MANCHESTER

What might have resulted seriously happened at the home of Mr. U. J. Hoover, corner of New and South Main streets on Monday evening. It appears the fire in a self-feeding coal stove had gone out as Mrs. Hoover thought and cleaning it of ashes put in a lot of kindling and then took the oil can and poured oil on the wood, but it appears there were live coals in the cylinder that ignited the oil and flashed up into her face, scorching the skin and singeing her hair, her glasses saved her eyes from injury and well that the fire was confined in the cylinder that saved her from more serious burning.

Mrs. George S. Motter and sister Miss Fannie G. Ross attended the funeral of their uncle Mr. William D. Weaver that took place on Saturday from his home in Baltimore. His remains were laid to rest in Loudon Park, aged 72 years. Mr. W. spent a number of his boyhood days here at the home of his aunt, Mrs. George Crouse from whence he went to Baltimore and during his business years he was a frequent visitor here.

Miss Margaret Mining, a former resident here was a visitor last week at the home of Mr. Samuel Abkin, from Wednesday to Saturday, meeting many friends. She is a nurse at a sanitarium at Mount Kip, N. J.

The Willing Workers' Aid Society held its monthly meeting at the home of Miss Carrie Baker on Monday. At roll call the members responded with a collection of $4.00. Only routine business was attended to and a social hour enjoyed.

Ten days ago our streets were blocked with piles of snow and the driveways covered with the most solid cake of ice, but the thaw and now the rain with a moderate temperature the piles and drifts of snow have melted away and only where they were deep blocks can yet be seen, but the traveling public is fearful of the hub-deep mud they must face.

Mrs. Rudolph Wink gave a tea in honor of her visiting friend, Miss Margaret Mining, Mrs. W. was a member of the graduating class in the M. H. S. with Miss M. The social was quite enjoyable where a company of school girls could rehearse the doings of their school days and the fun they so much enjoyed. The table appointments were fine, the menu A-1 and social features excellent. Those of the company were: Mrs. Treva Wink, Mrs. Julia League, the Misses Margaret Mining, Gara Abkins, Ray Hoffacker, Myrtle Loats, Anna Shultz, Mildred Hanson, Margaret Burgoon, Minnie Burgoon.

IN MEMORIAM

Bloom—In sad but loving remembrance of my dear mother, Mary E. Bloom, who passed away five years ago February 23, 1913.

It is sweet to know we will meet again
Where parting is no more,
And that the one we loved so dearly
Has only gone before.

By her daughter Sarah.

A wedding trip in an aeroplane from Governors Island to Massapequa, L. I., was taken early Tuesday by Lieutenant Lawrence V. Sperry, U. S. N., and his bride who was Miss Winifred Allen of New York City. The trip to the chapel from Massapequa also was made through the air and Lieutenant Sperry piloted his plane almost to the door of the church.

PUT UNDER WAR DISCIPLINE

Mother's Ingenious Scheme to Secure Respectful Attention From Her Small Boy.

There are small boys who are not very prompt to mind their mothers or who do not give their elders a respectful amount of attention when receiving orders. Yet some of them can be disciplined according to the methods used by an alert mother to whom the war gave the idea.

No longer is she simply mother; she is, indeed, a person of far more importance to her militant young son—she's Captain Mother! Her imaginative boy is Private Billie, and, as he prides himself upon being a good soldier, you can guess that few of the captain's orders are ignored. Consequently, not only Billie's obedience is a thing to be proud of, but his comprehension and remembrance of orders given are greatly improved, for the captain has told him that he must stand at attention and salute when his name is spoken by a superior officer and that no orders will be given until Private Billie's eyes are fastened upon the captain's with undivided interest.

At the end of the week the private's record is reviewed, not only by the captain but by the family army's chief of staff—father. If the record is approved the captain threads a little metal button upon a ribbon, and, behold! Private Billie receives a decoration for his loyal service to the household and to his superiors. You can readily see how this war play makes obedience a wonderfully fascinating game and disciplines the laddie beautifully at the same time.

NUISANCE ALL TOO COMMON

No Doubt the Majority of Our Readers Have Met at Some Time the "Big Money" Boy.

Step up a little closer, patrons, look 'em over good, then take your seats and set back for a listen. Y'know this windbag, the big money boy. Oh, yeh! Go ahead, you tickle us. This pipe dream is always putting across some "big deal" expecting a "clean up," "got a tip," etc., and all that fat chatter. His melody goes a buzz this way:

"Well, things look merry for me, I'll say. Got in on a deal this morning; if it goes through, means much 'Jack,' a 'gas roller' and easy picking for me to last some moons. Can't tell you what it's about just yet. Backed up by so and so of the so and so corporation, and he's sinking all his interest collection on it, so you see what a binzer it is or he wouldn't be in it. I'm to be one of the main squeezes, hold stock, and go on the road at $100 per Saturday, 25 per cent commish and traveling expenses," etc., etc.

Listen! This rummy has more wind than a deck of cyclones. He imagines more money in an hour than the mint turns out in a month. Call his bluff and tell him to go settle his laundry bill with the Chinaman. Remember: They are not putting signs up in the back windows, "President Wanted."—Washington Herald.

He Got His Coal.

The following story is vouched for by the representative of one of the largest coal interests in this city:

"An ingenious scheme was put through recently by a fairly well-to-do citizen in New York who was at his wits' end to replenish his depleted coal supply, having been turned down on repeated orders. Putting on an old suit of clothes he made application for a position as coal driver at one of the principal yards in his immediate locality. As there is a great scarcity of help to move coal at present, owing to the rigors of the cold spell, he was accepted without a minute's delay and was intrusted with a cart of coal and also with the bill of the same, on the basis of immediate cash from the customer whose legitimate order had been filled. The self-styled coal driver made remarkably quick time with his load which he straightway deposited in his own cellar. He returned in due course to the coal yard, turned over the cash and forthwith resigned his job as being too arduous for his taste.—Financial America.

Equally Enlightened.

Considerable importance is attached to the opinion of fish dealers in reference to the habits of fish. When they argue that six laws, less rigidly enforced, will assure the supply, men not familiar with the subject at once infer that they ought to know, and probably do know, what they are talking about. It would be equally fair to expect the dealer in cotton goods to know the growth habits of cotton. Fish in storage, so far as the commercial agent is concerned, are the finished product, and it by no means follows that those dependent upon fish for a livelihood seek exact information relative to migration, spawning grounds and other technical data. Ask your dry goods salesman to tell you the life history of cotton, or the peculiarities and beavy colds. of boll weevil—in the majority of cases what he says on those subjects will be as trustworthy and convincing as what the fish dealer says about mackerel and redfish.

New Affliction.

A North Vernon man stopping a youngster on the street the other day, made inquiry about his father, saying that he had not seen him for several days.

"Oh, yes," replied the boy, "my pa has got chestnuts on his lungs."

The man investigated and learned that the father was suffering from a slight congestion of the lungs.—Indianapolis News.

The question is asked what has become of the woman that used to come down town with skirts sweeping up all the dirt on the sidewalks? Well, about now she is wondering how long it will be before her bathing suit will do for a street dress.

Being exhorted to observe Washingtons birthday, the American people shut up shop and go to the movies to see Charlie Chaplin and Mary Pickford.

FLEW THE HEBREW STANDARD

Flag Not Often Seen Is Raised With the Immortal Emerald Banner of Ireland.

At the Funsten fur exchange, St. Louis, during the course of midwinter sales, it was noted that the flag of the United States, Canada, Great Britain and her allies were prominently displayed. The great Jewish dealers who attend the sales from all parts of the world decided that the Hebrew standard, the oldest flag in the world, was entitled to its place in the display; and to that end a committee of the most prominent Hebrew furriers ordered one, a beautiful white silk flag, with a double blue star in the center. The white silk is emblematic of purity; and the double blue star of truth and fidelity. With a few appropriate words A. M. Ahern announced the presentation of the flag to the exchange; and amid the plaudits of almost four hundred dealers, the flag was slowly and impressively unfurled from the stand. The applause and cheering lasted a full five minutes, everybody joining heartily.

Not to be outdone, the Irish members got together, and their committee ordered an equally handsome Irish standard. Mr. Ahern made the presentation speech from the stand, and again everybody applauded with might and main as the Irish flag, emerald green with golden harp, was unrolled on the other side of the stand.

The general comment was that all the nationalities were glad to see the two flags floating together; and many a one hummed under his breath—or above it— that old-time Weber-Fields ditty: "If it wasn't for the Irish and the Jews."

Each flag bore handsome streamers of red, white and blue ribbons.

TWENTY-FOUR HOUR CLOCK

Swiss Association Goes on Record as Favoring Change That Has Had Many Advocates.

It has been argued from time to time for many years that the sensible way to measure time would be by using a 24-hour clock instead of dividing the day into 12-hour periods, as has been the custom from the time modern clocks began to be built. It is considered that this would be especially desirable for railroads, as it would avoid confusion between a. m. and p. m. and make the understanding of time tables much easier.

Now it is reported that the Swiss Association for Geophysics, Meteorology and Astronomy has petitioned the government to adopt the 24-hour clock as the official means of measuring the day. The general staff of the Swiss army, directors of the federal post office and the telegraph and customs departments of the government have expressed themselves in favor of the change.

How China Will Benefit.

The nations interested in the Boxer indemnity who are at war with Germany and Austria have, with the exception of Russia, agreed to the postponement of the amount due by China for a period of five years. Russia has agreed to remit one-third of the amount due to her. China thus gains the use of $100,000,000 for five years, and has the hope that the total amount may be remitted by and by. Whether the postponement will be an actual gain at this time is questionable, since exchange is so tremendously in China's favor. A more distinct gain, perhaps, is the agreement of the allied powers to permit China to raise her customs dues to an effective five per cent. As the present schedule of duties was compiled on the basis of prices ruling in 1902 in so far as imports are concerned and in 1858 in the case of exports the present revenues should be almost doubled.—Far Eastern Review.

Colored Snowstorms.

Colored snowstorms were recorded as long ago as the sixth century, and a shower of red hail is said by Humboldt to have once occurred in Palermo. In Tuscany on March 14, 1813, there fell hail of an orange color. In 1803 red snow fell to a depth of over five feet in Carniola, Austria. Some of the scarlet snow was melted in a vessel and the water evaporated, when a fine, rose colored earthy sediment was found at the bottom. Snow of a brick red hue fell in Italy in 1816 and in the Tyrol in 1847. In the first volume of Kane's Arctic exploration it is stated that when the ship passed the crimson cliffs of Sir John Ross the patches of red snow, from which they derived their names, could be seen at a distance of fully ten miles.

His Fears Relieved.

She was a sweet little thing with the most waspy of waspslike waists, and passers-by had nothing but admiration in their eyes for her.

But what was that? She had fainted. Tenderly they carried her into a drug store. An Irishman, who had observed the occurrence, looked in after a few minutes, and inquired:

"How is she now?"

"Oh," was the reply, "she's coming to."

"Ah," murmured the son of Erin, "come in two—has she? Poor thing! Bedad, it's just what I was afraid of."

Not Straight.

Gotham—So you're living in Boston now?

Hubb—Oh, yes. I live on one of the principal streets there.

"No! Is that straight?"

"Straight? Don't you know there are no straight streets in Boston?"

Miss Lizzie Palmer, the oldest person on Prince Edward Island, if not in Canada, died in the Provincial Infirmary at Charlottetown at the age of 115. She was born in Nova Scotia and went to the Island when she was a child.

MARINE NOTES

Cleveland, Ohio.—Thomas Cuddy, of this city, has received his questionaire but has returned it to the draft board with the following not written across the face of it in red ink: "I am as near fit as they make them. One leg is a little shorter than the other but nevertheless, I am there. I am fit as a fiddle, sound as a bullet and ready to fight at the drop of a hat. Cut out the red tape and wire me when and where to report." Cuddy was recently refused at the local U. S. Marine Corps recruiting station on account of one leg being a half an inch shorter than the other.

A negro arrested on suspicion in Buffalo, New York, Sunday is suspected of complicity in the robbery of Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes of New York on a sleeping car last October. He had in his possession 344 diamonds, valued at more than $15,000. Mrs. Stokes lost jewels worth more than $40,000.

Some of our politicians deny that they are dishonorable, as they strictly carry out their pledges to the grafters.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?

It's usually a sign of Sick Kidneys, especially if the kidney action is disordered, passage scanty or too frequent. Don't wait for more serious troubles. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Westminster testimony.

C. H. Campbell, 25 John St., says: "My back was always weak and tired very quickly. The greatest of my troubles was a dragging ache directly over my kidneys. I was growing more miserable all the time and when I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I got a box at Moore's Drug Store. They strengthened my back and gave me immediate relief." (Statement given November4, 1907.)

On August 9, 1916, Mr. Campbell said: "I cannot praise Doan's Kidney Pills too highly. They gave me permanent benefit and I think a great deal of them. All sufferers of kidney complaint should give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial for they are a wonderful medicine."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Campbell had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
