Some Westminster Kidney Sufferers Get Little Rest or Comfort.

There is little sleep, little rest, little peace for many a sufferer from kidney trouble. Life is one continual round of pain. You can't rest at night when there's kidney backache. Proof in Westminster testimony:

Mrs. J. J. Hesson, 54 Pennsylvania Ave., Westminster, says: "Some years ago I suffered from a severe attack of kidney trouble. They gave me immediate relief."

CLUB GIRL'S HENS PAY WELL

Valerie Henning of Mississippi Is Paying Her Way Through College on Profits From Flock.

"I am a poultry club member, and my records show that this year the net profits from my chickens were $525.35." This is the report of Valerie Henning of Panola county, Mississippi, who at sixteen holds the championship of her state in poultry-club work. She, with six other Mississippi girls and two chaperons, recently visited Washington. The five-day trip was a prize offered by Mississippi bankers and business men to the girl in each district of the state who made the largest profit in her club work.

Miss Henning has been a member for two years of one of the poultry clubs supervised by the United States department of agriculture and the state colleges.

To obtain her start in club work she borrowed $13.50 from a local bank. With this money a pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks, consisting of four hens and one cockerel, was bought. The profits from her chickens last year, her first in poultry work, were $374, and her flock for 1919 consisted of two cockerels and nineteen hens. By the use of trap nests and leg bands the record as a layer of each hen had been observed, and only the good egg producers were kept. From January 1 to October 16 the 19 biddies laid 2,840 eggs. Miss Henning sells nearly all the eggs for hatching purposes; but the birds she raises, aside from the culls, bring from $15 to $20 a pen.

The money this club girl has made through her poultry work is being used to pay her way through an agricultural high school.

DESIRABLE HENS TO RETAIN

On Most Farms Size of Flock Could Well Be Increased—Range Is Very Important.

The average farmer might find it desirable to increase the size of the flock of hens. While most farmers have little time to devote to poultry raising, yet their families may attend to the fowls and see that they are well cared for and protected.

The usual "advice" to poultry raisers to begin with a few hens is sound. But on most farms the women and girls have had the responsibility of the flock for years and most of them could well afford to increase the number of laying hens.

Range is very important for poultry. But range alone is not enough. The fowls must have feed and shelter when they need them.

When one is about to increase the number of hens it is well to see that those kept are worth keeping. Poor hens are not an asset; they are generally a liability.

POULTRY NOTES

Cull out weak or slow-growing chicks.

* * *

Eggs being taken to market should be protected from the sun's rays.

* * *

If the hen house is damp, it is safe to say fewer eggs will be laid.

* * *

Infertile eggs will withstand marketing conditions much better than fertile eggs.

* * *

A chicken can stand any amount of cold, but very little moisture, when housed.

* * *

Rapid growth and no bowel trouble are essential in developing profitable flocks of chicks.

* * *

Make hens take exercise by feeding their grain in litter, where they will have to scratch for it.

* * *

Begin marketing the cockerels as soon as they weigh 1½ pounds or attain a marketable weight.

Bran and charcoal are two valuable feeds for young chicks. They can be placed in hoppers before the chicks at all times.
