General News.

Judge Underwood, of Virginia, has finally succeeded in condemning Governor Wise's estate.—It turns out, however, that his real estate was so heavily encumbered that it will not pay the expenses of the litigation on the part of the Government.

Ex-President Buchanan announces that his History of his Administration will be published early in December.

Governor Brownlow and Colonel Maynard were robbed on Thursday last, some ten miles from Nashville. They were driving carelessly along the road, when three highwaymen suddenly presented themselves. One seized the horse, while the others presented pistols to their heads, and demanded their money. As no choice was left, Governor Brownlow handed over five hundred dollars and his watch. He forgot to get out and thrash them.

The largest fly-wheel in the world has just been cast at the Fort Pitt Work in Pittsburgh. The molten iron was conducted from the furnace across one of the streets of the city, a distance of one hundred and sixty-three feet to the mould. The diameter of the wheel is twenty-five feet, and its weight forty-two tuns.

The amount of national currency issued to national banks last week was something over three millions of dollars, making total amount now in circulation upward of two hundred and ten millions of dollars. This is, of course, independent of, as well as additional to, the direct issues of paper currency by the Government.

The Richmond Enquirer says a company is organizing, which has a capital of five millions of dollars, for the purpose of making loans to Southern planters who need capital to recommence operations with.

Upward of thirty thousand negroes have died in and around Atlanta, Georgia, during the past twelve months.

A Washington dispatch states that numerous applications have been made for the New York Collectorship, but the President will not immediately make an appointment for the office. In the meantime Mr. C. P. Church, the Assistant Collector and Special Deputy, will act as Collector.

In the Farragut court martial, on Wednesday, Surgeon Potter and Lieutenant Phœnix testified on the defense that, from all the facts in the case, Commodore Craven acted the part of a wise, judicious and brave commander in not engaging the Confederate ram Stonewall, as the Niagara would have stood no more chance with her than a brig in combat with a frigate.

The Grand Jury of the District of Columbia have found true bills of indictment against General Baker, the Chief Detective of the War Department, on the charge of false imprisonment in the case of Mr. Joseph R. Cobb, and for robbing Mrs. Cobb of four hundred dollars in Treasury notes.

The Louisville Union Press, a Radical paper, established and supported by contributions from New England, has been convicted of libel, and damages to the amount of three thousand dollars awarded.

There was a smash up on the Alexandria Railroad on Thursday, the 16th inst., while the train was backing on the Pennsylvania avenue, near the city railway crossing. The conductor and one lady passenger were quite seriously injured, and an agent of the Adams Express Company and some few others slightly hurt.

Governor Bell of Texas had a long interview with the President on Wednesday, and reports that there will be less difficulty in the reorganization of that State than any other.

On Wednesday last, the Government refunded to loyal owners in Alexandria, Virginia, the first money from the sale of confiscated property under the act of March, 1865.

A mortgage deed was recorded on the first instant, in the office of the Recorder of Trumbull County, given by the Atlantic and Great Western Railway Company to John R. Penn of New York, as trustee, for thirty millions of dollars, for which seven per centum bonds are to be issued. The instrument required one thousand dollars of stamps.

To Correspondent.—"Lines to A Friend" has been received and shall appear next week.

☞In laying before our readers this morning the sketch of "Modern Chivalry," well known in this county as the "Plinhimmon Story," a word of explanation may not be out of place. The records of the past, when they come to us with the sanction of truth, have always a peculiar fascination; but unfolded as this plot was in our own county, and among our own former citizens, it will be read with unusual interest, especially by the residents of that part of the county in which the scenes lay. The sea Captain mentioned, was a highly respectable citizen and the proprietor of that beautiful estate adjoining the town of Oxford, still known as "Plinhimmon." Some of the older inhabitants still point out the spot where the gallant tar first met Perdita and heard the story of her suffering. The Captain is remembered "as a man of character, well esteemed, and of good feeling, who moved in the best company of his day." It has been urged as an apology for young Stewart, who ran off with the beautiful Perdita, that he received his impressions from the ex parte statements of one who thought herself aggrieved, and unjustly as they may have been to the noble heart and generous mind of the Captain, were, without doubt, honest on her part.

Thanksgiving Day in Maryland.—Governor Bradford has issued his proclamation setting apart Thursday, the 7th of December next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer in this State.

Suicide of Hon. Preston King.—The Hon. Preston King, Collector of the port of New York, committed suicide by jumping overboard from one of the ferry boats. For some days previous Mr. King was known to be laboring under some mental excitement and was watched very closely, but on Monday morning he eluded the vigilance of his friends, and having, it is said, purchased a bag of shot which he fastened to his clothes, thus put an end to his life.

Internal Revenue Taxes.—J. H. Thompson, deputy collector for Talbot County, has given notice that he will be in Easton on Tuesday the 28th inst., and every day thereafter, between the hours of 9 o'clock, A. M., and 5 o'clock, P. M., until Wednesday the 6th of December next, inclusive, to receive said taxes. Persons owing tax on Income, Licenses, Carriages, Watches and Musical Instruments are required to make payment and a failure to comply at the time stated will cause an addition of 10 per cent. to be added to the amount of all so neglecting.

"Druid," the Washington correspondent of the Tew York News, writing from Washington, under date of November 13th, in speaking of the trial of Wirz, says the main object was to try and fasten a charge of complicity upon Jefferson Davis, for the cruelties inflicted upon the Andersonville prisoners, but that it entirely failed. It appears by the letter of "Druid," that on the very night before his execution, Wirz received through his counsel, an offer that his life should be spared, and his sentence commuted to imprisonment, "if he would acknowledge that Jefferson Davis was in any way connected with the atrocities at Andersonville." He also states that the letter came from a member of the cabinet, and that there is only one member of the cabinet who has the authority or would be capable of making such an offer. To which offer Wirz made the following reply, which stamps him as one who could not be induced to betray his country and friends for the sake of his own life, and history will not fail to do justice to his memery. "Mr. Schade, you know I have always told you that I did not know anything about Jeff Davis. He had no connection with me as to what was done at Andersonville, and if I knew he had, I would not become a traitor against him or any one else to save myself." Does any doubt the sincerity of this answer? If they do, we think they must be lost to all sense of the holier feelings to suppose that this man, who was so soon to stand in the presence of his Maker, could deliberately make the above assertion. But he has gone and it now remains for those he has left behind him to vindicate his name from the foul aspersions which has been cast upon it by the fanatical zeal of his oppressors. The object for which Wirz was tried and executed having failed (to prove that Jefferson Davis is responsible for the horrors of Andersonville) has, says "Druid," "recoiled upon those that made the attempt, and history with an unerring finger will point to the man who is responsible. He now sits in an honored station. In the Black Republican pantheon he is cannonized as divine."

The Lady's Friend.—The December number of this favorite magazine is a superb one. The leading steel engraving, in illustration of the text,

"Children's children are the crown of old men,
And the glory of children are their fathers;"

is one that will go home to many hearts. The engraved title-page is lovely beautiful—it is a gem of art. It represents The Past and The Future—while, around,

"The little birds sing East, and the little birds sing West," to use a well-known line from Mrs. Browning's "Rhyme of the Duchess May." The Double Colored steel Fashion Plate for this number will be pronounced by the ladies "superb," or else we are very greatly mistaken. Then there are engravings of the new fashions in jackets, cloaks, coiffures, bonnets, &c. The literary matter is excellent as usual:—"Only a Child," (Illustrated) by Miss Frost; "Over Sea," by Florence Percy; "My Courtship;" "My Beautiful Sister," by Louise Chandler Moulton; "Wrecked," by Miss A. L. Muzzey; "Mr. Brown's Boys," by Frances Lee; "Changes in the Household of Cecelia Bird, Spinster," by Mrs. Margaret Hosmer; "Giovanno Tosini," by Miss Auber Forestier: "Told by the Sun," by Beatrice Colonna; New Publications, Receipts, The Fashions, &c. &c.—making altogether a splendid number.

Price $2.50 a year; 2 copies $4.00; 8 copies (and one gratis) $16. Now is the time to get up clubs for 1866. Specimen numbers for this purpose will be sent for 15 cents. Wheeler & Wilson's celebrated Sewing Machines are furnished as Premiums in certain cases. The Prospectus of this magazine for next year embodies a splendid list of contributors.

Address Deacon & Peterson, 319 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

Peterson's Magazine.—We are in receipt of this popular Lady's Magazine for December. It is a splendid number. The principal engraving, "Papa, Papa," is one of great beauty. For many years "Peterson's Magazine" has had a larger circulation than any other monthly in the United States. In 1866 it will greatly improved; the reading matter will be increased, and each number will contain a Double-Size Steel Fashion Plate, elegantly colored, with from four to six figures—making "Peterson" the cheapest in the world. The terms will remain two dollars a year to single subscribers. To clubs it is cheaper still, viz: five copies for $8.00, eight copies for $12.00, or fourteen copies for $20,00. To every person getting up a club, (at these rates,) the Publisher will send an extra copy gratis. Specimens sent (if written for) to those wishing to get up clubs.

Address, post-paid,
CHARLES J. PETERSON,
306 Chestnut Street, Phila.

He "Still Lives."—The telegraphic announcements a few days ago of the death in Alabama of Gen. Duff Green, so famously known years ago as a Washington editor, we are gratified to say was ahead of events. The General is at present in Washington city, in fair health, at a ripe old age. Duff C. Green, Esq., one of the General's sons, has been residing in Alabama, and it may be his death which was designed to be reported, though his father has received no certain information.

☞"Mudwall" Jackson, of Virginia, is said to have received a pardon.

The following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted at a regular meeting of Miller Lodge No. 18, I. O. O. F., held in Easton, November 7, 1865. P. G. Spencer was one of the oldest members of the Lodge, and was a bright and shining light to those whom he has left behind. The resolutions speak the sentiment of every one, and we fear his place will not soon be filled as ably as when he was with them:

Whereas, Almighty God, in His inscrutable Providence has seen fit in His Wisdom to remove from among us in the midst of his usefulness and whilst his honors were thickening about him, our dearly beloved and honored Brother Past Grand Matthew Spencer, and

Whereas, His absence from our lodge room will be sorely felt, having endeared himself to us by his dignified presence, the urbanity of his manners, his loving and cheerful disposition and his passionate love for the order, and

Whereas, His character was always such as becometh the Good and faithful Oddfellow.—Therefore be it

Resolved—That we have heard of his death with painful emotions and great sorrow. Not however of the sorrow of those who have no hope.

Resolved—That in the death of P. G. Spencer, we have lost the Wise conseller, the Sincere friend, our able advocate, the devoted Oddfellow and we ask one of another, "who among us can take up his mantle."

Resolved—That we deeply sympathise with his afflicted family in this, their great bereavment.

Resolved—That a copy of these resolutions, shall be sent to the family of deceased, one to the Grand Lodge of Maryland, one to the papers of town and that they be recorded in full on our minutes.

An Important Duty.—The following which first made its appearance in the Ohio Statesman, should be read and acted upon by every Democrat in this county. Let none fail to act up to its suggestion:

"Let every Democrat support his local paper. It is his duty to give it all the advertising and printing, as well as subscribers, he can. Every thing should be done to encourage and strengthen it; as the Democratic press has much to contend against—money and power, the flesh and the Devil! We invoke every man who loves Democracy and the principles of the Democratic party, to rally now to the support of his political organ. There should be no delay about this thing. Let it be done at once."

THIRTIETH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE UNION DORCAS SOCIETY.

For thirty years the Union Dorcas Society has been dispensing favors among the poor of Easton. In order to accomplish its work, it has been dependent on the voluntary contributions of the citizens, and they have not been found wanting. In most instances, when called upon, they have shown themselves "willing to give and glad to distribute." Even during the last few years of high prices, when so much more was needed for the purchase of fuel and provisions, and when we feared we should not have the means of supplying the wants of applicants for assistance, we have known no falling off: on the contrary, as our expenditures increased, the contribution have been enlarged; if some withdrew their names as contributors, or felt it necessary to diminish the sum they had been accustomed to give; others have generously increased their donations; and new names have been added to the list of donors; so that we have still been enabled to alleviate the sufferings of the sick and poor in our community.

In presenting this thirtieth annual report then, it may be thought scarcely necessary to call the attention of our readers to this duty. We say duty, because we, who have been born and nurtured under christian influences, well know the commands laid upon us in God's word, to remember the poor, and to minister o their need according to our ability. But, as the year draws to a close, and that when they are again called upon, mind them? We will be, we shall expect them to give liberally as heretofore. They have led us, by their generosity, to anticipate a prompt response to our application on behalf of our needy fellow citizens, and, as we tender them our grateful acknowledgement of past favors, we are confident they will not now disappoint us.

We have five constant pensioners, who have been visited once a fortnight, during the year; and whose wants have been regularly supplied. In adition to these, we have given assistance to others who have applied at different times for aid. In sickness they are visited more frequently, and medicines is given, when needed; and, in cases of extreme illness and destitution, a nurse has been provided at the expense of the Society. Shoes and clothing have also been given, to some, in the extreme cold weather.

The Treasurer reports as follows:

Amount received, in Donations and Subscriptions,	$370.90
Expended,	323.59
Balance remaining in Treasury,	$47.31

There is, at this time, as will be seen, a balance in the hands of the Treasurer, but, from that, we must meet our expenses for the present month: our first collections for the ensuing year, not being received till the meeting of the Board in December. It will be perceived that we shall need an allowance at least as ample as that for the past year, and even that will not be sufficient, should we have larger demands upon our charities.

We have spoken of the duty of giving: let us remember it is no less a privilege than a duty, and if our portion of this world's goods be greater than others, it is that we may prove by experience, how much "more blessed it is to give than to receive."

Important Opinion from Secretary Seward—Mr. Davis Cannot be Convicted.—A New York correspondent of the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph, writing on the 16th of October, says:

Since I have introduced Mr. Seward's name, I will refer to a conversation he had a few days since with Thurlow Weed, Jefferson Davis being the subject. Weed said Mr. Davis should be hanged, and expressed himself quite warmly on the subject. Mr. Seward then propounded the query, "Why should you hang him?" to which Weed replied: "I would hang him for treason." Mr. Seward responded in his energetic way: "We cannot hang him without first convicting him, and I think no impartial jury would do that." Weed said: "His guilt is already established, and his conviction should not be difficult;" but Mr. Seward maintained that no jury could be formed to convict him, and added in a significant way: "And even if we should hang him it would be no great moral lesson to the world."—Gentlemen who where present during the conversation infer from it that Mr. Davis's life is safe at least.

The Women of the South.

[From the Montgomery (Ala.) Mail.]

We had almost determined to pass unnoticed the frequent insulting allusions to the women of the South which some of the Northern papers are disposed to contain. The men who brought on the late unhappy war by lashing the people of the South to phrenzy, are now endeavoring to make perpetual the feud which sprung up between the two sections, and was quieted only with blood and desolation. The conservative men of the South, however much they dispised many of the prevailing traits of Northern character and loathed the despisable hypocrisy of Northern Radicals, have been earnest in their efforts to restore harmony of sentiment throughout the country, and dispel the error that the Government is the Northern people. It has been the effort of this class of politicians to impress upon the South that the whole country is the Government, and the people of the South are as much interested in endeavoring to mould the policy of that Government as the people of New England or any other section.—With this view, we have counseled a cordial support of the Administration; and had hoped that leading men, joined around the Presidential chair, from all sections would lay aside the memories of the past and strike hands in behalf of constitutional States Right in the Union.

These efforts to render less bittter the cup of Southern sorrow are met, as formerly, by a party at the North, who cowardly as Falstaff during the war, are brave as that hero when the battle is over. Cautious not to attack Southern men in the day of bullets, they do not hesitate to attack Southern women in the piping days of peace.—"The women of the South are illiterate and unmannerly," says The New York Tribune, at whose heels a few satelites follow to catch up and repeat the witticisms and bon mots of the philospher.

The women of the South need no defender!—Their angelic virtues, in the day of darkness and desperation, often held up the flagging hearts of the people. For four years they labored in behalf of the cause, the success of which was the dearest wish of their hearts. The trials through which they passed were severe and laborious, preparing food for the soldiers from the scanty supplies of their own table, dividing the last morsel of bread with the ragged, weary wanderer; sewing night and day to prepare clothing for the army; nursing the sick and wounded as they cheered the hospitals with their smiles.

Daily would they assume the garb of mourning for a father, a brother or a lover; daily did the shaft of death enter the household and make manly hearts quail before the horrors of war; but never for one moment did the women of the South, from the highest to the lowest, fail to support the arms of the soldier, and hold them up until the sinking of the sun. God bless them for what they did in the hour of darkness and sorrow! God bless them for what they are doing now! From one end of the South to the other, the women have joined in noble petitions for the pardon of Mr. Davis; and nightly, beside ten thousand beds, in the silent chambers, kneel ten thousand sainted forms, to offer prayers for the salvation of those we loved.

Such exalted devotion; such immortal endurance; such saintly charity needs no defense from a Southern pen. History will portray their virtues in colors more splendid than those which hand down, through the mist of years, the majestic pride of a Cornelia, and the patriotic fervor of a Joan D'Arc.

Let the late war stand in history as it may, let it be damned as a hateful rebellion, or lamented as an unsuccessful revolution; let it pass down the corrridors of time with the acclamations of the world, or with anathemas of mankind; whatever it may be declared by the verdict of history, it will pass onward before the eyes of coming ages with many a glorious deed and many a noble martyr to illustrate its eventful scenes, but with nothing more glorious and beautiful to adorn it than the holy devotion of the women of the South.

Such women are worthy of the respect of the world, and will receive a sneer only from cowards.

Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.

Our Relations with France---The Mexican Question---Trouble Likely to Arise.

Washington, Nov. 16.—There are intimations that the French minister, Motholon, is in bad temper concerning our management of relations with Mexico, and predicts serious consequences. It will be recollected that Maximilian proclaimed the forces of Juarez, or of the republic to be bandits or other outlaws, who are to be shot on sight. The Government of such forces we recognize by sending a minister to it. The Bonapartes are not apt to overlook things of that sort. I do not attribute importance to the story that Napoleon III. is about to withdraw the French troops from Mexico. It is strange that he should refrain from sending African troops there, and it is perhaps more strange that our abolition or republican statesmen should object to the color of the men that were to go.

There are those of little faith who think that Gen. Logan and Mr. Browning will not go to the Republic of Mexico at all, or if they do go, it will be at so late a period that there will exist nothing to be accredited to. Regarded in this light the French Emperor, unless he is "spoiling for a fight," may pocket the insult, rather than run the risk of losing Mexico by going to war about the nominal affront.

If serious difficulties shall spring up with France, they will be urged as a reason why the Southern States should be represented in Congress. Things are somewhat in the dark in this respect, many being of the belief that the President will add other requirements yet, as conditions precedent to their admission.

The recent reports of the fitting out of a formidable naval fleet by the Government are untrue.

Railroad Accident.

We announced yesterday (says the Baltimore Sun of Friday) that a terrible accident occured on the New Jersey railroad, at Newark, on Wednesday morning, by which a man named William L. Gordon was almost instantly killed, and a boy mortally wounded, and several others severely injured. The particulars of the accident are thus related by the Newark Advertiser:

The scene of the disaster is a yard in which is placed a turn-table for turning around engines.—An engine had been upon the table and gone back to the depot, and by carelessness the switch had not been changed to the main track. The 8 A. M. through Washington train came along soon after, running at a rapid rate of speed, and dashed upon the side track. The engineer immediately reversed the engine, and the brakes were applied, but could not at once stop the progress of the train, rushed across the turn-table, and thence into the soft mould adjoining, doubling up the pilot of the locomotive (No. 25) and forcing the first passenger car back into the second car nearly half way, in a manner similar to the closing of a telescope. The front car fortunately contained only about twenty persons. Those in the front seats were forced along, and one of them, Mr. Gordon, had barely time to shout, "My God, save my life," when he was killed. Both legs were completely torn off, and his head badly crushed. He was from Holderness, New Hampshire, and was proprietor of the coaches which are connected with Willard's Hotel, Washington. Gordon had been to Boston, with his wife and two children, and was on his return to Washington. They had been sitting in the rear car, when he said he would go into the smoking car for a short time, and was not again seen by his family; until he became a corpse. He was 42 years old, and a inestimable gentleman, well known to many who have sojourned at Willards. The sum of $1,500 which Mr. G. had on his person is missing, and is supposed to have been stolen during the excitement.

The Profits of a Detective.—An extensive hotel which will rent for $4,750 per month is being built in Lansing, Michigan, by an officer in the Government detective service, who was not worth a dollar before the commencement of the war. Exchange.

A highly respectable member of the New-York bar told us some time since that a certain Colonel, a brother of a certain Major General in the service of the United States, who had been down South about six months, was found to be worth, upon his demise, seven million dollars! It was not known that he was worth anything when he went prospecting down South. Is it any wonder that certain cliques and persons should exhibit such manifest disgust at the sudden closing of the war, or that they would evidently submit to a prolongation of it with such fortitude and Christian resignation?—Louisville Journal.

Indictment of General L. C. Baker.—The Grand Jury of the District of Columbia, have presented to the court General L. C. Baker, Chief Detective of the War Department, on the charge of false imprisonment of Joseph R. Cobb and Mrs. Lucy Cobb, and for taking away from Mrs. Cobb four fifty dollars notes, and from Mr. Cobb a pardon, and other valuable papers. The presentments have been handed to the District Attorney for the purpose of preparing indictments. A late dispatch says: It is alleged that a recent complaint to the grand jury against a detective of the War Department, originated in his raid of certain alleged pardon brokers. The merits of the question will be tested by the court.—Delaware Gazette.

Distress in Charleston. The following extract from a letter, written by a Union lady of Charleston to friends in the North, will give an idea of the cases that appeal for help:

"The question arises, how are we to live? We are willing to work, but we are miserably prepared for it. The sufferings we have undergone have impaired the health of all of us. A cold winter is before us, and we have nothing to wear, to eat, or to burn. After all the struggles we have been through, is there no help for us? A poorer set than we you cannot conceive of."

The High Price of Paper.—Paper has risen almost one hundred per cent. since the first of August, and is now quite as high as it was at any time last year, and the tendency is still onward and upward. There is little prospect for relief before spring. Paper, ink, labor, and all the materials which go to make a newspaper are so high, that no proprietor can afford to publish a paper for less than double the price received before the war. Still, people complain because the prices are not reduced, never thinking that the matter is entirely beyond the control of publishers.—Westminster (Md.) Sentinel.

What the Illustrious Abernethy said.

"Well, sir, what's the matter?" said Abernethy, the great English surgeon, to a cadaverous-looking patient, who had called to consult him. "Oh, nothing serious," was the reply, "my stomach and liver are out of order, that's all." "Do you call that nothing serious?" said Abernethy; "I tell you, sir, that when these two organs are out of order, as you call it, there's not a square inch of the body that is not more or less diseased, nor a drop of blood in it that is in a healthful condition." Nothing can be more true, therefore it is of the very highest importance to keep the stomach and liver in a vigorous condition. If the one is weak and the other irregular in its action, tone and control them with HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS—the most genial vegetable Restorative and Alterative that has ever been administered as a cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Disease. It is recommended by distinguished surgeons and physicians of the United States Army, by officers of the Army and Navy, by our first authors, by eminent clergymen—in fact, by thousands of the most intelligent of every class, as an unequalled protective against epidemic and malarious diseases, and as a perfectly innocuous, but at the same time powerful, invigorant and alterative.

RAIL ROAD NOTICE.

I AM instructed by the Board of Directors of the Md. & Del. R. R. Co., to notify the stockholders and all interested in the completion of the work, that six miles of said road has been adjusted, and now is in running order; that iron has been purchased and paid for by the Contractor, and is, together with a large amount of ties, being transported on the line of the road, and the work is in active progress. In view of these facts I am directed to urge all delinquent stockholders to come forward and pay their subscriptions, and to solicit new subscriptions to stock. Now is the time when every friend of the road should render all the aid in his power. The present contract is one more favorable to the company, and the early completion of the road, than could have been looked for under the circumstances, and it will require but little more to connect the waters of the Chesapeake with the Delaware Rail Road; when the whistle of the iron horse and the welcome sound of the cars may be heard as the messengers, that our enterprise has been accomplished and with it the prosperity of our section of country commenced.

Godey's Lady's Book For 1866.

The Fashion Magazine of the World. LITERATURE, FINE ARTS AND FASHIONS. The most magnificent Steel engravings; double Fashion-Plates. Wood engravings every subject that can interest the ladies, as knitting, Netting, Embroidery, Artistic Toilet, for the Parlor, the Boudoir, the Kitchen. Everything, in fact, to make a complete Lady's Book.

THE LADIES' FAVORITE FOR 36 YEARS. No Magazine has been able to compete with it, nor even attempt it.

Godey's Receipts for every department of household. These alone are worth the price of the Book.

Model Cottages (no other Magazine gives them), with diagrams.

Drawing Lessons for the Young. A specialty with Godey.

Original Music, worth $3 a year. Other magazines publish old worn out music; but the subscribers to Godey get it before the music sellers.

Gardening for Ladies. Another peculiarity with Godey.

Fashions from Messrs. A. T. Stewart and New York, the millionaire merchants, appear in Godey, the only Magazine that has these Ladies' Bonnets. We give more of them, year than any other Magazine. In fact, Godey's Book enables every lady to be her own bonnet maker.

MARION HARLAND,

Authoress of "Alone," "Hidden Path," "Husband's Side," "Nemesis," and "Miriam," writes for Godey each month, and for no other magazine. A new novel by her will be published in 1866. We have also retained all the favorite contributors.
