UNCLE TED'S BED TIME STORIES

BRINGING PROFITEERS TO JUSTICE

"If they aren't worse they sure are just as bad. I think the fellows who got rich because they dind't play fair with the government during the war are worse than the fellows who tried to get out of fighting." It was Jack talking on his side of an argument in which he was rapidly winning over one of his chums, Johnny Jones.

"But, Jack," said Johnny, "the fellows who wouldn't fight ought to have been sent to jail. Suppose every fellow had said he wouldn't fight?

"Well, where have you been?" asked Jack. "Don't you know that lots and lots of fellows who wouldn't fight were sent to jail? I know Uncle Ted told me that they were treated pretty nice by former Secretary of War Baker, but they were sent to jail and that's more than you can say for the war grafter's."

"You're right, Jack," interjected Uncle Ted who had just arrived on the scene. "About the only punishment the war profiteers have received has been to pay an income tax on the great amount of money they made out of the war. And, of course, everyone has to pay an income tax, so that doesn't mean anything. I think the meanest type of man on earth was the man who used the requirements of the great war to cheat the government and the people. Instead of giving, fighting, and helping to the limit when the country needed help as it never had needed it before, these men actually made it harder to win the war, and at the same time kept rolling the money into their own pockets.

"I can't help but remember just one little thing from the war that was the result of profiteering. You know it rained and rained and rained in France and if the doughboys needed anything they needed protection from the rain. But you should have seen some of the raincoats made after the war started and issued to the men in France. They hardly reached their knees and were nearly as thin as tissue paper. Somebody must have made a nice pile of money on that.

"But kiddies, I feel better today about this thing than I have for a long time because the time is coming very soon when these men will be brought to task for their actions. Ever since the war there has been a lot of talk about going after these war grafters. The late attorney general, Mr. Palmer, did a lot of talking but stopped there, too. However, Mr. Palmer and his associates do not count for anything now and I know that for a long time some earnest quiet work has been going on in preparation for the work of bringing these men to task and making them square things with the government and the people.

"Attorney General Daugherty, head of the Department of Justice, is going to see that justice is done. He is not going to conduct a tea party. It is going to be real business and he is going to go the limit in making the war grafters square things. It seems that for some time he has had an investigation made of the various kinds of contracts for war supplies and they have found such a tremendous number of grafting cases that a special bureau must be established to handle the job. And they are not going after the little grafters. The big fellows are the ones who will be brought to justice."

"I heard that there were hundreds of millions of dollars paid out of the Treasury that were not fair profits," said Jack.

"Yes, Jack, I guess it was so much that it is hard to realize, but if Attorney General Daugherty succeeds, and I think he will, that money will be returned to the government. In his statement on this subject made after a conference with President Harding, Mr. Daugherty said something about the draft dodgers. I'll read it to you:

"'How are we going to justify the action of the government in sending men to jail for trying to render the draft law ineffective, when we are letting certain kinds of men go free, after they have mulcted the government and the people of unimaginable sums?'

"If these men think the present administration is going to stand for what they did, they have another think coming. It is going to take a lot of hard work to bring about justice in this matter, but Mr. Daugherty is bringing big men to help him. In fact right now Mr. Daugherty is trying to find big men to take charge of this work. In his work of organizing the special bureau to prosecute these cases, Mr. Daugherty will have the aid of Col. William Hayward, Federal district attorney of New York, who will have charge of all cases that will come up in New York."

"How about the business men who took fair profits and even gave the government supplies at a loss?" asked Jack. "I hope they will give those men credit."

"Don't worry about that, Jack. Mr. Daugherty is well aware that there were hundreds of patriotic American business men whose first thought was for America and backing up the fighting forces, and whose last thoughts were of their pocket books. He will see that those men are protected. Listen to what he says about that:

"'Business men who served their government faithfully and took only fair profits to which they were entitled have nothing to fear now. The many thousands of men in this class need not be uneasy that charges that may be found later to be false, will be used against them.'

"I'm mighty glad that these grafters are going to get it," said Jack.

"So am I," said Ruth

"Yes, children, it is the only fair and square thing and Mr. Daugherty is to be congratulated on his efforts and splendid plans to work it out."

A SOLDIER BOY AT REST

Herman L. Wilson Died in France.

The following account of the burial of the remains of Herman L. Wilson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Wilson, formerly of Carroll county, who was killed in France, is taken from a Franklin Grove, Illinois newspaper and sent to the Sentinel for publication:

"Friday evening, on the 7:56 train the body of Herman L. Wilson—the first Lee County soldier of the World War to die in France—arrived home. The body was taken in charge by several members of the local American Legion, who assisted Undertaker H. N. Bratton. The outer casket carried the flag, while the inner one was made of metal. The body was accompanied to Franklin Grove by Pvt. Kay Henrikson of Service Battery, 3rd. Field Artillery, Camp Grant.

Herman Lesley Wilson was born in Westminster, Carroll county, Md., on March 9, 1899, and died in Base Hospital No. 18, France, on May 10, 1918, at the age of 19 years, 2 months and 1 day.

He was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Wilson, and came to Franklin Grove with his parents when he was five years old. In 1910, the family moved to North Dakota, but four years later returned to Franklin Grove, where the deceased resided until his enlistment in the Marine Corps on March 23, 1917. He entrained at Chicago for Quantico, Va., where he served with the 80th Co., 6th Reg., Marines, until January 19, 1918, when he went with his company to France. His health had been constantly demanding hospital treatment, but was much improved when the company embarked. However, he contracted a cold, which developed complications from which he could not recover. Besides his parents, the deceased leaves two brothers, Willard of New Jersey, and Eldon at home. He was a member of the local lodge of Mystic Workers, and was a member of the Brethren church.

Deceased was the third Franklin Grove boy to enter Uncle Sam's service after war was declared, and was under the age of enlistment, hence had to obtain the written consent of his mother to join.

Funeral services were conducted in the Brethren church Sunday afternoon, Rev. O. D. Buck officiating, being assisted by Rev. C. M. Suter. Altenburg Post No. 497 of the American Legion formed a military escort for the body, the following members serving as pallbearers: Roy Shoemaker, Charles Baker, George Spangler, Charles Schmucker, Walter Heckman and Medric Hussey. A large crowd gathered at the church to pay their last respects to the dead hero. Beautiful floral tributes spoke their silent reverence and esteem for the departed, while the heavy steel casket was draped in the Stars and Stripes."
