Facts about the American Legion.

The American Legion is the organization of American veterans of the World War. It is non-partisan and non-political. It is a civilian organization not military or militaristic. Nearly all of its members are men who were civilians before the war, and are now again civilians. It makes no distinction between overseas men and men who did get overseas.

Any soldier, sailor or marine who served honorably between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918 is eligible to membership.

The American Legion at its St. Louis meeting took the following action.

(a) It demanded investigation of the pardon and subsequent honorable discharge by the War Department of convicted conscientious objectors.

(b) It strongly condemned the activities of the I. W. W's, the Anarchists and the International Socialists.

(c) It demanded of Congress the same disability pay for men of the National Guard and National Army as now pertains to those in the Regular establishment.

(d) It initiated a campaign to secure to service men their right and privileges under the War Risk Insurance Act.

(e) It demanded that Congress should deport to their own countries those aliens who refused to join the colors at the outbreak of the war, and pleaded their citizenship in other countries to escape draft.

(f) It undertook to see that disabled soldiers and marines should be brought into contact with the Rehabilitation Department of the Government, which Department helps them to learn and gain lucrative occupations.

(g) It demanded that naturalized citizens convicted under the espionage act shall have their citizenship cancelled and shall be deported.

(h) It authorized the appointment of a competent legislative committee to see that the above recommendations were effectively acted upon by Congress, and that committee has been appointed and now at work.

(i) It authorized the establishment of a bureau to aid service men to get re-employment; and of a legal bureau to help them get from the Government their overdue pay and allotment.

The American Legion is an established fact. Its spirit is reflected in the preamble of its constitution which reads:

"For God and Country we associate ourselves to-gether for the following purposes:

To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; To maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred percent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make Right the Master of Might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

It is more than a preamble. It is the Legion's promise as well.

RITCHIE'S BIG WASHINGTON SALARY

While The Boys In Trenches Only Received $1.00 A Day, Ritchie Received $30.00 A Day.

Speech Of Harry W. Nice, Republican Candidate For Governor, At A Meeting In Baltimore City, October 23, 1919.

"Mr. Ritchie's most recent commendation of himself in the public is based upon his record as 'counsel,' as he expressed it, to the War Industries Board, one of the highly efficient departments of the National Administration, presided over by the patriotic Barney Baruch In the Baltimore SUN of June 3, 1918, Mr. Ritchie said he hesitated to accept the offer of this position because he believed it to be his duty to remain at the post of Attorney-General, unless there were extraordinary reasons why he should not. He explained this call to service in the following words:

"I was summoned back from Kent county in the midst of my thrift stamp speaking tour of the Eastern Shore, and on that night the Government officials put the matter in the light of an absolute duty to my country in time of war, which was superior to anything else.'

"He said further that he would receive compensation under the Federal Government for his services as counsel to the War Industries Board, but would not accept salary from the State of Maryland.

"The records at Washington, however, do not refer to Mr. Ritchie as counsel for the War Industries Board, but disclose the fact that he held the position of 'expert' from June 3, 1918, to January 1, 1919, at a salary of $15,000 a year for a part of this period, and $10,000 a year for the rest of it; and that from January 1, 1919, to June 1, 1919, Mr. Ritchie held the position of 'liquidator' at a salary of $10,000.

"Having told us in June, 1918, that he would receive compensation from the Federal Government for his services in Washington, was it modesty or forgetfulness that prevented his mentioning the receipt by him of these large sums during his term of Federal service? Are the Government records correct in terming Mr. Ritchie an 'expert' and a 'liquidator,' instead of 'counsel to the War Industries Board,' as represented by him? Was this favor at the hands of Barney Baruch the reason for Mr. Ritchie's defense of this eminent gentleman, who was the chief of the War Industries Board and also Mr. Ritchie's chief while he was 'expert' and 'liquidator?'

"Did Mr. Ritchie have in mind, when he made his elaborate explanation of Mr. Baruch's receipt of $150,000 for advice in Paris, his own large salaries at Washington and his failure to mention them to the people of Maryland when he spoke of his 'absolute duty' to his country 'in time of war?' How does Mr. Ritchie think that this sacrifice in behalf of his country compares with that of the boys in the trenches who were receiving $30 a month? We do not accuse Mr. Ritchie of patriotism 'for revenue only,' but we do ask him whether these handsome emoluments are in any wise responsible for his enthusiastic approval of anything and everything that was done by the National Administration.
