n.d. Emily Hollingsworth letter

But we will hope there will be no occasion, and what a comfort, at such a time, this telegraphic communication is, without it, most probably, you would have been off. I am so thankful you are not. Had your letter of Monday reached me at Elizabeth, you would, probably have seen me home to-day, for I had a feeling that I might be called home, I had taken money with me for my journey. Miss Moore arrived here about an hour after I returned this morning & I have left her with Louisa, to write this.

I wrote yesterday from Elizabeth

"Go & let your Husband & Sister know Rest perfect a long, long rest" Helpless as a little child May God in His mercy & love! Thank God I am here. "Go & let your husband & Sister know Rest perfect a long, long rest" Elizabeth this morning I found all your three letters awaiting me, two written Monday & one yesterday after your second despatch from dear Galloway, telling me precious Hannah is "better & urging you not to join them". How terribly anxious the past few days must have been to you and to the dear friends in Philadelphia. Louisa & I could not

I do hope they spent an Easter of thankful gladness. Thanks for your information about our dear Mary & the children having reached Rhode Island safely, as we have had such variable weather & sudden heavy rains, that I had some fear they might have been caught in a storm. Best love to dear Annie B Morris & her mother, I can understand fully how they feel, hardly able for joy to realize the truth of Hannah being better. I wrote, addressed to Cousin Anne yesterday, in reply to her's but meant, of course for you both. Now, I must 19th St. Sat. April 30th past 9 A.M.

So full of thankfulness, my precious Brother & Sister, for the restoration of our darling Hannah as far as your letter of yesterday conveys, that I can hardly find words to express myself. Thank you much, dear Cousin Caspar, for copying off Gally's letter and passages from Mrs Pleasants. You could not have done any thing kinder towards me, for they are both
