LIVE STOCK

LESS FARM ANIMALS IN 1919

[redacted]

272,000 head, or 1.2 per cent; mules increased 41,000 head or 0.8 per cent; "other" cattle (as designated above) decreased 700,000 head, or 1.6 per cent; horses decreased 373,000 head, or 1.7 per cent; sheep decreased 251,000 head, or 0.5 per cent; and swine decreased 1,675,000 head, or 2.2 per cent.

The estimated number of animals on farms and ranges January 1 are 21,109,000 horses, 4,995,000 mules, 23,747,000 milch cows, 44,385,000 other cattle, 48,615,000 sheep, and 72,909,000 hogs. The total of all animals is 215,760,000, which is 2,686,000 head, or 1.2 per cent, less than a year ago.

The total value of all farm animals on January 1 was about $8,561,000,000, which is a shrinkage of $266,000,000, or 3 per cent, compared with a year ago. It is an interesting observation that mules and milch cows which increased in numbers also increased in value per head; whereas all other classes of animals decreased in value per head, as well as in total numbers.

A Good Mule Can Stand More Hard Work Than a Horse and He Will Consume Less Feed.

RULES FOR LIVE STOCK MEN

Satisfied Purchaser Is Best Advertisement and Breeder Should Live Up to Guarantees.

Here are ten good rules for live stock breeders, vouched for by the animal husbandry men at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca:

Be honest.
Choose a breed, and stick to it.
Breed with the correct type in mind.
Study pedigree for inherited characteristics, relative merit and value.
Keep your herd or flock free from disease.
Develop the young animals and maintain the breeding animals through wise feeding and management.
Boost better live stock in your community.
Advertise judiciously.
Exhibit at the county, state and other live stock shows.
Remember that a satisfied purchaser is your best advertisement. So be prompt in registering and transferring animals, and make good all guarantees.

BUSINESS OF FEEDING STOCK

Frequent Shifts and Changes Require One Should Be Alive to Keep Up With Procession.

The business of feeding livestock is a shifting, changing sort of thing which requires that one should be alive if he is going to keep up with the procession. If you wish to make the most profit you must use economy in production and in feeding. If you do this, and profit to the greatest extent from the experience of your neighbors and from the experiment stations, your chances of success are good.

LESSON FOR JULY 4

DAVID IN CAMP AND COURT.

LESSON TEXT—I Sam. 17:1-18:16.
GOLDEN TEXT—David behaved himself wisely in all his ways; and the Lord was with him.—I Sam. 18:14.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—I Sam. 19: 1-17; Ephes. 6:10-20.
PRIMARY TOPIC—David and the Giant.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Shepherd Boy Conquers a Giant.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Fighting the Good Fight.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC Overthrowing Modern Goliaths.

I. David in Camp (I Samuel, 17).

While the armies stood eyeing each other for battle the Philistines, having a warrior among them of great strength, sought to decide the war by a combat between two selected champions. The nation whose champion was slain was to be subject to the other.

1. The champions (vv. 4-37). (1) Goliath of the Philistines (vv. 4-11). Note his characteristics: (a) He was a giant (v. 4). Saul made no attempt to meet this giant. Even Jonathan, who had distinguished himself at Michmash (I Sam. 14), seems to have lacked in courage. (b) He was filled with conceit. His size, his panoply of war and his strength caused him to believe that no evil could befall him. (c) He was boastful. Likely his reputation reminded them of a former experience when Samson, Israel's giant, wrought such great mischief among them. (d) He was defiant. He openly defied the army of Israel—the people of the Most High. (e) He was scornful. He treated the Israelites with the utmost contempt.

(2) David the Israelite (vv. 12-37). In the providence of God, David was sent to the camp at a time to hear the boasting of this proud and contemptible Philistine. His three eldest brothers were in the army and his father sent him with some provisions for them as well as for the captain. While talking with his brothers Goliath made his appearance. The sight of Israel's cowardice and lack of zeal for God prompted David to offer his service. He was not a blind enthusiast who disregarded the use of means, but was careful to use means, and most particular as to what they should be. He put aside the untried armor of Saul, knowing that God's will for him was to use by faith that which he had thought insignificant.

2. The battle (vv. 38-48). When Goliath beheld David coming up against him he cursed him by his gods Dagon, Baal and Astarte, showing that it was not merely a battle between David and Goliath, but between the true God and false gods. David hastened to meet Goliath. A stone from his sling smote Goliath and he fell to the earth upon his face. David went forth in the name of the Lord of Hosts that all the earth might know that there was a God in Israel.

3. The victory (vv. 49-58). Goliath was killed and the Philistine army routed. This victory is a prophecy of a greater one when the devil, the defiant enemy of God, shall be broken and his army put to flight.

II. David in Court (18:1-16).

1. Saul jealous of David (vv. 1-9). David went unto battle with Goliath out of zeal for God and true religion, not for personal glory; but it turned out as always, that because he made God first, God honored him. "Him that honoreth me, I will honor." Upon David's return from the pursuit of the Philistines he was met by a triumphal chorus of women from all the cities of Israel, shouting praises unto him for his victory over their enemies. This was too much for Saul. This was but the occasion which fanned into a flame the passion which lingered in Saul's bosom.

2. Saul tries to kill David (vv. 10, 11). This is an example of the awful tragedy which may result if we harbor envy and jealousy. Saul had prepared a place in his heart for this evil spirit to dwell. When one gives himself up to the indulgence of his baser passions the devil finds a place in his heart to dwell.

3. David's wise conduct (vv. 12-16). Because Saul recognized that God had departed from him and that David must increase while he must decrease, he tried to get rid of David. He sent him from him and made him captain over his army. His envy even assumed a role of cunning and he offered his daughter to David as a reward for bravery in battle. Not that he cared for David, but that the Philistines might kill him instead of doing it with his own hands (v. 17). In spite of all this, David acts discreetly. He wins the favor of the people and is loved by the Lord. Despite Saul's intrigues David went from success to success.

Christ With the Disciples.

For forty days Christ was with the disciples talking with them of the things pertaining to the Kingdom of God. If we cannot believe that the Apostles deceived others, it seems (if possible) still more unlikely that they were the victims of deception.—Bishop Westcott.

Master of Circumstances.

It is the man or woman of faith, and hence of courage, who is the master of circumstances, and who makes his or her power felt in the world.
