CHILDREN'S CORNER

THE NAMING OF FORGET-ME-NOT
By Jessie Goodall

In a dark woods where the sunshine and shadows played hide-and-seek, wild flowers of many varities and colors grew. Among them, most gentle and timid of all, was a tiny blue-eyed blossom, almost hidden in her dress of green leaves. As the wind played about her she meekly bowed her head, too modest to meet his glances, too shrinking to ask that he disist from ruffling her petals that had caught the blue of the sky. Behind larger flowers she hid quite unnoticed save by the Father, as he looked down on the cool dim woods, giving each flower, large and small, a name. A golden smile lit up the faces of the daffodils, the roses grew red with pleasure, the lillies swayed until they were purple and white with exertion, kissing the water in their delight that a name had been given them. In shyness the little blue flower received her name grateful for the Fathers notice. The fires of sunset paled into lengthening shadows of night. Silence brooded over the woods and the flowers slept. A bee stopping too long to sip the sweets of clover blooms in a near-by field, on his tardy return to his hive, rested a moment in the blood red heart of a rose, then flew on. The daffordils nodding their heads, dreamed of the den that, on the morrow, would sparkle as diamonds in their crown of gold. Violets, born of tears that fell from the blue eyes of a lost child in the woods. Stirred in their rest, nestling closer to their protecting leaves. Daisies, children of the stars, wrapped their white mantle about them, pinned it with a brooch of gold, and laid themselves down to dream of twinkling eyes watching over their slumber. Only the tall lillies kept watch, swinging their white censors filled with incense over the slumbering flowers.

If Uncle Sammy Calls Me, I Go
BY R. H. HUSE
Read at Welnrs (N. H.) camp meeting, August, 1917)

I live in good old Boston,
I have business, home and friends,
But when the flag of my country
To me the summons sends,
I'll not invent a reason
Why I should answer "No",
If my Uncle Sammy calls me
I will go.

I've a mother and a sweetheart,
Who watch the draft with fears,
But when I am selected
They smile behind their tears.
They said "Old Glory calls you,
You will not answer 'No'
If your Uncle Sammy needs you
You must go."

I've laid aside my banjo
And the peaceful ways of home,
With pride I donned the khaki,
The great wide world to roam.
And if I fall in battle
I want the world to know
If my Uncle Sammy needs me
I will go.

The iron cross is rusty
And the iron crown is old.
The kings and tyrants tremble
And the Kaiser's feet are cold.
The Stars and Stripes are coming,
And defeat they never knew,
And my Uncle Sammy calls me,
And I go.

SPOKE TOO LOUD

A Topeka business man employs two Negroes to work on his gardens, which he personally oversees. One morning Sam did not appear.

"Where is Sam, George?" he asked.

"In de hospital, sah."

"In the hospital? Why how did that happen?".

"Well, Sam he been atellin' me ev'ry' morin' foh ten days he gwine to lick his wife 'cause o' her naggin'."

"Well?"

"Well, yestiddy she done ovahheah him, dat's all."—Los Angeles Times.

FEAR IN BIRDS

"The rhea, or South American Ostrich, philosophers tell us, is a very ancient bird on the earth; and from its size and inability to escape by flight, and its excellence as food, especially to savages, who prefer fat, rank-flavored flesh, it must have been systematically persecuted by man as long as, or longer than, any bird now existing on the globe. If fear of man ever becomes hereditary in birds, we ought certainly to find some traces of such an instinct in this species. I have been unable to detect any, though I have observed scores of young rheas in captivity, taken before the parent bird had taught them fear. I once kept a brod myself, captured just after they hatched out. With regard to food they were almost, or perhaps quite, independent, spending most of the time catching flies, gresshoppers, and other insects with surprising dexterity but of the dangers encompassing the young rhea they knew absolutely nothing. They would follow me about as if they took me for their parent; and whenever I imitate the loud snorting or rasping warning-call emitted by the old bird in moment of danger, they would rush to me in the greatest terror, though no animal was in sight and, squatting at my feet, endeavor to conceal themselves by thrusting their heads and long necks up my trousers. If I had caused a person to dress in white or yellow clothes for several consecutives days, and had uttered the warning cry each time he showed himself to the birds, I have no doubt that they would soon have acquired a habit of running in terror from him, even without the warning-cry, and that the fear of a person in white or yellow would have continued all their lives."

(W. H. Hudson, in "The Naturalist in La Plate."

THOUGHT HE HAD HAD EXPERIENCE

Among the callers upon a certain grouchy art editor was a very timid young man who diffidently laid a cover design before the great man. After a moment the editor growled: "Have you shown this drawing to any one else?" "No, sir," said the timid one. "Then," demanded the editor, "what is it makes you stand so close to the door?"

THE DIFFERENCE

The Sunday School teacher asked his class to give him the definition of a "pilgrim." One little fellow said: Please, sir, I think a pilgrim is a man who travels a great deal." This did not exactly suit the teacher, so he said: "Well, I travel about quite a little, but I'm not a pilgrim." "Oh sir, but I mean a good man,' eagerly replied the little one.

SLEIGHING PARTY FROM HANOVER, PA., TO EBBVALE, MD.

A happy sleighing party came from Hanover, Pa., to the home of Mr. Edw. Stermer, on January 21, 1918

Those in the party were: Mr. Irando Kump, driver; Mr. and Mrs. George Stermer, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schott, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Yost, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Swartzbaugh; Mrs. Roy Ports, Mrs. Laura Wolford and Mrs. Cora Ruth, Miss Carrie Yost, Mr. Wm. Little, all of Hanover, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tracey, Mr. and Mrs. George Tracey and Miss Elsie Brown.

The evening was spent with social games, chatting and laughing. Music was furnished by a victrola.

Later in the evening a supper was served and all did their bit according to their appetites.

Mr. and Mrs. Stermer enjoyed it very much and tried to give them a hearty welcome, asking them to come again. At a late hour they returned to their respective homes.

MANCHESTER

At this writing Mrs. George A. Shower is quite ill.

Our section has been enjoying the finest sleighing we have had for years. The bed of the roads are covered with ice that the zero weather has hardened almost like stone. It is covered with frequent falls of snow that add much to the fine track. Then with moonlight nights the young folks are enjoying sledding parties. On Friday evening a jolly party came in the State road, crossed Main street into York to the home of Mr. Thomas Kuhns, two miles N. E. where they had a warm welcome and were given the freedom of the home and soon had all interested in games interspersed with music that gave enjoyment to all present. At a later hour all were taken to the dining room where they had a demonstration of their hospitality in serving fine refreshments that all enjoyed. The midnight hour coming in sight the good nights were said and the joyous company went on their return to their Cranberry homes.

The teachers and scholars of our schools held a war supper in the Firemen's Hall on Saturday evening that proved a success financially, socially and educationally, for the girls of the domestic science class put into practice their teachings; they made all the croquets that were pronounced A-1, and then, too, they were helpers along the whole preparedness, thus giving them an object lesson in the conducting and serving of a public feast. About two hundred or more suppers were served to the full satisfaction of the patrons. After a supper was decided on the promoters sent out a challenge to the patrons and friends of the school for donations of vegetables, lard ,groceries etc., that to the gratification of all was splendidly responded to so that they had an abundance for the suppers and a quantity left for sale. The ice cream and cake booth did well and helped to swell the receipts to $70, which will add $60 to the piano fund. The teachers and scholars take this means of returning thanks to the parents and friends of the schools for their patronage that made the venture a success.

A family that moved from Baltimore to Fowblesburg last week sent their household effects by a large moving van in charge of three colored men who it appears made a joy run, going through Fowblesburg at a high rate of speed, through Hampstead, Greenmount, Manchester and Melrose without and stop and when they got to the Mason and Dixon line they found out that they over run their distance by twelve miles, they turned and just south of the line they run into a gully and stalled where they hung up until Sunday when an empty truck from Baltimore came to their rescue, loaded the furniture and took it to its destination.

The parents of Mr. Walter Armacost received a phone message last week he had met with an accident in the Auto shop in Baltimore where he has been employed for several years. While soldering an auto tank it exploded, burning his arm and hand badly. His face, too, was slightly burned with the eyelashes and hair. His father went to his home at once and found him resting as comfortable as possible.

The members of the Willing Worker Aid Society of the Reformed Church held their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leese on State street. Mrs. H. E. Musselman, president, protem, in the chair. At the roll call the members responded with a collection of $6.75. During the business period it was resolved to have a carpet rag party on Monday evening, 28th, at the Hotel de Stick. All are invited and do not forget to bring a basket full of rags to be sewed.

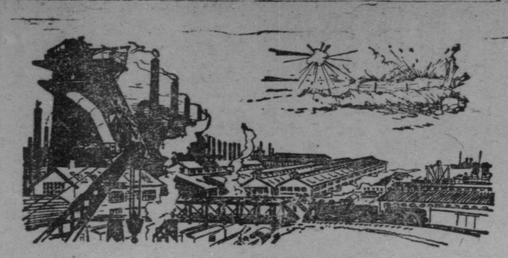

Rev. Leatherman was called to the bed side of his father last week and found him quite ill, so that he called off his appointments on Sunday, remaining at the home where the parent passed away.

Mrs. F. H. Blatt has been visiting her home folks for a week or more. The Rev. joined her on Monday. They will return on the week end.

Roy Miller who has been in the navy for several years spent a two-days' furlough with his parents last week, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Miller, on York street.

The coaster have been having quite a carnival on the hill south of town. Harry Lippy was run into and is nursing a badly sprained shoulder.

A request has come from the War Department to the State Roads Commission to place the stretch of highway between the Pennsylvania State line and this city in condition, so that the 60,000 army trucks which are bound east from Detroit can make the trip in safety. The request was made through the Department of Agriculture and was received by Chairman Zouck of the Roads Commission yesterday.

BACK OF THE FIRING LINE

The Nation's Capital is linked with the country's various war activities by the toll and long distance lines of the Bell System. Thousands of miles of special wire systems have been turned over to the Government for its exclusive use. Switchboards in the Government departments at Washington have been enlarged and new ones installed. Right of way is given to Government business over all commercial lines, so that the Government chiefs may keep in constant touch with every phase of the Nation's great task and direct its progress intelligently and effectively.

He is survivtd by his widow and the following sisters and brothers: Miss Irene Rose and Mrs. Stanley Hynson, of this city; Mrs. William A. Graves, of Norfolk, Va., and Messrs. Francis E. Rose and W. L. Rose, of Baltimore.

Requiem Mass was held at St. John's Catholic Church, this city, Wednesday, January 23, at 10 A. M. and the interment was made in the adjoining cemetery.

The active pallbearers were: Messrs. C. Gloyd Lynch, Joseph L. Mathias, and Michael Doyle, of the Knights of Columbus, and Messrs. Joseph B. Boyle, Michael E. Walsh and Jesse Chrest, of St. John's Beneficial Society.

The honorary pallbearers were: Judge Wm. H. Thomas, Judge Jas. A. C. Bond, Dr. Frank T. Shaw, Dr. Thos. K. Shaw, Messrs. Charles Moore, Geo. F. Morelock, W. Frank Thomas and Jas. Pearre Wantz.

F. A. Sharrer & Son were the funeral directors.

GIST

Everybody is wondering how much longer this extreme cold weather will last. Sleighing has been fine. The ice was of fine quality with which to fill the ice houses of which all have taken the opportunity to get their houses filled.

Mrs. Kate E. Allen has been spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. George Brown, near Sykesville, and her son, Mr. Wm. J. Allen, near Eldersburg.

Miss Emma Shipley is spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. B. Peyton Poole.

There has been several dances in this vicinity recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Grove O. Easton spent Sunday with their son and daughter-in- law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Easton.

Miss Myrtle Smith, of New Windsor, is spending several weeks with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Smith.

Miss Hollis Creswell spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. George E. Allen.

Mr. Roy Snider, of Baltimore, was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Snider, recently.

All of our young men who are in the draft age have been called to Westminster to answer the questionnaires. We hate to see our young men having to go in to war. All are hoping for peace.

There will be preaching at Harmony Grove M. P. Church this Sunday afternoon, January 27, if the weather is favorable. As there has not been any services there for some time, owing to the disagreeable weather. Hope there will be a good attendance this Sunday.

N. HANCOCK

Mr. Noah Hancock died Tuesday, 22nd inst., at the home of his brother, Mr. Joseph Hancock, near Winfield, aged 65 years, 5 months and 9 days

He was a son of the late Henry K. and Amelia Hancock.

One brother, Joseph Hancock, at whose home he died, survives.

The funeral service, conducted by Rev. G. W. Baughman, was held this morning at 10.30 o'clock, at the home of his brother, and the interment was made in Ebenezer M. E. Church Cemetery at Winfield.

The pallbearers were Messrs. L. B. Shipley, J. S. Bushey, E. R. Jenkins, Wm. T. Bowers, Louis Freeman and Augustus Haines.

Mr. C. M. Waltz was the funeral director.

Thursday, January 24th, was observed by the W. C. T. U. all over the United States as a day of prayer for National Constitutional prohibition, and in the observance of the day the W. C. T. U. of Westminster, held a meeting in the temperance room, Times building, which was well attended and very interesting. Mrs. Wm. H. Hetrick conducted the devotional, opening the meeting with America.

As an addition to our National Hymn the ladies sang the verse that is sung in every church in Canada and that finds a response in all our hearts at this time.

God bless our splendid men,
Make them victorious,
Patient and chivalrous,
They are so dear to us,
God bless our men.

The bible lesson was passages of scripture appropriate to prayer and Mrs. Hetrick took as a basis of her remarks the scripture President Wilson selected when he took the oath of office for the second time. "God is my refuge and strength. A very present help in time of trouble."

After a short business session, Rev. Edgar T. Read addressed the meeting on the "Outlook for National Constitutional Prohtbition" and assured the ladies the Maryland Legislature would ratify the amendment and that the Carroll county members of the Legislature would do all in their power to make Maryland dry by enactment. Through the W. C. T. U. Miss Flora E. Strout, lecturer for the World's W. C. T. U. has been engaged to address the Parent-Teacher Association in Assembly Hall High School, Thursday evening, January 31st. It is hoped a large audience will assemble to greet Miss Strout.

Mrs. J. Pearre Wantz explained the Melting Pot in the window of The Hat Shop, and made a plea for the ladies to send any old trinkets of gold, silver, brass, copper and tin foil they have, to be melted and the proceeds to go to the soldiers and sailors recreation and rest rooms, Park avenue, Baltimore. With the Aronic benediction the meeting closed.

Hens will win the war. Raise more poultry," is an appeal to American farmers by the Department of Agriculture today. A large production of chickens and eggs for the use of the general public, as well as the farmers, so as to result in a saving of meats to be sent abroad, is asked by the department. "The hen must take her place among those who are helping to win the war for democracy. The hen, of course, always has shown a willingness to do her duty, and doubtless she is willing now," the appeal reads. It is pointed out that according to the last census, of 6,671,502 farms in the United States, 1,527,743 reported no egg production, and the increased stimulus to the farmers will result in a greater profit.

Dr. Theodore Cook, Sr., 914 North Charles street, Baltimore, died at 4.35 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Mercy Hospital from a fractured skull received at 3.18 o'clock when his automobile skidded and was struck by a car of the Emory Grove line on the Reistertown road near the entrance to Druid Ridge Cemetery. In company with his son, Dr. Theodore Cooke, Jr., the physician was on his way to his summer residence, Woodhome, near Mt. Wilson. The machine was being driven by Dr. Cook's chauffeur, Robert Reed, colored. The driveway was thickly covered with ice and when the car skidded the chauffeur lost control. The machine took an easterly course and ran directly in front of the approaching southbound car. Motorman Robert Forry applied the brakes but it was too late. None of the occupants of the car was thrown out, but Dr. Cook's head struck the side of the car with sufficient force to fracture the skull. His son, who received a cut on the head rendered first aid and assisted in placing his father on the electric car, which ran as a special to the hospital. A hurried examination of the injury was made at the hospital by Dr. H. W. Wheaton, but Dr. Cooke expired a few minutes later. The funeral service was held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock and the interment was made in Loudon Park Cemetery.

Dynamite in coal shoveled into the engine's boiler Thursday afternoon exploded a freight locomotive at Harahan bridge, spanning the Mississippi river at Memphis, Tenn., fatally injuring several persons. At least two men are reported dead.
