SIDE ONE

lately, that the people living in that neighbourhood complained of the nuisance of a sewer in the street, in that vicinity, and I do not think that section of the city is healthy. Your dear father said, the banks of the Schuylkill up there were more malarious than Bell River. It might be well to inquire, before living there, as some years ago, there was a great deal of Typhoid fever in that section of the city. E. Reed's house in itself, as far as I know, would be just the thing for dear Hal & yourself & I would be glad she could have such good tenants. I feel very sorry for her. Had I known, 2 months ago, that you wished a furnished house, I might have asked you to take my furniture for this winter & have moved it from the Library at Solitude, to any house you had rented, but now, it is all divided some went to Bell River & some to Miss Martin's & the rest is stored at Jane Quinn's and I could not bear my engaging much for her as it helps her. My dear Hal, such a house is hard to rent, in a decent neighborhood, & I have been anxious for you to have a good tenant. Yesterday morning, I was to visit Bella Martin, before your arrival, but I was detained many days. Now, I will write immediately to tell you all I know about E. Reed's house, 2205 Pine Place. It was not there they suffered from malaria, but from bad drainage, at Annie Robins' in Spruce Place No 2304, I believe. In that house it was discovered, after several members of the family had Typhoid fever, Annie herself being very ill, that there was no connection whatever with the more than to have had a letter from Ella Thomson to me, and this I had to wait for before I could write to you. Hence my delay in writing. I am very glad you have secured such a good tenant for your house. Yesterday I received a letter from Ella Thomson to me, and this I had to wait for before I could write to you.
