600 CHILDREN MARCH TO ARMORY

Every hour Friday was filled with interesting happenings at the County Exhibit. At 10 o'clock S. B. Shaw, of the University of Maryland, gave to a large number of fruit growers on the farm of Daniel F. Shipley, Jr., a demonstration in methods of pruning and caring for young orchards.

At 11 o'clock about 600 boys and girls of the city school marched to the Armory, where practical address on subjects pertaining to health were made by Dr. Lewis K. Woodward, chief health officer of Carroll county, and Dr. William Stone, of the State Board of Health.

Art Works On Exhibition

For the women of the county interest the afternoon centered in County Agent Fuller's headquarters, the walls of which were covered with art exhibits in cravon, painting and needlework from the Maryland Institute, Baltimore, and similar work from the hands of Carroll county women.

Miss Stewart, of the Maryland Institute, spoke to the large gathering of women on "Art in the Home" and Miss Day, of the University of Maryland, gave a practical address on "Selection of Clothing." The Armory was crowded at night when addresses were made by Dr. Stone on "Health"; "What to Eat and Why," by Dr. E. B. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University, and "Counting the Cost." by Miss Hunt, economics specialist, United States Department of Agriculture.

MASS OF THANKSGIVING.

St. John's congregation was present yesterday morning at a special Mass of Thanksgiving for the blessings bestowed upon the nation during the past year. The children rendered a program of hymns which expressed both love of God and love of country. The prayer for the authorities was recited during the Benedic tion of the Blessed Sacrament.

A spiritual retreat for the children was begun this morning under the direction of the missionaries who will conduct a mission for adults next week.

It is the custom of the Fathers in charge to invite parents to bring all of the children, even infants, to the closing exercises of the children's retreat which will take place on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The ceremony of The Blessing of Infants will be part of the exercises.

The American will be continued as a morning paper but the Star will cease. The price paid was $1,500,000. which did not include the American Building.
