UNION MILLS

At this writing, February 6, the turnpike is pretty well opened, and the U. S. motor truck trains that have been passing over the road from Detroit, Mich., to Baltimore, Md., now have no difficulty getting up Big Pipe Creek hill which has heretofore been the sticking point. The train that passed through last Monday, 4th inst., had the most trouble of any that traveled the road this week. On that day the B. F. Shriver Co., put a road scraper with eight horses attached to it into service to help to open up the track. The men of the train that passed through on the 5th inst., were served with hot coffee by the people of Silver Run, which was prepared at the residence of Wellington G. Penn.

On the 5th inst., George W. Hook, while sawing a limb from a tree, accidently fell a distance of twenty feet to the ground and may have fatally injured himself had not the snow broken his fall. As it was he fractured two ribs, dislocated one thumb and received ugly cuts about the scalp. He is attended by Dr. G. L. Wetzel who says he will come through all right.

We note that the schedule of the mail bus between Gettysburg and Baltimore has been reversed and that the bus now starts from the latter place in the morning. Since the fast mail train has been returned on the Western Maryland railroad, it looks to us as if the old schedule of the bus would give more satisfactory service than the new one.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Kerman and Leslie W. Brennan, of Utica, N. Y., were recent guests of Mr. B. F. Shriver.

At its January meeting the Silver Run Telephone Company elected officers as follows: President, John F. Maus; Secretary, Harvey S. Morelock; Treasurer, Wm. P. Halter; managers, Arthur W. TO MY BOY IS APPEALING

Poem Written By Mother Is Posted at Camp Sheridan Alabama

Camp Sheridan Ala. February 2. Because it speaks the love and hopes and longings in every mother's heart, a poem written by Mrs. Katheryn Beuttell, of Cincinnati, to her son, Private, R. R. Linck, machine gunner, has been printed and copies posted in all Y. M. C. A. buildings at the camp. The poem reads:

TO MY BOY!

I am all alone in the house tonight,
For the space of an hour or two;
And, in the glow of the warm firelight,
I am dreaming, dear of you.

I think with a smile or your baby ways
And the odd little things you said;
I live again through your childhood days,
The days that too quickly sped.

And still you are only a child in years,
With a man's real work to do
I struggle between my hopes and fears,
But, son, I am proud of you

I love in a tender, happy way,
The boy that you used to be;
What my heart holds for my boy today
Only One can ever see.

—MOTHER.

Recent letters received from France give every indication that the 117th Mortar Battery, which received its initial training around Richmond Market Armory, Baltimore, last summer commanded by Capt. Robert J. Gill, is in the front line trenches by this time and has fired its first shot at the Huns. A letter was received ony Tuesday from Captain Gill by his father, Rev. Dr. John M. Gill, pastor of the West Baltimore Methodist Protestant Church, Gilmor street and Lafayette avenue, in which he said their training had been completed and that they expected to be in the trenches within a short time. As the letter was dated "somewhere in France," it is presumed that before this the battery has been in action against the Germans and has doubtless given an excellent account of itself as it did in its training quarters at Mineola, L. I., from which point it left for France last October. Captain Gill is a graduate of Western Maryland College, this city, and has many friends here who wish him great success and a safe return home.

In a recent communication to Secretary of War Baker, the commander of the American Expeditionary Forces said: "There has never been a similar body of men to lead as clean lives as our American soldiers in France. They have entered this war with the highest devotion to duty and with no other idea than to perform these duties in most efficient manner possible. They fully realize their obligation to their own people, their friends, and the country. A rigid program of instruction is carried out daily with traditional American enthusiasm. Engaged in healthy, interesting exercises in the open air, with simple diets, officers and men, like trained athletes, are ready for their tasks. Forbidden the use of strong drink and protected by stringent regulations against sexual exeils, and supported by their own moral courage, their good be havior is the subject of most favorable comments, especially by our allies. American mothers may rest assured that their sons are a credit to them and to the Nation, and they may well look forward to the proud day when on the battle field these splendid men will shed a new luster on American manhood."
