Plans for the organization of camp baseball teams and leagues are being formulated by the general director of athletics in camps and cantonments. According to the Commission on Training Camp Activities, within a month soldiers will have company, regimental, and divisional teams, and these teams will form company and regiment leagues. No divisional leagues are contemplated because of the distances between camps, but when traveling conditions permit inter camp games will be arranged. Major league officials and amateur baseball associations have volunteered assistance in promoting baseball in the camps.

"OVER THERE" FEATURES INSPIRINGLY PATRIOTIC

Widely Educational In Scope, And Unlike Any Other Exhibit.

Focusses Country's Attention.

Famous speakers, demonstrations of various phases of war work, by the Young Men's Christian Association, American Red Cross, Food and Fuel Administrations, Young Women's Christian Association, Vocational Training experts, Army and Navy, Munitions Manufacturers, and other, thrilling motion pictures depicting war scenes, plenty of excellent music by noted bands, and soloists, distinguished visitors—these are just a few of the numerous striking features of "Over There," the great Liberty Loan Cantonment which opened at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore on Saturday for a run of several weeks.

Nothing quite equal to the Cantonment has ever been "put across" in any other part of the country. So stupendous and spectacular is this war exposition that the attention of the entire country has been attracted. Inquiries from other States have been made regarding it and plans for the show have been sent by the Treasury Department to every Federal Reserve Bank in the country.

It is felt that Baltimore has achieved something that will give impetus to the third Liberty Loan drive, which is to be launched on April 6, something, in fact, that will undoubtedly push Uncle Sam's third financial effort far along the road to success.

The tremendous crowds which flocked to the Armory on Saturday, its opening day, witnessed a spectacle that thrilled them through and through. The visualization of the war was not an easy task, but so excellently and realistically has this been done that many visitors to the great show upon entering the Armory stood spell bound at the marvellous reproduction of "Over There," where stretched before them. The minute a person leaves the 15-cent stub of his 40-cent ticket in the hands of the door-keeper, it is just like actually being transported overseas.

To the right lies the battlefield with its front line trenches. Through the trenches Canadian soldiers, but recently returned from France, guide visitors who otherwise would be lost in them. As visitors are taken through the trenches, the Canadians explain the various guns which are placed in the same positions they occupy in the front line trenches in France and show how they are fired into the enemy's lines which sometimes are but a few yards distant. They also show the communicating trenches, the "dug-outs" banked with sand bags, into which the "boys" crawl when the bombardment is particularly heavy, the gun pits, sentry boxes, listening posts, parapets, fire step, all phases of trench warfare, in fact, are realistically depicted and made all the more real by the explanations of the battle-scarred Canadian soldiers who talk with knowledge gained at first hand. Directly in back of the battlefield is a huge painting of No Man's Land which the Canadians declare to be so actual in its likeness to that blood-stained place that they instinctively shuddered when they first saw it. The trenches at the Armory measure 127 by 67 feet.

To the left of the entrance lies the base section. Here one finds the Red Cross field dressing station, where the wounded soldiers receive their first aid treatments before they are taken to the base hospital. Near this interesting section there is the Young Men's Christian Association "dug-out" where the "boys" "Over There" find their only recreation and periods of rest. In this part of the cantonment also one finds the Navy Panorama, which attracted world-wide attention when it was exhibited at the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco. This panorama shows the Navy from the time of its inception to the present types of battleships and colliers. The panorama is 35 feet in diameter and is kept in motion on turn tables, operated by an electric motor. Models of ships are seen in action on a cleverly painted ocean which with the aid of certain lighting device gives an illusion of the United States fleet passing in review. Even the cloud effects are noted and these add much to the general artisticness and interest of this exhibit.

At the Young Woman's Christian Association Hostess House, which is an exact replica of those now established at the Regular Army Cantonments, even to the dainty curtains in the windows and the blooming window boxes, hundreds of soldiers from Camp Meade, through previous arrangement, met their wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts and with them they enjoyed the numerous exhibits and features of the cantonment.

The idea of having some place to meet one's friends or relatives at the cantonment has also been very carefully and thoughtfully worked out by the Publicity Committee of the Liberty Loan Committee for Maryland in the establishment at the Armory of a county headquarters where visitors from the county can go upon their arrival at the cantonment and meet their friends or relatives. A sign over the entrance of the Armory will direct county visitors to their headquarters which will be in charge of representatives from each county. All one will have to do will be to tell which county he "hails" from and nine chances out of ten he will find someone there whom he knows well enough to call by first name.

Hindenburg was going to be in Paris April 1, but evidently he stopped to pick up something nailed to the sidewalk.

Also that thoroughly depraved kid who used to trample down your flowers so ruthlessly while hunting for his lost baseball, is no doubt now the same one who huns the Huns most actively in the trenches.

POLICE ARE NOT NEEDED TO BACK UP FOOD LAWS

Infraction of the food regulations requiring the partial substitution of other cereals for wheat has brought several offenders on the carpet before the Maryland Food Administrators. The penalties imposed have so far been very light, usually the closing for one day of the culprit's place of business and the posting of a pledge to conform rigorously to the new rules. This does not mean the measures against wheat-wastage will be half-heartedly enforced. It does mean that the authorities hold the view that the infractions were the result of ignorance, not defiance; and, in that belief, they are expecting penitence for misjudgment rather than exacting punishment for wrongdoing. But there will be small mercy for any who may deliberately break the law and make their fight against their own Government instead of against the Hun.

"The spirit of the people back of the lines must be a vital determining factor in a long-drawn war," declares State Administrator Baetjer. "Slim would be the United States' chance of success, if, at the very outset, it were necessary to dragoon food-dealers into compliance with the law and threaten housekeepers into that food-thrift which was America's first pledge to her allies. There isn't much punch to the patriotism that needs to be enforced by the police. So the Maryland Food Administration is not putting its dependence upon penalties in its cereal-saving campaign; it counts on the loyal spirit of every citizen of this State to impel him to play the game and stick to the finish."

CANADA'S SCHOOL BOYS ENLIST IN FOOD ARMY

Quebec, March 28.—The Provincial Legislature is considering closing all public schools for the five summer months to release the pupils for farm work. While the importance of education is not forgotten, the supporters of the measure point out that just at present it is being decided in Europe whether or not the German language is to be forced upon all adults and school children alike, and that the production of food on this Continent will have a lot to do with settling that question.

Throughout Canada school boys up to nineteen years of age are enlisting for farm work and are being supplied with khaki uniforms as soldiers of the soil. After three months service a bronze badge of honor is awarded by the Government.

Especial effort is being made to get town boys interested in farm work, not merely for the value of the food products but also as the beginning of a real back-to-the-land movement.

TWO LOAVES A WEEK.

One pound and a half of wheat flour per week is allowed by the new food ruling for each man, woman and child in the U. S. A.

Two loaves of Victory Bread—one of 16 ounces and the other of 12 ounces—can be bought by the housewife for each member of her household without exceeding the new limit.

SHORT RATIONS.

Every housekeeper's apron should be a uniform showing that she is a volunteer in Maryland's army of food savers.

Canada's greatest department store has been trying out women in its stables and they have been so successful in handling even the biggest Clydesdales that the headquarters of these "farmerettes" has been deluged with demands for help from agriculturists.

The bread ration of the French soldier has been cut from 25 to 21 ounces a day, while the civilian's bread card now calls for just half of that. Nor do all get even that much. M. Andre Tardieu, French High Commissioner, made the startling announcement in Baltimore that there are districts in France which for days have suffered a complete, absolute deprivation of bread.

Don't help the Hun at meal time.

The wasted food that goes into your garbage can is a message of comfort to the enemy. Don't cheer up the Huns.

Make your food go as far as you can. Make every ounce you can spare go from Maryland to France.

Mr. Civilian, who is really getting your help—the Kaiser or the Food Administration? You can't aid in winning the war by tongue-thrashing the Hun and fooling with the Food Laws.

Not during one week this year have grain and cereal shipments to the Allies measured up to the amount they were led to expect from America. The first quarter of 1918 finds the supply over 800,000 tons behind the announced program.

That very bad boy who used to keep the whole neighborhood stirred up by the careless way he used his little air rifle, is now the proud sniper of Poches on the Lorraine front.

It won't be possible to convince the Germans that they aren't supermen, but we may be able to make them feel that this supermanning business is almighty hard work.

FOOD AND WAR

Shortage in Raw Materials Gives Rise to Alarm Among Manufacturing Interests—America Must Apply Every Resource to Meet World's Demand for Food—Labor Saving Machines and Man Power on the Farms Vital Factors in Economic Crisis—Appeal for Government Action.

Government action ensuring the farmers of America ample supplies of farm implements and competent farm labor is virtually necessary to this country's future participation in the war, declare the manufacturers of farming tools and machinery in the United States. This action must be immediate and radical, they say, or in 1918 the United States will fail to produce foodstuffs necessary to feed the civil population of our allies and to keep the allied armies in fighting trim.

This declaration is made in a public statement by the National Implement and Vehicle Association, whose members manufacture most of the farming implements used in and exported from the United States. It is the Association's answer to an anxious inquiry about reports of a prospective implement shortage addressed to it in behalf of the country's farming interests by ex-Governor W. D. Hoard of Wisconsin, one of the leaders of American agriculture and publisher of Hoard's Dairyman. The statement, which is signed by Charles S. Brantingham, Chairman of the Association's Executive Committee, says:

Unless prompt action is taken by the Government, our country will make the same mistakes that have resulted in compelling our allies to appeal to us to save them from famine. Unless we protect the production of labor-saving farm machinery and the supply of skilled farm labor we, too, must soon face a shrinkage of food supplies.

Without such action as is here suggested and urged, the farmers of the United States will not have enough machines or men in 1918 to meet the demands upon them.

"We are now confronted by shortages of raw material and factory labor that will begin to be manifest in shortages of certain lines of farm machinery this fall and will result in serious shortages in many vital lines next year. Stocks on hand in important kinds of tools and machines are smaller than in normal years, because of earlier scarcity of factory labor and a rapidly tightening scarcity of all raw materials.

"Farmers have deferred during the last three years the replacing of old and badly worn tools and machines. Now, confronted by the practical certainty that the war is to continue indefinitely, with attendant assurance of a heavy demand and high prices for all their products, and by an inevitable shortage of farm labor, they cannot put off longer replacements of worn out machines and the additions to equipment necessary to increase acreage and production.

"It is also essential in meeting the demand of the farmers for implements that there shall be preference in transportation for raw materials to the factories and for finished goods from the factories to the farms.

"For the last ten years farm labor has been more and more difficult to secure, and now with an enormous increase in the demand for labor in munitions factories, and the withdrawal of many young men from productive occupations, there is bound to be a shortage of farm labor such as this country has never known. In Kansas alone a vast number of fertile acres on which the wheat crop failed will lie idle this summer, chiefly for lack of labor and partly through lack of machines to replant to corn.

"We regard it as vital to keep on the farms the men now there who know the business, especially the men trained in the use of labor-saving machinery. It would be wasteful and foolish to let them go and afterward try to replace them with unskilled men.

"We seek no advantage for our industry over any other, but we realize and we want the public to realize that, without this product and without sufficient labor the farmers of the United States cannot increase or even maintain their production of foodstuffs next year. To avert the calamity that such a condition will surely produce, our industry and the farming industry which it chiefly supports must be put upon the same preferred basis as the making of war munitions, even if other less vital industries suffer thereby for materials and men.

"These are the measures that we declare to be vital to the feeding of this nation and its allies next year:

"1. That the manufacture of farm materials be given equal preference with the manufacture of war munitions as regards supplies of necessary raw materials.

"2. That service to the country in farm machinery factories be considered of equal importance with service in munition making plants, Government or private.

"3. That labor on the farms be considered as of equal importance with the production of war munitions.

"4. That the raw materials for farming machinery and the finished goods be given equal preference by the transportation agencies of the country with munitions of war.

"These measures must be taken immediately to be effective, because the use and demand for farming machinery are seasonal. We must have right now materials and the men to make the farm machinery that the farmer at home and abroad must use this Fall and next Spring. Delay in action will be as disastrous as failure to act at all."

The sporting life people will be sitting up an hour later than usual now, on the excuse that the clocks have been set ahead, but the office will open by the clock at the same old sleepy hour in the morning.

It is said the Germans will attack our cities by airplanes. Nothing we could do would be a tenth as effective in waking up our slackers.
