BUMPER GETS A BUMP

Senator Penrose was stepping from an elevator in the capitol when a man bound upward sought to enter the cage. He gave Penrose a stiff bump along the belt line.

Without hesitation or comment Penrose reached out, placed his hands under the arms of the bumper and threw him against the adjacent doors of the Military Affairs committee room. He landed with such force as to jostle his teeth.

"Who was that?" inquired the man who had been shaken up.

Senator Penrose," was the answer.

"Penrose?" exclaimed the man in astonishment. "He is sure some strong man. I thought he was sick!"

MAKING BAD MEN GOOD

Effective Revolutionary Method Use by the Salvation Army in Prison Work.

During the last year The Salvation Army has found employment and given financial aid to 2,800 discharged prisoners. The old story of the man who cannot find a job because he has "done time" is a thing of the past, for The Salvation Army is always willing to find him employment. The old tale of the convict who is driven back to crime through poverty and friendlessness is out of date, for The Salvation Army is daily applying its theories of practical Christianity to the prison problem.

In 383 prisons and reformatories during the last year, 8,000 religious meetings were held under the auspices of the Salvation Army. They were attended by more than 260,000 prisoners and more than 9,500 men and women declared their intention of becoming self-respecting and useful members of society.

Nor does The Salvation Army confine its prison activities to convicts and ex-convicts. The entire family is frequently cared for and protected by The Salvation Army. Food is provided where there is want, shelter is given to the homeless, and a spirit of forgiveness is instilled in order that the family may be ready to welcome the transgressor on the day of his release.

In connection with the work of The Salvation Army, both inside and outside of the prison gates, some of the most remarkable stories might be told. Among the conversions made during the last year are some of the most notorious criminals in the United States—men who were old-timers hardened offenders who had spent the major portion of their adult years behind bars. And in almost every instance the conversion has been sincere. Out of the scores placed on parole to The Salvation Army from every State and every county during the last year, only eight per cent. of the entire number failed to make good, the remaining ninety-two per cent. report regularly to The Salvation Army once each month and are quickly becoming hard-working, self-respecting men and women.

Among the recent activities of the Prison Department of The Salvation Army is the Lifer's Club, an organization composed exclusively of the 152 men who are serving life terms in the penal institutions of this country. The purpose of the club is to give the lifer something to occupy his mind—something to keep him in contact with fellow prisoners in other institutions and with the outside world. The officers of the organization are lifers, the members are lifers, and it will not be long before a magazine, edited by lifers, will be circulated by The Salvation Army through every prison in the United States, as a message of cheer for the present and hope for the future.

MATERNITY HOSPITALS

For the suffering womanhood of the world the Salvation Army has established a chain of Maternity Hospitals, where the girls, betrayed, deserted, without money, home and friends, may find a refuge and medical attention. While here, every effort is put forth toward their regeneration—the first step in which is the future care of their babies. When physically fit to go out, they are sent out to situations with their babies, which they are urged to keep and support, or they are sent back to their parents and friends.

During the past year 7103 were received into these homes of whom 6408, or 90 per cent., returned to self sustaining lives of respectability.

Another feature of the Maternity Hospital is that section set apart for the respectable woman of moderate circumstances who may here obtain a room and the attention and nursing during her confinement at a low charge, that she could not possibly afford in the regular hospitals.

The Salvation Army has also created a little club in each Rescue Home and Maternity Hospital by means of which it is able to keep in touch with the girls who have found a haven in these hospitals in their time of great trouble. This is called the 'Out-of-Love-Circle' and its members are the girls whose little nameless babies first saw light of day in a Salvation Army Maternity Hospital.

They meet once a month in each of the 23 cities in this country in which there is located a Salvation Army Rescue Home for women.

All employed in positions, most of which the Army has secured for them, and all making good; they come back to their meetings out of love, they feel for what was done for them, and thus try to show it by helping the inmates of the homes toward getting new hope for the future.

This is one of the reasons why more than 85 per cent. of all the women and girls who are graduates of the Salvation Army's 26 institutions for erring girls are now supporting themselves and their children.

A Nation-Wide Employment Bureau

With the return of the discharged soldier from overseas the problems of employment, unemployment and proper employment rose to paramount importance, where they have remained ever since. All organizations that were at all qualified to cope with the problems lent every effort, but none of them worked more effectively than the Salvation Army.

It was not a new work for the Salvation Army, merely an old job enlarged and broadened. For many years through many an unemployment crisis the organization has successfully conducted what is probably one of the most efficient interstate employment agencies with branches in every large city throughout the length and breadth of the land.

During the last year The Salvation Army found employment for 65,000 men and women. The positions found ranged anywhere from the lowest positions of unskilled labor to the most highly specialized professional work with, of course, a great preponderance toward the former, for in employment as in everything else the primary object of The Salvation Army is to help those who cannot help themselves.

Nor does the work of The Salvation Army stop with fitting the job to the man. It makes the man fit the job as well. Those who apply for work shabby and down at the heel are given good clothing and neat shoes in order that they may apply for the positions to which the Army sends them with no physical handicaps. Scores of soldiers discharged from the army with little or no money have found a warm friend, financial aid and a free suit of civilian clothes in The Salvation Army Employment Bureau.

Here is a real paint—

When you pay out real money for paint, you naturally expect to get real paint. You should insist on good spreading and covering capacities, permanent colors and long life.

If the paint you have been using in the past didn't come up to your expectations, you haven't been using Lowe Brothers High Standard.

You pay more for this paint per gallon, but less per job. Come in and let us explain the difference between cheap paint and paint that is really cheap. We have some literature that you'll find interesting, too.
