ANOTHER SMASHUP ON STATE ROAD

Boose and Autos Won't Mix.

On Saturday night the Reisterstown bus was run into by an automobile driven by Roy Sellman, of near Warfieldsburg, and his machine was wrecked and he was thrown through the windshield. The bus which was coming from Reisterstown, was slowing down to stop in Finksburg to drop a passenger and was on the extreme right hand side of the state road opposite the store of the Misses Horner, when along came Sellman and his friend Benjamin Sentz, from the direction of Westminster, with Sellman at the wheel, driving very rapidly and recklessly and smashed into the Bower's bus. Sellman was thrown through the windshield, Sents, who was in the rear of the car, was thrown against something which cut his scalp so badly it took about 14 or 15 stitches and three doctors to get him in some kind of shape, and the bus was injured to the extent of about $400. Later Sellman was arrested and Police Justice Dinst fined him $200 and costs for driving an auto while under the influence of liquor and for speeding and reckless driving. Boose and autos will not mix—but it takes some people a long time to learn it.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE SWEET CORN ASSOCIATION MEET

The Board of Directors met in the County Agent's office in the Times Building, Monday afternoon.

The most important business before the board was in regards to a section in the constitution providing that each member sign a note which would be held as collateral security by the Association and as a forfeit in case the member sold his product at a lower figure than that set by the association.

It was decided that for this season this section would not be exercised. Owing to the fact that the market is uncertain, due to the economic conditions, and that the canning industry is very important to Carroll County, it was decided not to push this phase of the organization this year.

Dr. B. F. Bomberger, Assistant Director and Specialist of the Extension Service at Maryland State College was present. He gave an interesting talk on the economic conditions which the farmers have to face this year. He explained the position of the Extension Service in relation to the producer, canner and the consumer, all three must be consdered by the Government. The canned product at the grocery store must be at a price which will not prevent a high consumption but that will give the consumer his moneys cost of production to producer and canner.

The director of each district will canvas the district for members. All producers are urged to join as soon as possible.

A committee was appointed to confer with the camer in regards to price and production. The farmers are holding for $20 or will plant other crops that will insure them some profit over cost.

THE TOME MEET

The arrangements for Tome's Big Spring Meet are now practically complete. The remaining time to May 17th will be mostly occupied by checking the incoming entrees, placing the large posters and window placards, putting the field and track in perfect condition, and preparing extensive accommodations for the largest crowd and biggest field of entrees ever gathered at the School.

The Tolchester Company of Baltimore has contracted to run an excursion from Baltimore, the steamer to leave Light Street at 8 A. M. and to afford room for nine hundred passengers. The excursion, which is in charge of Messrs. Coulbourn and Smead of Baltimore City College, promises not only an ideal outing up the river and on Tome's beautiful campus, but also the witnessing of spectacular events among the choicest school-boy athletes in the East.

Plans have been carefully laid for all details of boat, train, and automobile transportation and for entertainment, housing and meals. The plaques, cups, and medals to be awarded have been carefully selected and are the best ever offered by the school.

The committee feels especially pleased with the selection of officials who are to carry on the Meet. The clockword system which has always marked Tome's Meets will be in evidence more than ever this year. Latrode Cogswell, the president of the Southern A. A. V. has agreed to act as clerk of course; George J. Turner as referee; M. H. Markle as starter; W. J. Leimkehler, C. C. Beaerlein, R. F. Ballard, Jas McCallester, Roy Peppen and C. H. Katenkamk as Timers and Judges. These officials, well known sportsmen are sufficient in themselves to assure the success of the Meet.

In the evening after the Meet an interesting entertainment in Memorial Hall will be provided especially for the benefit of visitors. The school is very fortunate to obtain for the occasion the John Hopkin's University Dramatic Club which wil present Bernard Shaw's "You Never Can Tell."

The present outlook seems to indicate that the Meet of 1919 will eclipse anything of its kind in the South.

Some of the men who favored Daylight Saving, did not forsee that their wives would discover that this creates a favorable opportunity to beat the carpet out on the lawn.

WHY NOT ORGANIZE A TOWN MARKET?

In practically every city there is a market place of some kind where the women of the town can meet the farmers and truckers and select vegetables and fruits in fresh condition for a day's use.

The difference in prices of coffodi-

The difference in prices of commodities on farm and in the home is absurd. In a good apple year the farmer receives perhaps seventy-five cents a bushel for apples on the farm. These same apples are selling in nearby towns for eight and ten cents a pound or at the rate of $5.00 or $6.00 per bushel. In spite of these fancy prices the greater proportion of every apple crop falls to the ground and is either fed to the pigs or goes to waste. The reason is that apples are specked and wormy and require too much labor to put into marketable condition.

The same is true of vegetables. It is safe to say that more vegetables go to waste than are eaten every year, especially the perishables of midsummer. There are radishes, berries, lettuce, beans peas and all other available foods in quantities too small to make an individual profit when carried from door to door. Also there is often a surplus of some particular product in the town woman's garden which could be exchanged or sold if a market place were convenient.

Could not Westminster have a town and country exchange? It could be so arranged that individual clubs, Church societies, etc. could have booths and sell also pies, cakes, candy and jellies as well as fancy work. A bulletin board would publish articles wanted and those for sale.

It is not so much a question of production in America as it is of distributon. We are not paying for produce as much as we are paying for convenience of having it brought to our door.

As this year is to be made a thrift year and each woman is asked to run her business of home making on an efficiency basis, why should the woman of the city and country cooperate in the organization of a town market or exchange. This could be worked out in cooperation with women's clubs of town and country.

In a resolution passed Saturday night at a meeting of the Hereford-Hampstead Good Roads Association it was pointed out that Baltimor county has received from the State Roads Commission but one-fifth of the money paid in taxes for the good-roads system of the State and that the commission has used the county's allotment of the State Aid Fund for the past several years for the building of the Reisterstown road, thereby reducing the money available for the building of lateral roads. It was the sense of the meeting that the commission should give just and fair consideration to Baltimore county by constructing an improved road from Hereford to Hampstead with State and national aid. Copies of the resolution will be sent the members, of the commission, and Governor Harrington and a committee of 50 was appointed to arrange for the holding of a rally at Mt. Carmel to discuss ways and means for the advancement of the road system of the county.
