1887 [redacted] Emily Hollingsworth Incoming Mail 1994

SIDE TWO

you in a different atmosphere, I hope you will soon go out of town some where. A letter from Mr Montgomery I think came for you the day you left - and a postal from Annie last night. I had a letter from Mrs Cope she expected to start this afternoon or to night for her journey and would not arrive at her destination until tomorrow afternoon. I trust she will be benefitted when she gets there and find it comfortable. She was to have a State room in a car so that she could have all the comfort it was possible to find in travelling. Harry arrived yesterday afternoon he seems better for his trip - I hope you were safely at Miss Martins at a much earlier hour - and met with no more misadventure having had a fall in the woods I hope it did not jar you than to be nearly knocked down by a bustle! was too much!

I shall hope to hear to night that you are safely ~~paced~~ in Philadelphia and that you are going to Ardrossan for Sunday - to have a quiet day with your loving friends there before they go to England. I never thought of it until this minute why not take the trip with them! Would it not do you good? Deedie has not heard again from Charley we suppose he cannot send letters as promptly from Rawley The baby has had colic for the last two nights but she seems to be improving - Shenah brought her down to prayers this morning saying - "it is time to make knees. The girls told me of your "Christian of her". She was per