MANILA CARNIVAL BIG ATTRACTION OF FAR EAST

This is the season of the year when the Philippines become the playground for the entire orient. It is carnival season in Manila.

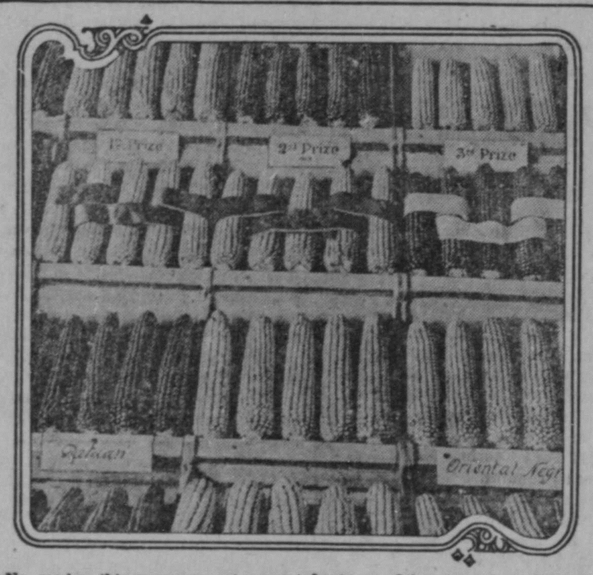

In 1908 the first Philippine carnival was held on historic Wallace Field in Manila in February, when the climate of the islands is at its best, and each succeeding year there has been a larger and more elaborate celebration. The 1920, or Victory Carnival, will be the greatest event of its sort ever held anywhere in the Far East.

There are commercial and government exhibits in connection with the carnival, and on no other occasion is it possible to gain at once such a comprehensive idea of the production and development of resources of the archipelago as that which is offered the visitor at the carnival city.

In the evenings the carnival becomes the center of Philippine and oriental social activity. A huge open air auditorium serves for the elaborate nightly balls, and on its mammoth floor thousands of couples swing together to the strains of music furnished by the famous Constabulary and other military bands. Probably at no other place in the world will one see an equally impressive cosmopolitan spectacle.

The Manila visitor who can plan his trip to arrive at the Pearl of the Orient for carnival time may well deem himself fortunate.

How Would You Like to Harvest Two Crops of Corn a Year as They Do in the Philippines?

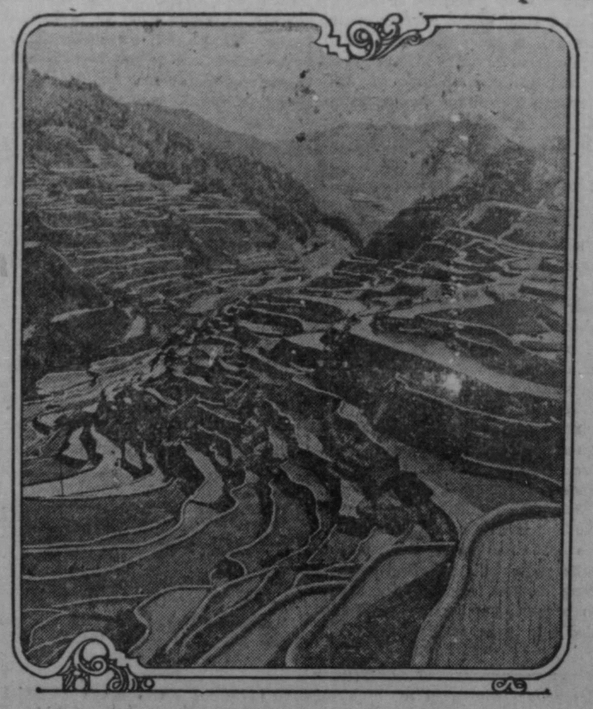

No, reader, this corn was not grown by one of our local farmers! It wasn't grown in the United States, even. It was grown in the faroff Philippine Islands by Filipino schoolboys. Two fine crops of corn a year are produced in the Islands.

The Philippines are doing some wonderful things in the agricultural line. The Philippine government has fine agricultural schools throughout the islands, and the Philippine legislature, composed entirely of Filipinos, is each year making larger and larger appropriations for this important work.

The staple food of the islands is rice, but corn is coming right along in popular favor. Its use was given great impetus in the last year because of a rice shortage. Other important Philippine crops are hemp, sugar cane, cocoanuts, coffee, tapioca and pineapples. Lumber is also an important industry.

There are hundreds of thousands of acres of land lying idle in the Philippines, which have a greater area of fertile land than Japan—this in spite of the fact that the population of the Philippines is 11,000,000 while that of Japan is around 55,000,000. There is every reason to believe that some day the Philippines will have a population as large as that of Japan today. The Filipinos are the only Christian people in the orient, and their young men are working night and day to prepare themselves for the responsibility of citizenship in the Philippine Republic, which they believe to be near at hand.

Rice Terraces Are World's Masterpieces

This is a photograph of the Ifugao Igorrot rice terraces, which are among the most remarkable of their kind in the world. They are one of the many marvelous sights for the tourist to see in the Philippine Islands and are to be found in the Ifugao district of the Mountain province, Northern Luzon.

The height of these terraces, which are held up by stone walls, is from 4 to 18 feet, averaging 8 feet high. It is estimated there are 12,121 miles of eight-foot stone walls in the Ifugao terraces, which is approximately half the distance around the world.

These terraces are skillfully irrigated by water brought in troughs along the precipitous mountain sides over long distances.

WOMEN EAGER FOR FARM WORK

Great Transformation At Springfield Hospital.

In his biennial report to the Board of Managers of the Springfield Hospital for the Insane at Sykesville, which report has been transmitted by the board to the governor, D. . Clement Clark, superintendent of the institution, dwells upon the part, which to him is very gratifying, that women patients are eager for farm work, thus deriving benefits not within the reach of medicine and nursing by outdoor life.

"The women of this country have not been used to farm work," says Dr. Clark, "and we could never get our women or nurses interested in cultivating or gathering vegetables or fruit. It took the war and its many necessities to arouse them. Our women patients have been aroused to the necessity of winning the war and in doing their bit as the women of the country generally, and we all know what that has meant. They have helped cheerfully in planting, gathering and canning our crops. In canning they have been particularly useful and have worked daily, and even at night when necessary.

"While, of course, we have canned fruits and vegetables in our kitchens, it was not until three years ago when we built a cannery that we were able to take care of any large crop of the smaller and more perishable vegetables. The cannery was built by our engineers and mechanics and is located near the power-house, so that it is necessary to pipe the stream only about 40 feet. It was built out of the lumber from an abandoned shack, and the actual cost of the whole plant has not been over $500. It has all the equipment necessary, conveniently arranged.

"Hospital dances have been frequently held and seem to be the most enjoyable form of amusement for the patients. An occasional masked ball is held and is the occasion of intense interest, each patient trying to outdo the other in the elaborateness of his disguise. In the summer games of baseball are played between the hospital team and the teams of neighboring towns every Saturday afternoon. The men patients in particular enjoy these games. Moving picture shows, dramatic entertainments in which the patients participate, and automobile rides on the truck have been given from time to time; besides, patients accompanied by attendants have been allowed to go to various church festivals and entertainments in the village."

Of his proposition to establish a clinic for the treatment of patients suffering with epilepsy Dr. Clark says:

"It is proposed by the management of the institution, as soon as it becomes practical, to establish a separate colony for our insane epileptics, of single-story cottages, forming a group like the present ones, thus affording not only separation but a scientific classification of those patients similar to that of the general insane.

"We now have at Springfield State Hospital 1,474 patients of whom 139 are insane epileptics. In the State of Maryland at the present time there are 340 insane epileptics, according to the statistics in the office of the Secretary of the Lunacy Commission, enough for a small group of cottages separate from the present groups."

Of the financial management of the institution the Board of Managers says: "The two years just passed have been very trying ones. To keep the expenses within the budget allowance has been the greatest problem that we have had, but we are glad to state that we have succeeded, being only $277.22 short in an expenditure of $361,571.13, although, as is well known, prices of everything have advanced since the budget was made up in 1917. The utmost economy has been practiced in every department and an honest effort made all along the line in caring for the food, clothing and supplies generally by the officers and employes."
