By his parents.

How can we think our lovely one gone,
Our Calvin we loved so well;
How can it be so sweet a flower,
No more with us can dwell.

Still shed not for him the bitter tear,
Nor give the heart to vain regret;
'Tis but the casket that lies low,
The gem that filled it sparkles yet.

All is sad within our dwelling,
Lonely is our home to-day;
Calvin, one we loved so dearly,
Has forever passed away.

By his grandparents,
Mr. and Mrs. Calvin R. Starner.
