Mary [Morris] Murray

My dear Nannie

I asked Maggie one day last week if she thought that Willy would like to try the tonic which Mary took and found to be the only thing that helped her, when she had such a succession of boils, and then promised to send the prescription to her. It has been forgotten each day since - but I now send it to you - Alice Stewart Montell gave it to Mary - and she showed it to Morris before she tried it - he said it would be a good tonic, and Mary found it of great service to her.
