MR. HAYES THE PRESIDENT OF A NEW PARTY.—When Mr. President Hayes issued his orders to remove the Federal soldiers from South Carolina and Louisiana, and release the Great State from the throats of the people of those down-trodden States, not yet did the Presidential hog down on the heels of the Retiring Carpet Baggers and give them tickets of leave to return to their Northern homes, and restored home rule and honest government to the Southern people, although he may be justly charged with breaking faith with the scoundrels who elected him by fraud and perjury, he has deserved well of the country; but when Mr. Hayes undertakes to overturn long established parties and set up for himself and those who are holding office under him, a new party, to be founded on the ruins of the Democratic and Republican parties, parties founded on principles which clearly antagonize each other, he renders himself liable to the charge of selfishness, and will utterly fail. The idea of restoring the old Whig party is simply ridiculous. There is not enough of the Whig element in the country even to form a respectable opposition minority party. The Whig party, which was formerly in that time merely a whole generation of voters have died out. All who have grown to be voters since, have never seen the Democratic or Republican party under the name of Whig party or its principles, and have never been in sympathy with it. In the two national platforms of 1852, the whig and Democratic parties came so near together in their announced principles, that no difference could be detected between them with a forty thousand magnifying microscope. The only one bone of difference was "proscription" by the Whigs. After the whig party went down, its real living principles survived, and was preserved in the Democratic party, and on those principles, which are Democratic principles, and make common cause in battling against the Revolutionary Republican party's principles; and they are still battling together against them, and will continue to do so with the principles of the constitution in the national administration are maintained and maintained throughout the land. It will be treason to those sacred principles for Mr. Hayes now to attempt to divide the Democratic party with a view to restore the old whig party. And no new party movement can thrive under the tattered banner of a defunct party. Who could rally now with any heart under the "Secession" flag, and yet the "secesh" flag is much more recent than the whig flag, and there are more voters to-day who were confederates than there are who were whigs. Parties are not born of Presidential edicts. They grow out of great wrongs, or out of great principles, and it takes years to establish them. President Tyler undertook to get up a Tyler party, and President Johnson undertook to get up a new party, founded on the ruin of a couple of leaders loved by the people of the South, but both ignominiously failed, and Mr. Hayes will fail also if he tries it. Let him not give heed to party at all, but go ahead and do right, as he did in South Carolina and Louisiana, and leave parties to take care of themselves, and in doing right he will find that the people will take care of him and he will have the biggest kind of a party to sustain him. But if he should come to believe that he is acting not from a sense of right, but simply to build up a new party for the benefit of himself or some one else about him, he will soon be hivested of all parties, and will not even a "corporal's guard" to sustain him, except such scamps as he may buy up with government patronage, and who will desert him in a body, as soon as they may find it to their profit to do so. Of all the nonsense we have seen lately, the talked scheme of Hayes, Thompson, Evarts and others, to found a new whig-Republican party, appears to us the most absurd.

For sometime past, the sentiment in the Democratic party has been that southern men must keep silent, remain in the background, and let their Northern and Western brethren manage everything in the party. The Southern men might vote, but that was all, if they took a hand in any matter it must not be political. It would ruin the party, ruin the cause, ruin the South, if the Southern men became too prominent. Well, the Southern men kept quiet, remained in the background, and allowed the Northern Democrats to manage everything. They managed the Presidential contest with a vengeance. After electing Tilden president through the Southern votes they lost him, and allowed Morton & Co., to "bullyrag" Hayes in after he had been defeated. After Tilden's defeat, they could do nothing for the oppressed Southern States, and had to leave them to their fate. Before the result of the contest was finally declared, the Southern men in Congress saw the dangers which menaced them, resolved to remain in the background no longer, and promptly took the management of their own affairs into their own hands, and the country now sees the result. They soon got Hayes into their power by manipulating his Ohio friends, and left him no honorable alternative but to remove the troops which Grant had used against him. The South is now free, thanks to the good management of the Southern men; and if the Democratic party is to succeed in the country, the Southern Democrats must take charge of it and direct its policy. They must remain behind the curtain no longer. They must speak as they feel, and they generally feel right, for they are not the slaves of corporations or money kings like many of the leading Northern Democrats. And the Southern men are, and always have been, better politicians than Northern men. They have more time to devote to the study of politics. All the great Democratic victories of the past have been engineered by Southern men; the Democratic policy of the past has been shaped by Southern men; and the Democratic party never encountered permanent defeat until it separated from Southern direction in 1860. The struggle in the Charleston Convention in 1860 was only an attempt of the incompetent Northern men to take control of the organization and ignore the Southern policy. It resulted in disaster, not only to the party, but to the country, as was plainly foreseen by the Southern leaders, who unfalteringly obeyed their sense of honor, although it lead to the disaster. As recent events have brought the great Southern leaders to the front again, we hope they will stay there, and if their presence is distasteful to any Northern Democrats, let the Northern gentlemen be invited to retire and find company more suited to their tastes. Confusion will soon be in motion again, and we hope that no Democrat in that body who has approved the actions of any particular ground that he represents a Northern Constituency, and an inferior man put in only because he represents a Northern Constituency. It is time now that all that kind of stuff was thrown out. The best men should invariably be placed in all responsible positions without regard to geographical lines. When the Democratic party has the courage to do this, and defend its action, it will deserve success, and will also command it. Until it has the fairness and pluck to do this, and while it continues to pander to the sentiment of the North, to the injury of its greatest leaders, it will fail to command that respect in the country which is indispensible to permanent success.

NIZHNI NOVGOROD FAIR.—The great market of the eastern world has been held at this junction of the Volga and Oka rivers, in Russia, every summer for hundreds of years. Here the nations of Europe and Asia meet with their products for trade. Cossack, Chinese, Turk and Persian, meet the German and the Greek with every variety of merchandise that mankind employs, from sausages to Kalmuck furs, from cashmere to gingerbread, tea, opium, fur, food, tools and fabrics, and last but not least, mention, J. C. Ayer & Co.'s celebrated remedies from America were displayed in an elegant bazar where the Doctor himself might sometimes be seen. They are known and taken on steppes of Asia as well as on the prairies of the West, and are an effectual antidote for the diseases that prevail in the yaourts of the North, as well as the huts and cabins of the western continent.—Lancets (Eng.) Times.

Gov. Hampton, of South Carolina, is to-day the most popular man in the country. Every body has observed his noble bearing throughout the trying scenes through which he has passed since his nomination for Governor last summer, most people have read his noble letters, speeches and proclamations, and none have observed or read but to admire. Wherever he goes the people welcome him with joy. While in Washington recently he appeared to be as popular there as he is at home. He commits no mistakes, and must ultimately rise to the highest honors of the Republic.

WAR.—We publish the Russian and Turkish war manifestos this morning. No serious fighting has yet occurred, but as the two hostile armies are getting near and nearer to each other every day, a big battle may be expected to take place at any time. As the contest is mainly for the possession of Bulgaria, on the soil of that province the first great battles of the war will probably be fought, perhaps in the neighborhood of Rustchuck. Each

WAR BETWEEN RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

THE RUSSIAN WAR MANIFESTO.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 24.—The following is the text of the Czar's manifesto to the Russian army and people, which was promulgated to day:

"Our faithful and beloved subjects know the strong interest we have constantly felt for the destinies of the oppressed Christian population of Turkey. Our desire to ameliorate and assuage their lot has been shared by the whole Russian nation, which now shows itself ready to bear fresh sacrifices to alleviate the position of the Christians in the Balkan peninsula. The blood and property of our faithful subjects has always been dear to us, and our whole reign attests our constant solicitude to preserve to Russia the the benefits of peace. This solicitude never failed to actuate us during the deplorable events which occurred in Herzegovina, Bosnia and Bulgaria. Our object before all was to effect the amelioration in the position of the Christians in the East by means of Pacific negotiations and in concert with the great European powers, our allies and friends, for two years we have made incessant efforts to induce the Porte to effect such reforms as would protect the Christians in Bosnia, Herzegovina and Bulgaria from the arbitrary measures of the local authorities. The accomplishment of these reforms was absolutely stipulated by anterior engagements contracted by the Porte toward the whole of Europe. Our efforts, supported by collective representations made in common by the other governments, have not, however, attained their object. The Porte has remained unshaken in its formal refusal of any effective guarantee for the security of its Christian subjects, and has rejected the conclusions of the Constantinople conference.

"Wishing to essay every possible means of conciliation in order to persuade the Porte, we proposed to the other cabinets to draw up a special protocol comprising the most essential conditions of the Constantinople conference, and to invite the Turkish government to adhere to this international act, which states the extreme limits of our pecuniary demands. But our expectation was not fulfilled. The Porte did not defer to this unanimous wish of Christian Europe, and did not adhere to the conclusions of the protocol. Having exhausted pacific efforts we are compelled by the haughty obstinacy of the Porte to proceed to more decisive acts, feeling that our equity and our own dignity enjoin it. By her refusal Turkey places us under the necessity of having recourse to arms. Profoundly convinced of the justice of our cause, and humbly confiding ourselves to the grace and help of the Most High, we make known to our faithful subjects that the moment foreseen, when we pronounced words to which all Russia responded with enthusiasm, unanimity has now arrived. We expect the intention to act independently, if it should become necessary, and when Russia's honor should demand it. We now invoking the blessing of God upon our valiant armies we give them the order to cross the Turkish frontier. ALEXANDER.

Prince Gorchakoff and Prince Milutin Tchernaieff have issued circulars to the Russian representatives abroad, in which they set forth the reasons which have induced Russia to take up arms. The circulars say that Turkey has rejected the conclusions of the Constantinople conference, and that Russia, in consequence, has been compelled to take up arms in order to secure the independence of her Christian subjects, and to put an end to the disorders which are a menace to the peace of Europe.

Prince Gorchakoff's circular says that Russia desires neither conquest nor aggrandisement, but only to be able to devote herself to the development of her internal resources, which the Eastern question has hitherto paralyzed. The circular concludes by declaring that Russia will not lay down her arms until her demands are satisfied.

Prince Milutin Tchernaieff's circular says that Russia will not allow the Turkish Government to trifle with her demands, as it has done with those of the Conference, and that Russia will not lay down her arms until she has secured the independence of her Christian subjects, and put an end to the disorders which are a menace to the peace of Europe.

DEDICATION OF THE NEW ODD FELLOWS HALL AT CENTREVILLE—LARGE NUMBERS OF EASTONIANS PRESENT—SOME OF THE INCIDENTS.

The new hall lately erected by St. Tammany's Lodge, I. O. O. F., at Centreville, was dedicated by the Grand Master of Maryland on Thursday. The Grand Secretary made the public address on the occasion. About 60 members of Miller Lodge, No. 18, of Easton, the Lodge from Chiltech Hill, and St. Tammany's Lodge participated in the ceremonies. There was a public procession through the town, headed by the Easton Mozart Band, Capt. Hides, the three tinsled lodges marching in the order we have named them, followed by a crowd of citizens, boys and darkies. A large number of ladies arrayed in their beautiful spring attire were in town to enjoy the festivities of the day. Woolman J. Gibson, being wand-bearer marshall, and managed everything most admirably. There was no public dinner, but some host of the Arlington, Mr. Granville, entertained almost simultaneously that patronized the hotel, Mr. Simon, Mr. Sam'l Granville, was indefatigable in his attentions to his guests from Eastern. Every thing passed off pleasantly fortunately, as we will hope of Queen Anne's and Talbot.

The Easton Dramatic Company visited the Miller Lodge Odd Fellows in Hall and played the "Serious Family" to a crowded house on Thursday night. Everybody expressed themselves delighted, and the company was urged to visit Centreville again soon and give another entertainment. The company express themselves as under great obligations to Mrs. Davis, who dress'd the girls so tastefully. The Centreville Dramatic Company also rendered signal service. All express themselves as highly pleased with their visit.

To take the double party to Centreville a heavy draft was made on the rolling stock of the livery stables of Wright, Coxand Shannahan, all furnishing horses, mules, wagons, omnibuses, carriages, &c., &c. On the way up, somewhere about Skipton, Shannahan's omnibus accidentally capsized, and Mr. Philemon Floyd, barber and professor of sensorial accomplishments, who went along to put the final finishing touch on the decoration, was thrown high up in the air, with arms and legs extended, and came down with such force, it is thought the spring rains will not be equal to the task of washing his profile out of the Skipton clay. Phil. soon got up all right, and was gratified to learn that his extensive shaving apparatus had escaped uninjured. The sympathies of our dramatic company were wonderfully excited over one poor drunken fellow from Chiltech Hill, who fell off his seat, so delighted was he at the music of the band. There were not a few things to amuse the visitors, the most noteworthy was a Newfoundland dog fight in the market house. A large crowd witnessed the performance, and one of the Baltimore boys declares it the biggest dog fight he ever saw. The beasts fought more like bears than dogs. Centreville, he says, is a hard place on a dog fight. The Band gave a general serenade early Thursday evening, which was greatly enjoyed by the citizens. The ladies expressed their delight by waving their handkerchiefs. The Mozarts are very tender on their cambric, and such a profession of it would be a strong temptation to play themselves to death. It is estimated that there were over 1000 visitors in Centreville on Thursday. On their way home on Thursday night, two of the Band carriages collided at Wye Mills, and the baggage wagon was so disabled that it took all night to repair it. It reached home about 2 P. M. on Friday. Our local option boys say there was very little drunkenness in Centreville on Thursday, which struck them as wonderful, considering that apple jack was abundant in town, and free to all that would pay for it. Of course our boys wouldn't even look towards a place where it is sold. All agree that wheat on the road between Easton and Centreville looks well. Mr. Charles Bethell, near Wye Mills, has a splendid field. Mr. James E. Cahel, who got his arm sprained when Shannahan's omnibus turned over, is better, thanks to a free use of tincture of arnica. It is not true that Mr. Cahel's arm was sprained by attempting to catch Mr. Floyd as he descended from above; the sprain was caused by Mr. Cahel's own heavy body falling on his delicate arm, while the omnibus was in a state of revolution.
