self - the rest of the family are frolicking There has been an Agricultural Fair going on at Galesville this week, and Harry Rob Emily and Nan have been there on duty since Wednesday Morning, all of them being on the different Committees that had the charge of it. Generally they have gotten home at sundown, but to night they had invited the neighbours to a dance at Tulip Hill, and they hope to have a good time. I think they would all be too tired to enjoy it, but they thought not - and Rob and Sally who took tea with us seemed very bright, ready for anything. The others did not come home, but intended to take a rest at Tulip Hill.

The weather has been very fine for their Fair, and everything seemed to be going on comfortably. I was there for about an hour yesterday afternoon. Harry has had some of his friends from a distance to stay here each night, and Emily has one of the Miss Iglehart's with her. Then I have had plastering done one day and the other days carpets put down so that it has been a busy week. We feel very much encouraged at the report Charley makes of what the gentlemen that Israel introduced Charley to, thought of the Manganese. I hope they will be able to make further investigations very soon. But I find from Charley that Israel talks of taking a trip to England and back, so I suppose if he gets off there, it will be indefinitely postponed. I am glad to see that you have promised not to worry dear Cousin about the papers and Rollers transactions or non transactions! It is not worth while to do so, I should think it would be better to let a Virginia lawyer attend to it. I will get Harry to see about the taxes, and you know you are not
